INVITES CHIEFS OF CONGRESS TO NIGHT MEETING

New White House Drive on Slump.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Legislative steps to speed up economic recovery both here and abroad will be topics at an informal White House discussion tomorrow night.

Leaders, both Republican and Democratic, in both houses of congress have been summoned to Washington by the President for the parley, which was called for the purpose of "securing unity of action" in dealing with economic problems growing out of events in Europe which affect economic conditions in the United States.

Among those summoned to the conference are Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], Representative John Q. Tilson [Rep., Conn.], and Representative John N. Garner [Dem., Tex.].

Expect Important Statement.

The conference is expected to be followed by a statement of outstanding public importance. It is understood it will deal with a matter of pressing domestic concern, and may also have a bearing on the extension of the Hoover moratorium on war debts and reparations, which normally would end on the first of next July.

It is considered certain that the President will call for congressional coöperation in dealing with the economic situation and may go so far as to urge senate and house leaders to agree to a political truce until after the passage of legislation which he deems necessary in dealing with the current depression.

Confers With Bankers.

It became known tonight that late last night Mr. Hoover had a conference with a small but powerful group of Wall street bankers.

The meeting, which was not held at the White House, was surrounded with great secrecy. Bankers who are believed to have been present declined today to discuss the matter, but four of the country's most powerful financiers gathered at the Federal Reserve bank of New York today and talked the subject over.

At the meeting at the Federal Reserve bank in New York were George Whitney, partner of J. P. Morgan & Co.; Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the governing board of the Chase National bank; Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City bank, and William C. Potter, president of the Guaranty Trust company.

Pressure by Bankers.

Much pressure has been exerted on the White House in recent weeks by American bankers, who take the position that the debt holiday must be extended if European economic recovery is to be expedited. The late Senator Dwight Morrow, who figured in the war debt and reparations discussions, was in conference late last week with Secretary Stimson and Secretary Mellon, the White House spokesmen abroad during the moratorium negotiations.

One view which has been presented is that by extending the moratorium for an additional two years a stabilizing effect would halt the short selling which is driving down stock quotations.

It has also been suggested that the federal reserve banks might be granted more liberal powers of rediscount, relieving the commercial banks and permitting them to extend further credits.

Proposals for a naval building holiday, it is expected, also will be taken up with congressional leaders by the President in urging economy during the coming session.

Nurse Slugged in Mystery Attack; Prowler Blamed

Miss Dorothy Collier, 23 years old, a nurse in the Postgraduate hospital, went to a linen closet in the third floor of the hospital building yesterday for supplies. While she was getting them some one slipped up and struck her on the head with a bottle. She fell unconscious. Hospital attachés were of the opinion she had been slugged by a man about 40 years old who had been seen prowling through the halls.

STOCKS AGAIN FALL AS SELLING ORDERS INCREASE ALL DAY

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—With further drastic cuts in the prices of stocks from $2 to $10 a share in a demoralized stock market weighted down by persistent heavy liquidation and the air full of alarming rumors, today was one of the darkest days of the bear market.

The market went into a decline immediately after the opening gong under the weight of large selling orders accumulated since the close Saturday morning and conditions became steadily worse until at the close the atmosphere in the street was heavily charged with uncertainty and selling orders were pouring into the exchange in an unbroken stream.

The day's decline erased millions of dollars from the market value of listed stocks.

Closing prices of some of the leaders were as follows: General Motors, 22½, off ⅝; General Electric, 24¾, off 1⅛; Westinghouse Electric, 29⅜, off 2; Bethlehem Steel, 25¼, off 1; Sears Roebuck, 31, off 1¼; Montgomery Ward, 8⅛, off 1½; Case Threshing Machine, 35⅝, off 4½; Consolidated Gas, 61¼, off 4⅜; Atchison, 97½, off 5¼; Radio, 10⅞, off 1⅛; and American Tobacco B, 72, off 3¼.

CHICAGO PASSES GOTHAM CENSUS OF THE DIVORCED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—(AP)—In at least one population count Chicago surpasses New York—the number of persons divorced.

A census bureau tally today showed 17,288 men and 22,532 women in the divorced ranks in the midwest metropolis, a 39,820 total, as against New York's 23,071—10,677 men and 17,394 women.

New York's population of marriageable age totaled 5,242,262 as against Chicago's 2,562,886, a clear indication that the lesser number of divorces in the larger city was not governed by the law of averages but by New York's stringent divorce law.

In turn, Chicago's high mark was almost equaled by Los Angeles with 39,370 divorces in a marriageable population less by 1,567,940 than that of Chicago.

Hold Out Hope for Peace at Movie Parley

Representatives of the Independent Theater Owners' association and the Motion Picture Operators' union, unable to agree on a compromise that would result again in the employment of union men in the theaters, adjourned at 1 a. m. today after a conference that had lasted more than eight hours.

Hope was held out that when the meeting is resumed at 2 o'clock this afternoon proposals that will meet the approval of both sides will be made.

Some concessions already have been made, it was stated. The union operators' representatives suggested that about twenty-five theaters which are not prosperous be permitted to hire but one operator each, with the owner-operator filling the second place in the booth. They were said also to be willing to accept wage reductions ranging from 10 to 25 per cent. They were adamant, however, on the demand that there must be two men in each projection booth.

Demands of the Owners.

The owners held that more than twenty-five theaters should be given the one-man standing. They also demanded that the union fix a new and lower wage scale to extend beyond Jan. 11. All the union offers were to cover only the period that ends on that date. Union representatives asserted they are forbidden by their by-laws to make agreements beyond it.

The meeting was held in the office of Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton and was called by Mayor Cermak. Mr. Sexton warned the negotiators at the start that the public as well as themselves was vitally interested in an early settlement.

Mayor Eager to End Dispute.

He said the mayor was anxious to bring about an agreement in order to end the series of bombings in connection with the controversy.

Representing the theaters were Aaron Saperstein and Attorneys Howard Ellis and Theodore Levin, and speaking for the union were Thomas Reynolds, Ralph O'Hara, Thomas D. Nash, and Emmett Quinn. Quinn charged that union men had been approached with offers of bribery to influence them in permitting the hiring of only one operator to a theater.

Strike in Springfield.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Union operators in three local theaters went on strike yesterday when the management refused to renew contracts calling for a maintenance man in addition to the regular operator.

WRITER SHOOTS HIMSELF BEFORE PARIS SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 5.—The play, "Gen Boulanger," almost completed a successful first night before an elegant audience of Paris society folk tonight when suddenly Alexander Debray, well known writer, jumped up in the first row of the balcony, declared in a loud voice that the co-author, Pierre Mortier, had ruined him, and shot himself in the abdomen.

With the house in an uproar and women screaming, the curtain was rung down and Prefect of Police Chiappe, who was among the audience, took charge. Debray was rushed to a hospital. His condition is critical.

Choosing a dramatic moment of the play when Gen. Boulanger was kneeling by the bedside of Mme. de Bonnemain, who had just expired, Debray shouted:

"One does not die only of love. I am going to die because of Pierre Mortier, who ruined me."

BURIES $13,000, ALL HER MONEY; NOW IT'S GONE

Lack of confidence in banks and a belief that she could care for her own money cost Mrs. Antoinette Lulinski, 68 years old, 3816 Houston avenue, her life savings of $13,000. She reported the loss to the South Chicago police last night.

Mrs. Lulinski said she became worried over reports of bank failures last summer. Her husband died two years ago and the only money she had was the $13,000 in cash in a safe deposit box of the Calumet National bank.

Despite the advice of her banker she withdrew the money and buried it in the basement. When she returned on Aug. 11 from a visit with a daughter in Michigan she found the money gone. Thinking that a member of the family might have taken it she waited to discover any evidence of new riches. When no clue presented itself she reported her loss to the police.

$800 Put in Police Station for "Safety" Is Stolen

Cleveland, O., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Theft of between $800 and $850 from the safe in the 11th precinct police station was reported tonight when William L. Moore, principal of John Hay High school, called for the money and police officials found it had vanished. The money, obtained as night school tuition, was collected Friday night and taken to the police station because there is no burglar proof safe in the high school.

Predict Jury Will Be Chosen Before Night

Al Capone, chief of Chicago gangdom during its years of greatest prosperity, will go to trial today on charges of defrauding the United States government of income taxes. The opening of this case, which promises to become a center of world attention, marks a high point in the federal prosecutions of Chicago gangsters and politicians for violation of the income tax law.

The federal building seethed with activity yesterday as all was placed in readiness for the opening of the trial at 10 o'clock this morning in the courtroom of Judge James H. Wilkerson. During the day a special venire of eighty men was called and applications to be excused from jury service were passed on by the court.

Only 18 Excuses Accepted.

Only the most urgent excuses were considered by Judge Wilkerson, and although approximately fifty of the veniremen expressed a desire to be excused, only eighteen were successful. In the event that the remaining sixty-two veniremen are exhausted before a jury is agreed upon, there are seventy-five others available on the regular venire in Federal Judge John P. Barnes' court.

The defense is entitled to ten and the government to six peremptory challenges, which would leave forty-six of the prospective jurors on the special venire who could be eliminated for cause only. The prosecutors are confident that a jury will be chosen before today's session ends. Two or three hours have been time enough for jury selection in all previous income tax trials in the federal courts here.

Doctors' Letters Considered.

Letters from physicians were considered by Judge Wilkerson in hearing petitions for excuses from jury services. One man with ulcers of the stomach and another with illness in the family were excused.

A venireman from Genoa declared himself too poor to pay hotel expenses and he was excused. Maj. John H. Griffith, commissioner of athletics in the Western conference, was excused on grounds of urgent professional business.

"This is a busy season in the conference, judge," he explained.

J. Sanford Otis, an official of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, was excused when he told the court he had served on four juries during the last five years. Many of the veniremen sought to be excused for previous service, but they were told that the statute of limitations is one year."

There was no intimation from any

MORROW DEAD AFTER SUDDEN STROKE IN NIGHT

Found Dying in His Bedroom.

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Dwight W. Morrow, United States senator, and repeatedly mentioned as a possible future President of the United States, died unexpectedly at 1:52 p. m. today in his home at Englewood, N. J. The cause was cerebral hemorrhage. Senator Morrow was 58 years old.

The senator had addressed the dinner of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Charities in New York on Sunday night, and had returned home apparently in his usual good health and had retired soon after midnight.

His illness was discovered at 11:45 this morning when his secretary, Arthur H. Springer, and his valet, S. S. Banks, entered his room to awaken him. They noticed that his breathing was labored and called medical help, but the senator died without gaining consciousness.

Wife at His Side.

Residing at the family home at the time were Mrs. Morrow and his daughter, Elisabeth Morrow; Mrs. A. H. Scandrett, a sister of the senator, and Mrs. Scandrett's daughter, Mrs. Lucien Greathouse, and a few close associates.

Another daughter, Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, is in China with her husband. Mrs. Morrow sent the Lindberghs a cablegram announcing the death. The youngest daughter, Miss Constance Morrow, was away at Smith college, and the senator's son, Dwight W. Morrow Jr., was at Amherst. Telegrams were sent them and they immediately started home.

It was announced on behalf of the family that funeral services would be held at the First Presbyterian church in Englewood at 3 p. m. Wednesday. The Rev. Dr. Carl Elmore, the pastor, will officiate.

Doctors Come Flying.

Dr. Walter Phillips of Englewood, the Morrow family physician, was called as soon as Mr. Morrow's illness was discovered and reached the bedside within ten minutes. His assistant, Dr. Alvin Cloud, also was called. Dr. Nellis B. Foster of New York, long a friend of the senator, also was summoned and hurried over to the Morrow home. There was nothing that could be done. The senator sank steadily to the end.

When the critical nature of the illness was realized members of the family and close friends were notified. Mrs. Morrow was playing golf on a course near her home and hurried to her husband's side. Miss Elisabeth Morrow was at the "little school" which she and Miss Constance Chilton, a close friend, conduct in Englewood, and she and Miss Chilton reached the house soon after noon.

A guard was established about the estate and only relatives and personal friends of the Morrows were permitted to enter the grounds.

Lamonts Early Callers.

Among those who called were Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., accompanied by Mrs. Lamont and their son, Thomas S. Lamont; Charles G. Du Bois, president of the Western Electric company, and Mr. and Mrs. John D. Kerr, long standing friends of the Morrows. Mayor Cornelius P. Kitchel of Englewood also called.

In midafternoon Dr. Elmore held with Mrs. Elmore. He said afterward that Mrs. Morrow was bearing up well and characterized her as "a good soldier."

Senator Morrow's death came at the climax of a period of intense activity. It was learned also that on Sept. 19, while he and his family were vacationing in Maine, he was stricken with what physicians call a "cerebral episode," which may have been a forerunner of today's fatal stroke. The senator was on a friend's yacht when he suddenly lost the use of one arm and one leg. He laughed about it and lay down on the deck. In ten minutes his sudden illness had vanished.

The calls on the senator's time and energy were enormous. He was very active in the campaign for the governorship being waged by his friend, ex-Senator David Baird Jr. A week ago he conferred with Mr. Baird and other New Jersey Republican leaders on a proposal to petition President Hoover to call a special session of congress to permit the manufacture and sale of 4 per cent beer as a remedy for unemployment.

Saturday afternoon Senator Morrow gave a reception at his home to 5,000 Bergen county Republicans as a rally for Senator Baird. He shook hands with most of his visitors and when the guests were gone his right hand was blistered, although otherwise he seemed to have withstood the ordeal very well. That same evening he addressed 1,000 Baird followers dining at the Swiss chalet, near Hackensack. Sunday afternoon he reviewed the 104th engineers in Englewood.

Monday night he took part in the launching of the campaign of the Jewish philanthropic societies for funds to relieve distress, at which he made the last speech and the last public appearance of his active and varied life.

Benevolence His Last Plea.

At that dinner he uttered the following challenge to the benevolence of his hearers:

"I say that it is impossible that the difficulties that rest upon you can be any greater than the difficulties that rested upon the noble men and women who founded those organizations with much less adequate resources than you have, even in this period of depression."

Senator Morrow also was to have had a luncheon conference today with ten of the leading aviation manufacturers of the country at his home in Englewood and had other conferences scheduled for the day. The table was set for the luncheon when it was learned that Senator Morrow was gravely ill.

Planned Business Luncheon.

The luncheon was canceled and as many of the guests as possible were informed by telephone, but some of them could not be reached and knew of their host's illness only when they reached the gate of the estate.

Senator Morrow's death brought an outpouring of condolences from the great figures of the world. President Hoover praised his "generous character as a neighbor and a friend." Others referred to his high public service and called him a man whom the world could ill afford to lose at this crisis. Those expressing their sorrow included members of the President's cabinet, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain, Ambassadors Charles G. Dawes and Walter E. Edge, President Rubio of Mexico, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, and Gov. Morgan F. Larson of New Jersey.

BORN IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Dwight Whitney Morrow was born at Huntington, W. Va., Jan. 11, 1873, the fourth of eight children. His father, James Elmore Morrow, was president of Marshall college and was a man of broad intellectual sympathies and vigorous personality. His mother died a few years ago at the age of 83 years. When Dwight Morrow was still a child the family moved to Pittsburgh, Pa. There he graduated from high school with high scholastic honors at the age of 14 and spent the four years following his graduation from high school working as an errand boy and clerk in the county treasurer's office in Pittsburgh.

He entered Amherst college in 1891. His fellow students included Calvin Coolidge and Harlan F. Stone, now a justice of the United States Supreme court. Mr. Morrow's record at Amherst was one of splendid scholarship. As his family had little money it was necessary for him to finance himself in college to a very large extent.

A year later he entered Columbia law school in New York, where he paid his way largely by tutoring other students. Here again he stood very high in his class. He was graduated in 1895.

Becomes Morgan Partner.

He had lived in Englewood, in Bergen county, New Jersey, for the last twenty-six years, ever since he first settled there with his wife immediately after their marriage.

While carrying on his widespread civic activities in New Jersey and his home town of Englewood, Mr. Morrow was at the same time establishing a record in finance and law as a negotiator and conciliator of great ability. His work on many large public problems brought him into close contact with Thomas W. Lamont, the late Henry P. Davison, and other partners in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. As a result of these contacts he was invited to become a partner in the great banking house.

When a little past his fortieth year Mr. Morrow entered the Morgan firm and continued his habit of solving problems which became larger as the years passed.

With the entrance of the United States into the world war he was appointed by Secrtary of the Treasury McAdoo to be head of the war savings campaign in New Jersey, and in this capacity effectively organized the bankers of the state in the national thrift campaign.

When the war dragged on and the problems it engendered were multiplying on every hand he was sent abroad by President Wilson as a member of the vital commissions on allied shipping, known as the allied maritime transport council and the allied board of supply.

Mr. Morrow was made civilian aid to Gen. Pershing and Pershing personally presented to Mr. Morrow the distinguished service medal awarded by the United States government.

When the appointment of Dwight Morrow as ambassador to Mexico was announced it was received with extraordinarily widespread approval not only by the Republican press but by the Democratic and liberal journals as well.

Widespread antagonism had been aroused in the United States by a threat by Mexico to confiscate huge American properties in Mexico under the so-called alien land law.

Within two weeks after his arrival in Mexico City Mr. Morrow tackled the oil problem and by Nov. 17 a decision by the Supreme court of Mexico had taken most of the teeth out of the 1925 petroleum law. Shortly after this the president submitted an amendment to his congress to bring the petroleum law in line with the court's decision. Before the new ambassador had been at his post two months a controversy of thirteen years' duration, which had been the cause of seemingly endless friction and ill will, was well on the way to a settlement.

Lindbergh Marriage.

Of all his acts while he was ambassador, however, the one which was attended by the greatest public notice occurred on February 12, 1929. He had called representatives of the newspapers and press associations to his office on that day and when they were assembled he handed them typewritten slips announcing the engagement of his daughter, Anne Spencer Morrow, to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Then he sat back, smiling, and declined to discuss the engagement, wedding date or other details of the romance. It was the beginning of that frenzied barrage of parried interviews which culminated in the encampment of reporters at the Morrow gates in Englewood and the surprise marriage of Miss Morrow and the Colonel on May 27, 1929.

Mexico Regards Morrow's Death as Loss of True Friend

BY JOHN CORNYN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 5.—News of the death of Dwight W. Morrow spread through the capital. All officials expressed sorrow and called Morrow a friend of Mexico. From the cabinet ministers also came expressions of sympathy for Mrs. Morrow and family.

"So outstanding was the role played by Dwight Morrow in Mexico he became at once a prospective candidate for the presidency of the United States," said this evening's El Grafico. "It is unnecessary to comment here on the efficacy and earnestness with which he played the part of ambassador, always with an understanding heart and a desire for fair play, always coöperating with good will to bring the nations together in lasting friendship.

"His work was of vast importance in creating the international harmony now existing between the United States and Mexico, and was all the more notable because almost insurmountable obstacles were in his way. We deeply deplore the death of a great and true friend of Mexico."

Well Liked in England.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—News of Senator Dwight W. Morrow's death was received with the deepest sorrow by British public men who came in contact with him during the London naval negotiations and by financiers who had known and admired him for years.

Perhaps the most vivid indication of British regard for Mr. Morrow was the farewell at Waterloo station eighteen months ago, when the naval conference was over and the American delegation left for home. Members of parliament, cabinet ministers, ambassador, all were in the throng at the station and all gravitated toward the gray haired little financier who somehow had dominated the negotiations and become one of the best liked figures the United States ever sent to London.

Ambassador Dawes is saddened, for he and Morrow were not only associated in diplomacy but friends for many years.

"Dwight Morrow's death at the threshold of a great career of public usefulness is a loss not only to our nation but to the world," the ambassador said.

Berlin Says "Loss to World."

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—The death of Senator Dwight W. Morrow is taken in Germany as a great loss to the world.

"Senator Morrow died at the very moment when called upon for the second time to take a hand in shaping the foreign policy of his country," the Tageblatt says. "President Hoover called him in order to listen to his advice before taking measures against the world depression which had been expected for a long time. The death of this business man diplomat is a grave loss not only to the United States but to the whole world, as the keynote of his political credo was co-operation."

A sound picture portraying the performance of an operation by Prof. Harold O. Jones, associate professor of gynecology at Northwestern university, will be shown to the staff in the Garfield Park hospital on Oct. 9. This was announced yesterday by Dr. John J. Pflock, president of the hospital.

HERE'S ADVICE MORROW GAVE SON IN COLLEGE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—(AP)—From Dwight W. Morrow, New Jersey senator who died today, to Dwight W. Morrow Jr., his son, went the following advice of a father to a son entering Amherst college:

"Two kinds of people make up this world: One kind does things; the other kind claims credit for doing things. The second class is pretty well crowded, but there's plenty of room for you in the first class."

O'Donnell Brothers' Beer Hearing Set for Oct. 14

A hearing on charges of possession of liquor against Thomas and Percy O'Donnell, brothers of Edward "Spike" O'Donnell, south side gang leader, was set for Oct. 14, yesterday by United States Commissioner Edward K. Walker. They were released on bonds of $1,000 each. Sergt. James Keeley of the Gresham police captured the O'Donnell brothers Saturday afternoon as they were about to drive a truck loaded with nine barrels of beer from a garage at West 81st street and South Ashland avenue.

Dies of Wound Received When He Resists Holdup

Joseph Cichy, 23 years old, 1231 West Erie street, who was shot at Erie street and Racine avenue Sunday evening, died early this morning at the Bridewell hospital. He told the police after reaching the hospital that he had been wounded when he resisted a robbery. Two men who identity was not learned took Cichy to the Jefferson Park hospital.

Murder Trial of Clark Has Wedding as Sequel

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Mildred Rohrback, attractive witness in the murder trial of former Deputy District Attorney David Clark, today announced that she had been married last Friday at Tia Juana, Mexico, to Ed Dudley, recently a Chicago detective, who was assigned as a guard for Miss Rohrback prior to trial.

MORROW DEATH CREATES A TIE IN THE SENATE

News Is a Shock to the President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Dwight Morrow's sudden death at a time when he was regarded as the most likely Republican candidate for the presidency in 1936 came as a profound shock to the national capital and brought forth instant expressions of deep regret on the part of the highest officials of the government.

President Hoover was informed on the train returning from the world series baseball game in Philadelphia. He was deeply moved. Later he wired this statement:

"The country has suffered a great loss in the death of Senator Morrow. His loyal and generous character as a neighbor and a friend; his public spirit as a citizen; his service during the war; his accomplishments as ambassador to Mexico; his unique contribution to the success of the London naval conference—are the record of that sort of American who makes our country great."

Mr. Morrow's death leaves a situation unparalleled so far as is known in the history of American congresses. At this moment, due to the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Morrow, an exact tie exists in the voting strength of the two great parties in both legislative branches.

47 to 47 in Senate.

The linsup in the senate, which convenes Dec. 7, is composed of 47 Republicans, 47 Democrats, one Farmer-Labor member, and one vacancy. The house at present stands at 214 Republicans, 214 Democrats, one Farmer-Labor member, and six vacancies. Both ties will be broken, but for the moment this unique condition prevails.

As Mr. Morrow's death comes too late for the calling of a special election to name a successor before November, 1932, the governor of New Jersey will shortly appoint a Republican to fill the vacancy, giving the Republicans control on paper. Special elections to be held in the next few weeks will fill house vacancies and possibly leave the Democrats with a majority sufficient to elect a speaker.

Throughout political Washington Mr. Morrow had been regarded as a strong possibility for the Republican vice presidency next year in event President Hoover was renominated. He was looked upon as the shining hope of the wets for the 1932 presidential race, although since entering the senate a year ago Mr. Morrow had taken little part in their counsels.

Visited Hoover Friday.

Only last Friday he was in Washington to confer with President Hoover and Secretary Stimson on current foreign problems. He had been counted on to take an outstanding part during the coming visit of Premier Laval of France.

Public officials today unanimously termed his death a national calamity. Some of the comments follow:

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson—I cannot express the shock with which the news of Mr. Morrow's death has just come to me. I feel the greatness of the loss to the American people of a man who had every qualification of wise and resourceful leadership, who never failed to respond to a call to service, however difficult, on behalf of his country and who performed with the highest qualifications of statesmanship many great and responsible tasks. It is a tragedy of the first order that just at this time our country should be deprived of his services in work in which he would have had so invaluable a part.

Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont—I am deeply shocked and distressed over the untimely death of Senator Dwight W. Morrow. His untimely demise is nothing short of a tragedy, representing a great loss to the country.

Attorney William D. Mitchell—Senator Morrow had an exceptionally brilliant mind, sound judgment, and vision. In these troubled times such a man as he cannot well be spared.

Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon—I am deeply distressed to hear of the death of Senator Morrow. He was a man of extraordinary mental powers and of the highest integrity, which, combined with his wide experience in business and public affairs and his rare personal charm, made him a dominant figure in Washington and in our national life. Such a man can ill be spared, especially at such a time as this. His death is a great loss to his country.

GOV. MURRAY STANDS ON HEAD FOR GOV. BRYAN

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Gov. Murray of Oklahoma stood on his head today.

With coat tails dangling about his ears, he took the position for a minute on the lawn at the Nebraska executive mansion. He was visiting Gov. and Mrs. Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska.

Just as he stood on his feet again, newspaper photographers arrived.

"How'd you like to have a picture of that," he laughed.

All their eloquence failed to induce him to repeat the performance.

Two Evanston Couples Held Up by Four Robbers

Four armed robbers held up two men and two women in Evanston early today and escaped with clothing, money, and jewelry valued at $812. The victims were Chancellor Dougall, 1634 Lincoln street, and his wife, and George FitzSimons, 680 Hinman avenue, and his wife. The couples, returning from a theater in Dougall's car, drew up in front of the latter's home and were going into the house when the robbers approached. From the men they took their topcoats and wallets. The women were forced to give up their rings.

Holds Up Cafeteria While 75 Persons Are Dining

Seventy-five persons were eating in the Merit cafeteria, at 1113 East 63d street, last evening when a man with a pistol under his coat entered. Without attracting the attention of the customers he went up to the cashier, Miss Kathlyn Donovan, and, after warning her she would be shot if she screamed, walked out with $250.

Women Workers Ask Fewer Mexican Catholic Priests

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The National Congress of Women Workers and Peasants today approved a motion requesting a reduction in the number of Catholic priests in Mexico and the discharge from the government's employ of all members of the Knights of Columbus and all Catholic women.

LINDBERGHS GET NEWS ON BRITISH WARSHIP OFF CITY OF SHANGHAI

SHANGHAI, Oct. 5.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—The British naval wireless carried news of the death of Senator Dwight W. Morrow to his daughter and son-in-law, Anne and Charles Lindbergh, aboard the British aircraft carrier Hermes early today.

The Hermes was steaming slowly down the Yangtse estuary from Nanking and was scheduled to arrive at Woosung, at the mouth of the Whangpoo river, near Shanghai, at 5 p. m.

The Lindberghs' plans are uncertain in view of Senator Morrow's death.

It was arranged for the Lindberghs to land at Woosuoc at 5 p. m. today. Consul General Cunningham and members of his staff will meet the couple and bring them to Shanghai by automobile. All plans to entertain the couple at Shanghai were dropped.

It was not known here whether the Lindberghs would continue their aerial tour of China, although Mrs. Morrow cabled that it was unnecessary for them to hasten their return to America.

NAVAL AID TO HOOVER DIES IN AUTO ACCIDENT

His Speeding Car Upsets on a Curve.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Lieutenant Commander Hamilton Harlow, naval aide at the White House, was instantly killed early this morning when his automobile overturned on a curve on the Defense highway about 20 miles from here. Harlow was returning from Annapolis, where he had gone Saturday to witness a naval academy football game.

President Hoover immediately sent a telegram of condolence to the officer's father, Commodore Charles Henry Harlow, U. S. N., retired, who is at present visiting in San Francisco, although he makes his home here.

Officials of the navy department were advised that Harlow apparently had tried to make the curve at too great a speed. His body was taken to the naval academy hospital in Annapolis.

Lieutenant Commander Harlow has had a distinguished career in the navy, leaping into prominence during the world war when as executive officer of the U. S. S. Nicholson he participated in the only direct attack on a German submarine which was forced to surrender to an American war vessel. The Nicholson together with the U. S. S. Fanning, on Nov. 17, 1917, off the coast of Ireland, forced the German submarine U-58 to come to the surface and surrender. Harlow was decorated by the government for his part in this feat.

Lieutenant Commander Harlow was born in Annapolis, and was graduated from the U. S. naval academy in 1912.

LET DEPORTED COMMUNISTS GO TO RUSSIA HOME

New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Disclosure that the federal government has offered to permit foreign communists to go to Russia, instead of deporting them to their native countries, where they might face death penalties, was made today in connection with the case of Guido Serio, Italian communist.

Serio, who was arrested in Erie, Pa., and ordered deported, has been told he may go to Russia, but refused and is contesting the deportation order in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. A similar offer was made to Li Tao Hsuan, Chinese communist, who agreed to go to Russia and withdrew his appeal.

Youth's Death Attributed to Football Game Injury

William Steininger, 21 years old, 1900 South California avenue, died in the county hospital yesterday, apparently the victim of an injury received in a football game. An opponent's knee struck him in the stomach during a scrimmage between two neighborhood teams in Wells park, Montrose and Lincoln avenues.

SHOE STORE HELD UP.

Two robbers yesterday forced Nate Abelson, manager of the Grossman Shoe store at 911 East 63d street, to surrender $900 to them.

GOAT GLAND DOCTOR, BARRED IN U. S., WILL RADIO FROM MEXICO

Milford, Kas., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Dr. John R. Brinkley, whose Milford radio broadcasting license was revoked by the United States radio commission last year, announced today he is coming back on the air Oct. 31 via Mexico.

On that date, the "goat gland" specialist said, the new radio station at Villa Acuna, Mexico, opposite Del Rio, Tex., will be formally opened with a remote control program from Milford. The station, one of the most powerful on the continent, made a test broadcast last night.

Brinkley's license to practice medicine was revoked in Kansas for fraud and unprofessional conduct.

USE STRONGARM TO ROB NEW YORK MAN OF $100,000

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Resorting to the ancient "strong arm" method of subduing a victim, two young thugs held up Nathan Toplitt, a diamond importer, in the lobby of the office and loft building at 854 Broadway today, and robbed him of unset stones which detectives believe are probably worth $100,000.

The police record it as the biggest jewelry stickup since the war in which pistols were not used. There were no witnesses to the holdup, but the detectives, after an investigation, announced that they believed Mr. Toplitt's story. He was scarcely able to speak when first questioned, because of injuries.

INQUEST OVER SLAIN BANDIT.

A verdict of justifiable homicide was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the death of a bandit, Herbert Ziegler, 23 years old, 2415 West 46th street, who was shot and killed by Policeman William McAvoy Saturday night. The jury commended McAvoy.

RAID DANCE HALL, ARREST MANAGER AND LOCK DOORS

Acting on orders of Police Commissioner Allman, a squad from the Dan Plaines street station last night raided the Floridan dance hall at 670 West Madison street, placed the manager, Barney Garber, under arrest and, after marching all the patrons out, locked up the doors.

Garber was charged with operating a dance hall without a license. The license which the hall had was revoked on Sept. 29 by Mayor Cermak. Although the place had been protected against raids by an injunction restraining the police, Corporation Counsel Sexton had informed Commissioner Allman that this had no validity if the place was unlicensed.

The Floridan, it is said, is owned in part by Jimmy Adducci, who was mentioned in Mike de Pike Heitler's "letter from the grave" as one of those who should be blamed if Heitler were killed.

$250,000 RELIEF GIFT IS OFFERED BY ROSENWALD

Pledges Sum if 5 Others Will Give Same.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Julius Rosenwald tendered a gift of $250,000 yesterday for the relief of the unemployed and distressed of Cook county, according to the announcement of Robert M. Hutchins, chairman of the special gifts division. This offer is contingent, however, upon five other gifts of the same size.

JULIUS ROSENWALD. (Bachrach Photo.)

Mr. Rosenwald designed his offer to bring in $1,500,000 from six of Chicago's wealthiest citizens, including his own subscription.

The largest previous gift was from Cyrus H. McCormick, who subscribed $100,000 outright.

Mr. Rosenwald offer appeared to put more enthusiasm into the energetic Mr. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, who has been pressed the task of heading the drive for the well-to-do of the city.

Says Rosenwald Sets Pace.

"Mr. Rosenwald's splendid contingent pledge sets the pace for this campaign," said Mr. Hutchins. "There are other men in Chicago who can give amounts equal to that offer by Mr. Rosenwald, and we hope to get them.

"The well-to-do people of the county must realize that in this emergency they must not think in terms of their previous contributions to relief funds, but must give the largest amount possible.

"With the need for family relief now increased more than 300 per cent over what it was in the summer of 1930, the people of Chicago must be aroused as never before to meet the great task of caring for men, women, and children who are destitute."

Ten Give $340,000.

In addition to the $44,953.55 obtained through the Cubs-Sox charity baseball game, the Hutchins division has obtained $340,000 so far from 10 contributors.

"That average of $34,000 per individual," went on Mr. Hutchins, "is nothing short of remarkable. It shows that the people are not only concerned about the destitution which unemployment has caused but have a heart and are determined that the suffering this winter shall be held to a minimum."

The special gifts division is a part of the general campaign to raise $2,500,000, in charge of Samuel Insull jr. Aggressive soliciting will start in about 10 days.

Evanston Drive Starts.

The Central association of Evanston district began its campaign yesterday to gather in $150,000 through private subscriptions. Upwards of 50 women will canvass the 56 business houses and an estimated 5,000 possible subscribers. D. D. Fennell, organizing director of the campaign, says the association needs about $50,000 to carry on its work, which now cares for about 3,000 dependents. For the work of the Red Cross, Salvation Army, and Visiting Nurses' association about $18,500 more is required. The remainder obtained by the drive will be turned over to the joint emergency relief fund of Cook county.

A meeting was held last night of the speakers' division of the joint emergency relief organization, of which Hal M. Lytle is chairman. About 250 public speakers were at the meeting in the Hotel Sherman. These will carry the message of the emergency to business men's organizations, women's clubs, neighborhood organizations and like associations.

A meeting was held at Hull house last night under the auspices of the Chicago Workers' Committee on Unemployment. Five hundred attended and listened to addresses by Joel D. Hunter, the Rev. Harold M. Kingsley, Prof. Arthur Holt and Carl Borders. The speakers stressed the need of funds in excess of the $8,800,000, goal set for general relief work, and called for adherence to a plan for a special session of the legislature to provide funds for emergency relief. Roy McMillen presided as chairman of the meeting.

Ryerson Explains Methods.

Stuart L. Ryerson jr., head of the joint emergency relief organization, last night explained the purpose and methods of that organization, which seeks $3,500,000 for the work of the United Charities, Catholic charities, Jewish charities, Salvation Army, Red Cross, and sundry small relief organizations. Mr. Ryerson went on to explain:

"The joint campaign eliminates receiving giving by the individual to a profusion of relief efforts—many of which may be ineffective. The fund coördinates the five major relief agencies and more than 100 other agencies, so that there will be no duplication in providing relief. None of these major agencies will make any public campaign for funds during this fall or winter. We propose to control the situation so that the relief organizations will take care only of Cook county's own worthy residents, rather than countless outsiders who may flock in."

No Overhead, Says Insull.

Samuel Insull jr., in general charge of the drive for funds, added:

"The campaign for the relief fund is being conducted without overhead expense. Every cent collected will be turned over to the fund for relief work. Personnel, office space, and materials necessary for the campaign have been donated. Money collected will be allotted by the emergency organization to the relief agencies, which will carry on the actual work of administering relief to men, women, and children in dire need or destitute, and the overwhelming part of it will go for family relief."

ATLANTA MAYOR JOINS "IMPS OF HELL"; ALL THE IMPS ARE WET

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Criticizing those he described as "mountebanks who have exploited the prohibition question for their personal, political or financial benefit," Mayor James L. Key of Atlanta today accepted honorary membership in "The Imps of Hell, Inc.," anti-prohibition organization composed of American Legion members at Nashville, Tenn.

The mayor, who recently was ousted as a Bible class teacher because of his utterances criticizing prohibition, said he accepted "with pleasure" the invitation to join the organization, extended by E. F. Vegelpohl, the president.

Brown Turner of Nashville, one of the incorporators of "The Imps of Hell," said the name was selected from a phrase Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church, applied to members of the American Legion who voted at the Detroit convention to petition congress for a prohibition referendum.

Imps Are Rallying.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Groups in six cities have applied for permission to organize "pits" of the "Imps of Hell, Inc.," anti-prohibition organization, Brown Turner, secretary, said today.

The cities are Milwaukee, Detroit, Indianapolis, Portland, Me.; Memphis, and Columbia, Tenn.

COUNCIL BODY PUSHES FIGHT TO CUT GAS RATES

The city council committee on gas, oil, and electricity yesterday instructed the department of public service to cooperate with Corporation Counsel Sexton in opposing the new schedule of rates proposed by the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company in connection with the mixture of natural gas with its manufactured product in Chicago.

The committee directed that any plans for the employment of experts be submitted to it. Joseph F. Grossman, second assistant corporation counsel, who is in charge of the city's appearance in the case before the Illinois commerce commission, told the committee that experts probably would be hired to investigate the cost of natural gas as piped from Texas oil fields to Chicago.

Ald. Thomas J. Terrell [29th] cited a number of figures showing that other cities had obtained reductions of from 35 to 55 per cent when natural gas was piped to their mains. Such figures, Mr. Grossman pointed out, could not be used in the Chicago case unless expert testimony was introduced to back them.

WAUKEGAN GIRL ENDS LIFE UNDER WHEELS OF TRAIN

Miss Emogene Olson, 18 years old, stepped in front of a southbound limited train on the North Shore Electric line at Golf Road station, northwest of Waukegan, and was instantly killed yesterday.

W. P. Murphy, motorman, said the girl waited until the train was fifty feet from the station platform, then covered her eyes and stepped in its path. Relatives said that she left her home at 1005 Keither avenue in Waukegan yesterday morning, apparently in good spirits, to go to work in a Waukegan furniture store, where she was a clerk. Instead, she walked out the country road to the crossing where she met death.

Her father, Henry Olson, is a farmer living near Russell, in Lake county. He and other relatives could give no reason for her act.

Borrows $1,000 to Buy Truck; Robbers Get It

Andrew Varvares, manager of the Sunny Boy Ice Cream company plant at 828 East 47th street, borrowed $1,000 yesterday to pay for a truck to be used in deliveries. He had the sum in his pocket last night when three robbers entered. They took the money from him and got $43 more from the cash drawer. Then they ran to an automobile at the curb and escaped.

Army Lieutenant Flyer and Private Die in Crash

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Lieut. James E. Adams, 36, Huntington, Long Island, and Private Fred Applewhite, 22, Bolton, Miss., were burned to death late today as their plane crashed into a high tension wire at Maxwell field, army air school here. The plane, flying in formation of three, struck the wire, turned over and fell, the gasoline tank exploding. Lieut. Adams was at the controls. Tent mates of Applewhite said it was his first flight.

Parents Ask Police to Hunt High School Girls

Three 14 year old girls, all blonds and all students at the Siena High school, Austin and Washington boulevards, have been missing since early yesterday morning and their parents fear they have gone on a runaway trip together. They are: Katherine Dal, 5014 West Adams street; Dorothy Riley, 5043 Quincy street, and Virginia Woodruff, 402 South Laramie avenue.

EDISON IS BETTER; SLEEPS FOR 6 HOURS; ENJOYS BREAKFAST

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Although his strength is slowly failing under the inroads of a complication of diseases, Thomas A. Edison was slightly better today, it was made known at his home in Llewellyn Park, where the 84 year old inventor has been ill since early in the summer.

After a comfortable night Mr. Edison seemed to enjoy his breakfast and appeared mentally more alert than he had for several days. Through the day he slept intermittently.

Dr. Hubert S. Howe of New York, who has been treating Mr. Edison, said at the close of his daily visit to his distinguished patient this morning that he could not characterise his present condition as "critical."

Dr. Howe made it clear that Mr. Edison cannot recover from his present illness, but explained that the inventor's strength is slowly being sapped by the advance of uremic poisoning.

A bulletin issued at 10:30 p. m. by Charles Edison, son of the inventor, reported little change in his condition. It read as follows:

"Mr. Edison has spent a quiet, uneventful day and is now resting comfortably. There is on the whole little change for the better or worse in his condition. Mr. William Meadowcroft, for forty-eight years his personal secretary and assistant, visited Mr. Edison today. They spent about fifteen minutes together."

TWO SALESMEN MAKE A DATE TO GET ROBBED

A bandit who knew the importance to busy business men of conferences and appointments last evening robbed Edward J. Sheehan, manager of the S. and L. Motor company, at 3812 Wabash avenue, of $70, a $2,000 diamond ring, and a $250 pin.

During the afternoon there was a telephone call for Mr. Sheehan. The caller stated that he was in the market for four trucks and would like to have the S. and L. Motor company make a proposition. Mr. Sheehan was willing to make one.

"My name is Sorenson," said the caller. "Come to see me at 4643 Lake Park avenue at 7 p. m."

When Mr. Sheehan and his assistant, Charles H. Japp, stepped into a hallway at that address they were met by a masked man with a pistol, who remarked that he didn't believe he needed trucks, but could use some money and diamonds. Japp gave up a $250 ring. After the robber was gone the automobile sales executives found out there was nobody named Sorenson living in the building.

119 STUDENTS AT PURDUE ILL OF FOOD POISONING

Rushed to Hospitals as They Collapse.

Lafayette Ind., Oct. 5.—One hundred and nineteen Purdue university students were taken to hospitals last night suffering from food poisoning. Most of them will be out of the hospitals by tomorrow, university authorities said.

All were residents of Cary hall, a men's dormitory, and their illness resulted after supper last night. They were taken to hospitals for treatment and observation.

University authorities and doctors said they believed the food had become tainted because of warm weather. It is also believed changing over a system of refrigeration may have left the food too long without refrigeration.

Automobiles, as well as ambulances and every available conveyance, were pressed into use to get the men to hospitals. One hundred and six were taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital and thirteen to the Home hospital.

Samples of the food, which consisted of chicken salad, nut bread sandwiches, brick ice cream, cookies and milk, have been sent to the bacteriology department of the university and both bacteriological and chemical analysis tests will be made.

Bandit Climbs In Through Window and Robs Couple

A robber climbed through a window at the home of Max Kaufman, 1529 Pratt boulevard, last night and forced Kaufman to hand over $125 and his wallet. The bandit escaped after taking an $800 ring from Mrs. Kaufman.

$387,490 IS SPENT BY COUNTY IN 2 MONTHS ON 23,000 FAMILIES

Twenty-three thousand families received food, coal, and shoes from the county bureau of public welfare during the months of August and September, Director Joseph L. Moss revealed yesterday. During the two months the county expended $387,490. All the requests for aid could not be met by the bureau during September, Director Moss asserted, because the county has been unable to sell $2,000,000 worth of poor relief bonds, which would have supplied additional funds.

WEISS GIVES UP ON NEW WOLF CASE CHARGES

David D. Weiss, broker, surrendered yesterday at the Criminal court building on two indictments charging him with larceny by bailee, made bonds of $15,000 and was released.

Weiss, a former tailor, was alleged to have withheld for his own use $150,000 of approximately $1,000,000 he handled in stock deals for Walter E. Wolf, embezzler of $3,688,000 from the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company.

Two other indictments of the same nature had been returned previously against Weiss. The last two were returned on Friday, but by agreement the bonds on the new charges were not fixed until yesterday.

Struggles with Robber for Pistol and Is Shot

Samuel Saletko, 32 years old, 1330 South Harding avenue, was shot and seriously wounded last evening when he resisted an attempt to rob him in a hallway at 2713½ 5th avenue. He had gone there to visit a friend who lives in the building. When the robber approached him Saletko tried to wrest his pistol from him. Three shots were fired, bullets striking Saletko in the chest and right arm. The robber escaped.

$6.91 PER CAPITA FOR POLICE HERE, $5.69 IN LONDON

Expenses Are Compared in the Two Cities.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

London last year spent $42,393,000 for police protection and Chicago, on a comparable basis, spent more than $23,450,000.

This cost figure for Chicago has been questioned by several city and police officials. In their comparisons, heretofore, they have used a much smaller figure as Chicago's cost, which would indicate that this city is spending much less proportionately for police than London. The fact is that on a comparable basis London spent $5.69 per capita in police protection last year while Chicago spent $6.91.

Park Police Costs Added.

Ordinarily the cost of policing Chicago is the city's expenditure for that purpose. That expense last year was $17,223,042, according to the city controller's report. But the London police care for its parks. Therefore the cost of policing the Chicago parks must be added to the police expense of this city to make the figures comparable with London's.

Last year the west park system spent $506,577 for police, the Lincoln park system spent $513,245 and the south park system, $813,082. In addition the sanitary district spent $63,600 a year for guards.

So the total public cost of policing Chicago last year, on the face of the records, was more than $19,120,000 instead of merely $17,223,042 for the city proper.

In addition London considers the expense of police pensions as part of the cost of policing while Chicago does not. London pays about $9,500,000 a year in pensions to constables. To put Chicago on a comparable basis the $2,896,651 paid out last year in police pensions has been added to the Chicago police costs.

Prison Expense Included.

Also in London the cost of the city prisons—about $760,000 a year—is classed as a police expense, so to the police costs of Chicago has been added $716,882 for the operation of the Bridewell last year.

The London figures include the expense of the police courts, which is about $315,000. Therefore $1,201,963, or one-half of the cost of the Municipal courts, has been added to the Chicago police costs, assuming that one-half of the activity of the Municipal courts is concerned with criminal matters. This raises the aggregate of Chicago police expenses, on the London basis, to more than $23,450,000.

Chicago officials have been explaining for years that the relative high cost of policing in Chicago, in comparison with London, is due to the salaries paid. That is only partly true.

What Constables Get.

The ordinary constable in London last year was paid from $17.50 to $22 a week, and sergeants $25 to $30 a week. The minimum for inspectors was $31.25 a week.

Superintendents ranged in salary between $2,750 and $3,500 a year and the minimum for chief constable was $4,000 a year. Since last year, however, the London wage scale has been cut.

In comparison Chicago has the highest minimum wage salary for patrolmen of any city in this country. The pay of Chicago patrolmen ranges from $2,140 to $2,500 a year. That is $41.11 to $48.22 a week.

However, the London constable gets an allowance for uniform while Chicago policemen buy their own. The Chicago policeman pays his own house rent. In London one of the big items of the police expense is the allowances for rent to married policemen who do not live in quarters provided by the metropolis.

London Pays for Doctors.

In Chicago a policeman, except in extreme cases, usually pays for his medical attention. London, however, maintains a medical service for its force at a cost of about $1,000,000 a year. The entire appropriation for salaries in the medical division of the Chicago police department is $43,280.

London by its medical service keeps its constables at work protecting the metropolitan area against crime. When a Chicago policeman does not feel well he does not work. When he feels well enough he returns to work.

The Elmer Stevens committee, which spent a year and a half investigating the Chicago department, devotes much space in its report to this serious defect in the police operations.

That committee compiled data for 1929 showing that 81,303 days were lost by sick and injured members of the department, "an average of 12.3 days for each member of the force during the course of the year."

Commenting upon this showing, this committee said:

"This is a record almost without parallel in current police experience, and represents a loss of man power 50 per cent in excess of that suffered by other police departments."

DIABETES

New Way to Drive Out Poisons — Increases Sugar Tolerance

A new method which drives out the deep-seated body poisons in the blood is now producing wonderful results for diabetes sufferers. This treatment, which is called Sleepy Water, gets at the poisons which cannot be reached by laxatives and ordinary drugs. Its mild alkalines neutralize acid body wastes, which so often are at the bottom of the body gland disorders that cause diabetes, and which constantly aggravate the disease.

Actual clinical tests have shown that Sleepy Water often increases the sugar tolerance, in a very short time, to the point where blood sugar is reduced to normal.

Not only diabetes, but rheumatism, arthritis, neuritis and 25 other serious common chronic diseases are quickly relieved by Sleepy Water. Fatigue, low resistance, and sallow, muddy complexions also disappear rapidly as Sleepy Water drives these dangerous acid body wastes from the system, not through the intestines, but through the kidneys.

Now you can demonstrate in your own home how Sleepy Water acts to drive out body poisons. Write or phone today and get a specially helpful and interesting book on Diabetes and its treatment and full information about the 30-minute test. Cheeseble Mineral Springs Co., Dept. GUNMEN THREATEN IRISH SENATORS ON CALLS AT MIDNIGHT

(Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.)

DUBLIN, Oct. 5.—Republican gunmen have opened a campaign of intimidation against senators and deputies of the dail eireann and other supporters of the government. During the week-end many officials were visited at midnight at their country homes and warned that if they voted for the new police bill, they did so at their own peril.

The bill, which is to be introduced immediately the dail assembles on Oct. 14, has as its object to strengthen that section of the police dealing with members of illegal organizations endeavoring to overthrow the state by force. The Republican party in the dail has declared its intention of opposing the measure, although denouncing political crimes.

Although little is known of the composition of the Irish Republican gunmen, it is stated that revolutionary leaders have been influencing by soviet propaganda.

N. Y. EXPERT DUE SOON FOR POLICE REORGANIZATION

Allman Says Smith Will Arrive in Few Days.

Police Commissioner Allman announced yesterday that Bruce Smith of New York, expert on police administration, would come to Chicago within a few days to confer with officials on reorganization of the Chicago department.

Smith finished a survey of the Chicago police last year, and embodied his recommendations for changes in a book length report, published under the sponsorship of the citizens' police committee, of which Elmer T. Stevens was chairman.

Length of Stay Unsettled.

Whether he will remain in Chicago until the police reorganization is accomplished has not been settled. In New York Smith, who is a member of the staff of the National Institute of Public Administration, said recently that all of his recommendations were set forth in his report, and that there would be little he could add to what he already had said.

The question of paying for his services, with city finances in their present state, is something which is as yet an unsolved problem. It was suggested last Friday, after Lieut. Walter Storms had been appointed deputy chief of detectives, only to have the appointment rescinded within a few hours, that that post might be held open for Smith.

Plan Meets Objections.

In that case, he would receive the salary of the deputy chief of detectives, but would devote his time to work on the reorganization. Several objections have been pointed out to such an arrangement. Resentment already has been expressed by members of the police department against the setting up of a civilian as an arbiter of administrative changes. There is also a question as to whether or not such an appointment would be possible under the civil service rules which govern the department.

Commissioner Allman last night ordered that beginning today, captains in whose districts branches of the Municipal court are located shall attend court daily, to see that police appearing as witnesses present their evidence "honestly and in the manner prescribed by law."

HUNGRY PUPILS A CHALLENGE TO AMERICAN IDEAL

City Is Lax in Pledge to Children of U. S.

Cash contributions to the Hungry Children's Fund will be received at the Relief Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1101 East 63d street, and 4132 West Madison street.

"For every child an adequate quantity of nourishing food for the proper development of body and mind."—From the Children's Charter of the White House Conference.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

How far Chicago has fallen behind the ideal stated above is seen in the reports that are coming in daily from the public schools, where thousands of children are found to be in an undernourished, half starved condition.

In order to meet this condition through the coming winter THE TRIBUNE has undertaken a campaign to raise funds to give these children free lunches in school every day. Under the penny lunch system, now installed in most of the schools of the poorer neighborhoods, a substantial meal may be had for 10 cents. It is estimated by Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan that 15,000 children will need this sort of help during the winter.

A Challenge to Chicago.

This, then, is the challenge and the opportunity for Chicago citizens. It costs $1,500 for every school day during the long, cold months ahead. The first subscriptions will be announced tomorrow.

This plan has the approval of Joel Rosier, superintendent of the United Charities, who said yesterday:

"This work of the board of education in establishing kitchens to feed children while they are at school is a good thing and fills a great want. We are now feeding 14,000 families in Chicago, but we realize the ration is not always adequate and the children need a meal at school. It is good, sound policy to feed them in the places where they normally go, rather than to try the communistic method of setting up outside children's feeding stations. Our effort is to keep the family together, and this will aid us."

The free lunch tickets will be distributed by the teachers in each school. They have already begun this burden out of their own slim pocketbooks, but they have been forced to let many a child go hungry. The situation in the schools has been canvassed by Miss Frances Swain, head of the home economics department, who has general charge of the free lunch fund. The appeals for aid are swamping her office. The public, through subscriptions to this fund, is asked to move in to her assistance.

Lunch Best Hour of Day.

A visit at the Dante school, 330 South Des Plaines street, gives an idea of what the institution of free lunch will mean in the 200 or more schools that must be aided in this way. At present, save for a few more urgent cases which are being financed by Miss Marion Abele, the principal, and the teachers in this school, the luncheon charge is 5 cents for the little children and 10 cents for older children and for the adults. Some adults take elementary work at this school. It is served in the basement kitchen on long wooden tables.

The children begin trooping in at 11 o'clock. It is the bright hour of the morning for them. Most of them have come from poor homes and have had but a crust of bread for breakfast. Their parents have scraped up a nickel or a dime for them. With this money clutched tightly in their little fists, eyes shining with eagerness, they troop into the door of the kitchen. The "anemia section" comes first. These children, although suffering from undernourishment, are also on the pay list now. Miss Abele says that $2 a week for this school would be a great boon.

These are a few of the reports from other schools that have come to Miss Swain:

Betsy Ross Junior High school, Marion Sykes, principal: "We have many girls who are in great need of help. If you could possibly supply some of them with free lunch we would be most grateful. Could you take care of ten a day? This is really the minimum, the most needy.

Richards school, Agnes B. Cavanaugh, head teacher: "After a careful inquiry on home conditions and physical needs of our pupils we feel that about 25 or 30 of our girls should receive free lunches at school. Last semester the teachers furnished a breakfast of hot cocoa and rolls to an average of 40 pupils a day."

Carter H. Harrison Technical High school, F. L. Morse, principal: "Last year our faculty contributed more than $4,000 to care for the needs of our children. We gave luncheon daily to more than 130 pupils and provided about the same number with carfare. The same condition as regards lunches and carfare exists now as did last year, as there are many of our children who are unable to bring lunch or buy lunch. Under the circumstances we cannot ask teachers to contribute until they are again on a cash basis."

Small Fund Exhausted.

Farragut Junior High school, Peter B. Ritzma, principal: "We express the hope that you may find it possible to send us funds with which to supply free lunches to deserving pupils. We had a small balance at school here which we have now exhausted. We were able to take care of only about one-third of the pupils who were in need. After a study of the needy cases and eliminating those who could be cared for otherwise, we find that we require $300 per month to provide the assistance which is so necessary at this time."

Manly Junior High school, Nellie C. Hudd, principal: "We have made a very thorough investigation of the children in our school needing assistance and we find it necessary to issue 210 lunch cards. These children come from families who are in destitute circumstances, most of them on account of unemployment."

Longfellow school, G. W. Blake, principal: "In 1930-'31 we were able to feed approximately fifty children every school day by issuing 5 cent lunch tickets to the Greene school. This year we have the same problem, which the teachers are very loyally handling, but I do not believe we can expect them to do this indefinitely. We have cut about twenty off the list so as to lessen this expense, some of whom we feel should have these lunches. We are feeding only the ones that seem to need it most. Any help you can give us in the near future in again helping us in feeding these children would certainly be a great help in making better and healthier citizens in our school."

The Tilden Technical High school has a list of 100 boys that should be fed this month. They have been feeding forty boys and the teachers have spent $48.

N. SIDE TEACHERS HEAR SAVAGE ON HOPE FOR PAYDAY

Strive for Happier Mood to Avoid Heckling.

Trustee Joseph P. Savage braved another stormy meeting of unpaid school teachers yesterday.

The school board trustee, who conceived the idea of telling the teachers in massmeetings why they have not been paid, and when, if the fates be kind, they ever will be paid, explained matters again to 1,500 north side teachers gathered at the Lake View High school.

Last Friday, when he addressed the first meeting at Crane college, he was booed and sorely tried by heckling from the west side teachers.

Seeks a Happy Mood.

Mr. Savage caught himself with the first mop of his brow, which was one of the chief features of his experience of Friday.

"I forgot," he said. "I shouldn't have mopped my brow. I understand it is now a crime in Illinois to mop your brow."

He raised a good natured laugh with that. Superintendent of Schools Bogan started the meeting off with a few intended pleasantries.

James A. Meade, president of the Men Teachers' union, asked if he might say a few words. Meade made a plea addressed to "My Fellow Sufferers," urging the teachers to bear with Mr. Savage in dignity and fairness. He said Mr. Savage was the only man on the school board who had stood firmly against cutting salaries. He went a little far when he said the present board was not responsible for conditions, for the teachers, almost in a body, roared their disagreement.

A Teacher Asks "When."

Mr. Savage had talked for some time on school board plans when he was interrupted by Miss Augusta Stewart of the Nicholas Senn High school.

"Now, Mr. Savage," she said, "we've all enjoyed your oration very much, but it's getting late, and really, what we want to know is, when are we going to get paid?"

It was then Mr. Savage started mopping his brow while he waited for the applause which greeted Miss Stewart's remark to die. He said they all were "creatures of the legislature," and that the general assembly, which may be called, he said, by Nov. 1, would have to provide relief. Then other teachers arose to ask questions.

It was getting quite warm about Mr. Savage, and as several teachers were clamoring for the floor he said that "inasmuch as there are no further questions, I will turn the meeting over to Supt. Bogan." Mr. Bogan came forward and announced the meeting adjourned.

County Passes Pay Roll.

The outlook for county employes was dismal yesterday as the second payhass pay day for September passed with the announcement of County Treasurer McDonough and Assistant Controller Michael J. O'Connor that only one more pay roll could be met between the present time and Dec. 1, the end of the fiscal year.

Edward J. McCabe, secretary to the treasurer, revealed that many elected officials were themselves feeling the pinch of financial distress, and had made requests for advances on overdue salaries but were refused.

September Panama Canal Tolls Reached $1,820,736

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Tolls collected from the 396 commercial vessels which traveled through the Panama canal during September totaled $1,820,736, the war department announced today.

JUDGE WILL GIVE DECISION FRIDAY IN SCRIP BATTLE

Judge Philip J. Finnegan heard final arguments yesterday in the taxpayer's suit seeking an injunction against further issuance of scrip by the school board, and announced that he will give his ruling in the case on Friday morning.

During the day Judge Finnegan sustained a demurrer presented by Corporation Counsel Sexton, and struck the names of Mayor Cermak and City Comtroller Szymczak from the list of those against whom the injunction is sought. The action sought to restrain the mayor and comtroller from signing further tax warrants to be used as a basis for scrip, but the court upheld the corporation counsel's argument that the signing of tax warrants is a legal function in which the city officials cannot be restrained.

GERMANY TO GET A NEW CABINET; BRUENING STAYS

Foreign Chief Submits His Resignation.

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—(Tuesday.)—(AP)—Foreign Minister Julius Curtius today submitted his resignation to Chancellor Bruening.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—Chancellor Bruening will tender the resignation of his cabinet on Wednesday, according to the Vossische Zeitung. The chancellor, the newspaper states tonight, will be immediately asked to form a cabinet "of new faces" by President Paul von Hindenburg. The action, it is stated, is being taken to soothe the Nationalists, who have been gunning for Foreign Minister Curtius because he failed to bring an Austro-German customs pact home from Geneva.

HEINRICH BRUENING.

Another hint that there will be a new government in the saddle was indicated by the Germania, recognized generally as Chancellor Bruening's "mouthpiece," which will say in its tomorrow editions that "a new Bruening cabinet will be presented to the reichstag when it meets Oct. 13."

Sackett Daily Caller.

According to political observers, Foreign Minister Curtius would have been sacrificed earlier but that Chancellor Bruening, aware of the close cooperation between him and American Ambassador Frederic M. Sackett in the matter of the proposed world conference on financial and economic problems, delayed his final decision until today.

Ambassador Sackett has been almost a daily caller at the foreign office for the last week. Today he again conferred at length with Foreign Minister Curtius.

Chancellor Bruening, it is learned, plans to introduce at least three new men into the cabinet as ministers in the departments of foreign affairs, justice, and economics, and possibly also in the department of the interior. None has been yet decided upon, as the chancellor is first endeavoring to obtain their approval by the Nationalists.

Will Pay Dole "in Kind."

The cabinet has put the finishing touches to a new string of emergency decrees, which it expects to promulgate Wednesday.

One of the decree reorganizes unemployment insurance by providing that one-third of the dole shall be paid "in kind," instead of cash. Rents will be reduced through a reduction of the government tax on real estate. Full details for settling 100,000 unemployed men and women on homesteads near Berlin are also worked out in the emergency decrees, which present Germany with a new set of special courts of control to punish political agitators.

Companion of Robbery Suspect Freed by Court

Dave Bluenfeldt, 43 years old, 4228 Broadway, who happened to be in company with a man recognized as a robber, was discharged yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the South State street court because Bluenfeldt was not identified. Last Friday Bluenfeldt stepped into an elevator with Isadore Ottman, 42 years old, 1631 South Ridgeway avenue, for whom he was to be a witness in the traffic court. Harry E. Seider, 6165 Winthrop avenue, said he recognized Ottman as a man who robbed him on Sept. 19 and both Bluenfeldt and Ottman were arrested.

KILLER'S VICTIM

Celia Kerkman, New Munster, Wis., farm girl, one of four killed by Frank Gray, Burlington, Wis., farm hand.

SLAYER OF FOUR IS CAPTURED THROUGH TRIBUNE RADIO FLASH

A radio flash from W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station, led to the capture Sunday night in Kenosha of Frank Gray, farm hand, who had murdered four persons on the Boschert farm near Burlington, Wis., earlier in the day. The story was told by Erwin H. Rapp, Kenosha clerk, who pointed Gray out to the police, who arrested him.

FRANK GRAY.

Rapp tuned in on "Tomorrow's Tribune," a summary of the day's news, over W-G-N at 10 o'clock Sunday evening. In the description of the Boschert murders by Announcer Pierre Andre he noted the license number of Gray's automobile and a description of the farm hand, then sought as a suspect.

A few minutes later, walking to a neighborhood drug store, he noted a parked automobile bearing the license number he had heard over the radio, with a man answering the description of the suspect sitting in the front seat. He notified Kenosha police and the driver of the car proved to be Gray, who subsequently confessed the murders.

Three Stores Are Held Up by Bandits in Mishawaka

Mishawaka, Ind., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Three young unmasked stickup men kept the police busy tonight by three holdups. They held up an oil station, getting $50, the Roman Lubowski grocery, securing $60, and later entered the Colver drug store, where they got $70.

BRITISH CABINET DECIDES TO CALL EARLY ELECTION

Dissolve Parliament on Thursday.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—Great Britain will vote on Oct. 28 in a general election on issues of outstanding importance, it was announced today at Buckingham palace, where Prime Minister MacDonald conferred with King George.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The British cabinet tonight unanimously agreed to issue an immediate call for a general election after sitting until almost 12 o'clock. It is understood that the emergency national government headed by Prime Minister MacDonald has cast aside all questions of "formula" and has decided to go to the country on a "doctor's mandate," interpreted as meaning a free hand to deal with the national needs as they arise.

Prime Minister MacDonald will deliver his election statement to the house of commons on Wednesday, and which will be based upon a manifesto issued by himself. Parliament will be dissolved on Thursday and the British voters will go to the polls either on Oct. 27 or 28. There will be no resignation of ministers and the government will go to the country as constituted.

Open Campaign This Week.

The national government will open its election campaign next Friday, when Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader and lord president of the council, will address a massmeeting of Conservatives.

Twenty-two of the 58 Liberal members of parliament tonight pledged their unqualified support to Prime Minister MacDonald in the official launching of Sir John Simon's new party, the "Liberal Nationalists." Sir John, originally a stanch free trader, has become convinced that a protective tariff is what England needs at this particular time. Sir John was authorized by his colleagues to convey to Mr. MacDonald the announcement of the party's formation and its objects.

Prime Minister MacDonald sped into the hills of Surrey early this morning to visit David Lloyd George, the Liberal leader, in his sickroom in the village of Churt. The visit was more than a courtesy call, and it is understood that Mr. MacDonald appealed to the little Welshman to throw his weight behind the national government at the elections. It is equally understood that Lloyd George expressed his open hostility to an election at this time, particularly on a policy of protective tariff.

Lloyd George on Sidelines.

Political observers, however, believe that Mr. Lloyd George will sit on the sidelines at the elections, offering no opposition to those members of his party who are supporting Mr. MacDonald.

Eight hundred Labor party delegates opened their annual conference at Scarborough today and began to build their opposition platform to the national government. Stanley Hirst, the chairman, announced that the party would enter the fight on a free trade platform. The delegates called for new negotiations to cancel war debts and reparations and advocate a reduction in the fighting services as well as public ownership of coal mines.

FORMER CONVICT FREED OF JEWEL LARCENY CHARGE

Harry Arnow, an ex-convict, was freed of charges of larceny by receiving stolen property by Judge John Prystalski in the Criminal court yesterday. The state nol prossed the charges.

The case arose in 1928, when jewelry valued at $40,000 was stolen from the automobile of Lawson Jaffe, 7519 Parkhurst avenue, a salesman for S. Wechter & Co., 55 East Washington street. Arnow, Jacques Saikin, head of a jewelry store at 173 West Madison street, and Herbert Mintz, a clerk in this store, were all indicted. Mintz, it is charged, was found selling a part of the stolen property to customers in Saikin's store.

According to Assistant State's Attorney Charles Mueller, both Saikin and Mintz promised to go on the witness stand for the state. Since Arnow was the man that the state wanted to convict, Mueller declared, the case against the other two were stricken with leave to reinstate. But yesterday in the hearing, Mueller said, Saikin's answers were so false and evasive that it was decided to reinstate the charge against him and Mintz. Mintz has disappeared, the prosecutor said.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

GOOD-BYE, OLD CLOTHES!
HELLO, NEW SUIT!

IN one great jump we have reached the low prices of fifteen years ago. Not for fifteen years have our clothes been so inexpensive. They have never been so well-made. For not by one single stitch or shred of wool has quality been lowered. In fact, suit for suit, it's a big step-up over 1930 and 1929

Only the leaders of the clothing business could do this. It's our responsibility to lead: we've done it. Value has reached bedrock. You needn't wear that old suit any longer now that a new one costs so little. At last you can stand up against the world and fight. Man to man—is there anything like a well-pressed, well-cut suit of clothes—a suit right at the collar and shoulders and lapel—to make you stand and trade punches with fortune? You look right. You know it. And you feel right

Dress up. And save money doing it

Buy the two or three suits you really need to face the world with the courage good clothes give. Shabby, over-tired depression-clothes are out. We have written their death-warrant in these new prices

How can we do it at prices so low?

If the world dresses up, we win

We believe that millions are ready to buy—ready to throw away their old suits

A gamble, you say? Sure, it's a gamble. The leader must gamble—to lead the way. We've gambled before that this country will always buy the highest quality at the lowest price. We've gambled before that the men of America refuse to stay licked, or even to look licked. And we've never lost

We shall not lose this time

Look now for the new suits. Forget price—until you're convinced that this clothing is the best-made, best-looking you ever saw

Put your trust in a trustworthy name. Once more it has earned that trust! HART SCHAFFNER & MARX

CONQUERORS OF PACIFIC TELL OF NO STOP FLIGHT

Ice Coating Wings Once Threatened Disaster.

of towns and cities along the coast and then early this morning we got the bright glare of Seattle ahead. The weather had changed by this time and was rather thick but not bad.

"We might have landed in Seattle, but it was pretty thick at that, so we headed east. We circled around Mount Rainier three times deciding what to do. Then we went east again and left the mountains for the flats.

"We must have been nearly to Spokane when we struck a real thick fog lying low, so we turned and came back to Wenatchee. We were taking a chance landing without any gear but we circled around, glided down and then let her drop. She nosed up and we thought she was going clear over. Then she settled back and we were safe. We had 100 gallons of gasoline left but we decided it wouldn't be enough to carry us to Salt Lake City and a new distance mark over that of Boardman and Polando.

Not a Hard Trip.

"It wasn't such a hard trip and we're sure glad we picked Wenatchee to land in.

"We suppose we looked funny to the Wenatchee folks as we got out of the plane without any shoes, but we'd been in Japan so long we got used to going without them."

Wenatchee tonight made whoopee with a parade and general celebration and a little woman, Pangborn's mother, is weeping with joy.

The flyers narrowly missed disaster as their monoplane, without its landing gear, flopped on its belly in a cloud of dust on the landing field here, skidded along and then went up on its nose, up and nearly over. But after hovering a second the plane dropped back right side up on the dirt runway and a thousand cheering, wildly shouting Wenatchee greeters stormed around it.

Herndon Cut on Forehead.

Herndon was cut on the forehead in the rough descent to United States soil, the first land the ship had touched since 7 a. m. Sunday morning, Japanese time, 3 p. m. Saturday, Seattle time.

The plane passed over Seattle shortly after 2 o'clock this morning. Several policemen, changing shifts, reported they saw lights of the plane.

Due to the fact that it came out of the east instead of the west the plane was over the airport before the crowd realized that it was the ocean craft. The flyers circled the city and then sailed around the airport four times.

The crowd, cheering and shouting, broke across the field in a mad rush. The two flyers, grimy and with Herndon daubing at the cut on his forehead, stepped out of the cabin. Some one tossed them cigarets, some one else held matches.

Through the cheering and the tumult Pangborn said: "Boy, are we glad to be here! And lots of gas left, too." Then he apologized for their lack of shoes. His mother, tears in her eyes, and his brother and sister-in-law pushed through the crowd. Pangborn embraced them happily.

Show Effects of Strain.

"You don't even look tired," said his mother. But to others, it was apparent, the two days of almost sleeplessness had left the flyers red eyed and weary. Their legs were wabbly from the constant jolting of the plane on its path of air bumps.

After reaching the hotel Herndon talked to his wife in Albany, N. Y., by long distance telephone.

The flyers' finances had been short and they had been unable to send telegrams from Japan to their relatives giving plans for the flight.

As they each had only about 30 minutes' sleep on the flight they were put in guarded seclusion at the Hotel Cascadian after eating a hearty breakfast of baked apples, ham and eggs, toast and coffee, and they slept until late afternoon, when a parade, formal welcome, and formal presentation of the $25,000 award by representatives of the Japanese newspaper was held.

While the flyers rested Wenatchee began dressing up. Flags were draped on the downtown buildings and over streets. Hundreds of school children of the city and the valley marched in a parade beginning at 4 o'clock. Bands, the American Legion drum corps, and fraternal drill teams were hastily mustered for a parade.

Telegrams by the score poured into the hotel from all over the country congratulating the flyers.

An unusual feature of the flight was that Samushira beach, where they took off, is in the heart of the Japanese apple orchards, while Wenatchee is known as the "apple capital" of the United States.

Cabin Space Taken Up.

The cabin of the Pangborn-Herndon plane is about 4 feet wide and 10 feet long. Extra gasoline tanks have been built up to cut down what had been greater space in the cabin.

And then in that narrow 4x10 feet was piled cans of extra oil, so that the flyers had hardly two feet of spare room. Behind the tins were stacked keepsakes and souvenirs the flyers had picked up in Japan, and cartons of cigarets, boxes of cigars, tools, goggles, masks, and, in side pockets, a revolver, licenses, letters, and photographs taken on their flight from New York through Europe and Asia.

Pangborn and Berndon had planned to repair their plane and fly to Texas in an attempt to win a $25,000 award for a one stop flight from Japan to Texas, but later reports from Texas said they were not eligible for this award. The flyers plan to stay in Wenatchee a week, repairing their plane, which suffered a damaged propeller and wing in the wheelless landing.

Mother Keeps Vigil

Mrs. Opal Pangborn, mother of the trans-Pacific pilot, had kept a vigil at the Chamber of Commerce airport since dusk yesterday, hours before any of the most optimistic watchers expected the plane to arrive. She is living in Wenatchee with another son, Percy.

"I used to ask my boys," she said, "what they wanted to do when they grew up, Clyde didn't know for a long time, but when he was 5 years old he said he wanted to go around the world. He couldn't tell me how."

Both Mrs. Pangborn and her other son have flown many times with Clyde since he came out of the army thirteen years ago.

Mrs. Pangborn recalled that Clyde began his aerial exploits when he was 4 years old by hanging by one foot and one hand out of the sixth story window of a Seattle building, "just to see the people on the sidewalk."

The flyers failed to equal the world's record for distance flights, slightly more than 5,000 miles, set last summer by Russell Boardman and John Polando, in a flight to Turkey from New York. But the 4,600 miles is the second longest distance flown by man in a plane, and their time showed a greater speed than that of Boardman and Polando, who took 49 hours to complete the 5,000 miles. It was not quite as speedy, however, as the 33 hour trip of Capt. Ross Hoyt over the 4,500 miles from New York to Nome in 1925.

FOUND SHOT TO DEATH.

The body of Axel Nelson, 59 years old, who had shot himself in the head, was found yesterday in the bedroom of his home at 2328 Sheffield avenue by his brother, Alex.

WORLD FLIGHT LOG OF FIRST NONSTOP FLYERS OF PACIFIC

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

July 28—Hopped off on proposed world flight.

July 31—Landed at Moscow—seventeen hours behind Post-Gatty time.

Aug. 1—Landed at Omsk, Siberia.

Aug. 3—Forced to end quest of round the world record at Khabarovsk, Siberia, because of damaged wing.

Aug. 5—Announced plans for nonstop flight from Tokio to Seattle.

Aug. 8.—Planes seized by Japanese government and flyers arrested for flying over fortified area and taking photographs without permit.

Aug. 15—New York headquarters cabled $2,050 to pay fine imposed by Japanese court and additional funds to overhaul plane.

Oct. 3.—Hopped off for the United States from Samushiro beach, near Tokio.

Oct. 5.—Landed at Wenatchee, Wash.

PACIFIC SUCCESS BREAKS ILL LUCK FOR TWO FLYERS

Dogged by Misfortune in World Flight.

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Mrs. Dixon Boardman, the mother of Hugh Herndon Jr., was too excited to talk when informed today that her son and Clyde Pangborn had successfully completed their nonstop flight from Japan to the United States. She was unable to speak for several minutes after being told that they had landed. Then she said: "That's perfectly swell. You don't know the strain I have been under."

When she recovered her voice she asked between sobs whether they had damaged the plane in making the landing. When informed that they were not injured she heaved a deep sigh of relief.

The present holders of the nonstop distance flight record of 5,011 miles, Boardman and Polando, left Floyd Bennett airport here only a few minutes before Herndon and Pangborn took off last July on what was intended to be a dash around the world to break the record of 7 days 15 hours and 51 minutes established by Post and Gatty.

Pangborn and Herndon, however, gave up this attempt after many delays in Siberia, and the two airmen then flew to Japan to make a bid for the nonstop prizes from there to the United States. On the way they took photographs with a small camera and flew over some fortifications in the Japanese archipelago, which caused the Tokio government to impound the plane and fine each of the airmen.

Run Into Heavy Fog.

Misfortune seemed to dog the tracks of the two barnstormers from the time they left New York until they departed from Japan. They ran into a heavy fog bank over the British Isles and were heard above it for three hours before they came through to a landing. They then proceeded across the continent, but bad weather caused them to make innumerable landings, delaying them greatly. The tip of one wing was damaged at Khabarovsk, and they cabled New York that they would give up the attempt to encircle the world in record time, but would fly to Tokio and make the nonstop hop across the Pacific. They took off from Siberia on Aug. 6, and the following day were in the capital of Japan, under arrest for violating the espionage act.

Another Bellanca Victory.

They were still unable to leave Japan when Don Moyle and Cecil A. Allen took off on Sept. 8 and disappeared, to be found seven days later on an island off the Siberian coast.

Their successful flight across the Pacific is another victory for the planes of Giuseppe Bellanca, whose Columbia was one of the first to span the Atlantic ocean. Col. Clarence D. Chamberlin with Charles A. Levine as a passenger flew the Columbia into Germany after taking off from Roosevelt field. Since then the same plane with the old engine had crossed the Atlantic a second time with J. Erroll Boyd and Harry Connor. The 425 horse power motor in the Herndon-Pangborn plane is the same Pratt & Whitney engine which carried them safely across the Atlantic. It was still functioning perfectly when the plane roared out of the west and made its "wonderful landing" today, according to the advices from Wenatchee.

PACIFIC FLYERS NOT ELIGIBLE TO TRY FOR EASTERWOOD PRIZE

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Col. W. E. Easterwood Jr., wealthy Dallas aviation enthusiast, applauded the trans-Pacific flight completed today by Hugh Herndon and Clyde Pangborn, but declared they were not eligible to receive a $25,000 prize from him for a Tokio-Dallas flight.

"They had no contract with me and I have said all along I reserve the right to pick my own flyers and plane if I offered such a prize," he explained.

"I am interested in flights for the advancement of aviation—not in stunts. I don't wish to see some fellow hop from a motorcycle into an airplane and break his neck for the prize. If I had made such an offer, the contract would have called for a Tokio-San Francisco-Dallas flight."

MRS. HERNDON IS OVERJOYED AT HUSBAND'S FEAT

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 5.—(AP)—A golden haired young wife who didn't want her aviator husband to come back from Japan by boat was breathless and overjoyed today as she learned that he and his pal had landed safely at Wenatchee, Wash.

Mrs. Hugh Herndon Jr. was happier still that "there aren't any bigger oceans" for her husband and Clyde E. Pangborn to fly. She hoped Herndon would take her with him on his next long trip.

She and Herndon were married secretly, after their engagement was announced, a short time before Herndon and Pangborn took off from Floyd Bennett field July 28 in an effort to break the Post-Gatty record for the round the world flight.

Mrs. Herndon followed with outward calm the deliberations of the Japanese government, which fined the flyers for flying over fortified areas and taking photographs of them.

She said she expected to leave for New York tomorrow to await her husband's arrival.

ARRESTED IN MURDER CASE.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Marvin Howe, 25, alias Matt Harrington, was arrested today at the request of Sheriff Floyd Smith of Belvidere, Ill. Illinois authorities said Howe was wanted in connection with the fatal shooting of Deputy Sheriff Harry Wilkinson in a store robbery at Herbert, Ill., last December.

Mystery Blast Starts $30,000 Fire in Gary

A fire which was started by a mysterious explosion, last night caused $30,000 damage to the M. B. Boot Shop, 1336 Broadway, Gary. The explosion occurred in the rear of the shoe store, burning stock valued at $25,000. The balance of the damage was done to the building, which is a one story brick structure, and to fixtures. The building is 20 years old and the business in it has been conducted for 20 years by Sam Milgrim of Gary.

Instructor and Student Flyer Killed; Hit Live Wire

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Lieut. E. Adams of New York and Private Fred Applewhite of Meridian, Miss., were killed late today as their plane struck a high tension wire at the edge of Maxwell field here. Lieut. Adams was an instructor at the air corps tactical training school and Private Applewhite was a student flyer.

The Hindu snake charmer uses music, but Electrolux does its work without any sound at all.

Electrolux has no moving parts, makes no sound, yet provides constant, automatic cold for less than the cost of any other means of refrigeration.

THERE'S a sort of magical quality about Electrolux that strikes everyone the same way. Yet it's so simple.

Plenty of crystal-clear ice cubes . . . constant, steady cold, always.

But no moving parts . . . no wear . . . no vibration.

No sound, because there is nothing to make sound.

No alternate stopping and starting—works continuously—maintains an even temperature. Ice cubes freeze quickly.

World's most economical automatic refrigerator.

Operating cost is far below that of any other refrigerator—never more than about five cents a day.

So simple, so perfectly dependable. A tiny gas flame, a tiny flow of water do all the work . . . circulate the refrigerant . . . take the place of all machinery.

Refrigerant is merely 3½ pints of ordinary ammonia, little stronger than household ammonia. Refrigerant hermetically sealed in rigid steel.

Gas turned off by automatic shut-off should flame ever go out.

Installation a simple matter. Connections for gas and water through concealed flexible copper tubing and are quickly and easily made.

Should your Electrolux ever need adjustment, you get the prompt, efficient kind of service for which your gas company is famous.

Electrolux prices no higher despite its many advantages.

Specified by leading architects and builders . . . more than 175,000 in use today.

Eleven household models to choose from, ranging in size from 3 cu. ft. to 20 cu. ft. capacity.

WORK ON HALSTED ST. BRIDGE WILL START IN MONTH

Life Span Opened in 1894 Will Be Razed.

Workmen will start to raze the old Halsted street lift bridge over the south branch of the Chicago river within a month, to make way for a modern bascule bridge, Commissioner of Public Works Sprague said yesterday. By that time the temporary span now being built to accommodate traffic while the new structure is being erected will be completed.

The Halsted street span is the only lift bridge ever built by the city, although a number of railroad bridges of the type are still in use. A system of cables and counterweights raises the floor to the top of the towers when the bridge is opened, giving a clearance of 155 feet above the water.

Controversy Is Recalled.

Officers in the city hall yesterday recalled the controversy which attended the construction of the bridge, which was opened in 1894. In 1892 the steamer Tioga wrecked an old swing bridge which had stood at the same spot. The war department refused, because of the narrow channel at the point, to approve plans for another swing bridge.

A special committee of the city council voted for the construction of a lift bridge. According to recollections of the city hall veterans, L. H. Tobin, then city engineer, prepared the plans, and, when he submitted them to the commissioner of public works, handed in his resignation with them, announcing that he would not be associated further with "such a monstrosity."

Too Light for Present Traffic.

The bridge was built, however, according to his plans, and gave good service for many years. It is being replaced because its design is too light for present day traffic loads.

The new bridge, financed by a $2,500,000 bond issue passed some time ago, was designed by Thomas Kinsella, city bridge engineer, who joined the city engineering staff in 1894, the year that the last span was opened.

Four Held to Grand Jury in Robbery of Doctor

Four migrants were held to the grand jury by Judge Samuel Trude in the Felony court on five charges of robbery yesterday. Their bonds were set at $50,000 each. All were captured Sept. 30 while robbing Dr. John P. Woitalewicz in his offices at 1301 West North avenue. Those held were Richard Withey, 24 years old, Los Angeles; James Johnson, 24 years old, Phoenix, Ariz., Ray Owens, 22 years old, and Thomas Nelson, who did not reveal his home town.

ORDERS PAYMENT TO DEPOSITORS OF LAKE VIEW BANK

Dividend of 10 Per Cent Totals $555,000.

State Auditor Oscar Nelson yesterday authorized payment of a 10 per cent dividend to the 19,143 depositors of the Lake View State bank, 3719 North Clark street, by Col. William H. Beckman, the bank receiver.

The dividend amounts to approximately $555,000 and brings the total dividends paid thus far to approximately $1,665,000, a 20 per cent dividend having previously been paid. Checks covering the latest dividend will be mailed as soon as payment is approved by Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan.

A committee of seventeen members of the Depositors' Protective association conferred for two hours yesterday with State's Attorney Swanson to lay before the prosecutor various complaints they claim to have concerning administration of various banks before and since their closing. At conclusion of the conference Mr. Swanson said the committee had presented him "many rumors but few facts."

The prosecuter advised the callers to set up a subcommittee of three to verify the rumors if possible and report back to him. Dr. E. Byron Kelly, spokesman for the group, announced the committee had reached a harmonious understanding with Mr. Swanson.

Woodruff Gives Bond.

George Woodruff and William H. Miller, former chairman and vice president, respectively, of the National Bank of the Republic, and Norman O. Geyer, president of the closed Waukegan State bank, appeared in Lake County Circuit court at Waukegan yesterday and posted bonds of $5,000 each on a conspiracy indictment returned against them in the closing of the Waukegan bank.

None of the defendants was accompanied by a lawyer. On his own motion, Judge Ralph P. Dady instructed the trio to reappear in thirteen days to file motions or pleas, thus bringing them back to court at the same time Auditor Nelson is scheduled to reappear to file a plea on the conspiracy charge in which he is co-defendant with the others.

Seek Tax Money Today.

The spotlight will be focused once more on the closed Bain banks tomorrow when County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough appears before Superior Judge William J. Lindsay seeking a preferred claim on $887,000 of tax moneys which were on deposit in the Bain banks when closed.

William F. Steiser, president of the Allied Bain bank depositors, announced the county treasurer's claim would be contested and that his organization was prepared to carry the case to the Supreme court if necessary to keep the county treasurer's claim on parity with 10,000 other depositors.

Grand Jury Is Sworn In; Expected to Push Bank Quiz

Members of the October grand jury were sworn in yesterday by Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court. No special instructions were given to the body. Newton C. Farr, 4737 Woodlawn avenue, a real estate dealer, was appointed foreman. The grand jury is expected to investigate bank matters with the help of Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers.

WOMEN FOES OF DRY ACT GET 400 RECRUITS IN DAY

The loop registration office of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform opened yesterday in the Lyon & Healy building at Wabash avenue and Jackson boulevard at the close of the day reported a land office business. More than 400 cards were signed pledging support toward the reform of the 18th amendment. The co-chairmen of the group in charge of the loop office are Mrs. Valentine Bartlett and Mrs. Vincent Healy.

"We've been having rushes on cards at intervals all day," said Mrs. Healy. "People congregate around the window where we have our signs, then ask for cards. Men crowd around, too, and many of them take cards home to be signed by their wives. Among these was a cab driver.

The comments of those signing cards were virtually the same, and signatures were written without hesitation.

"Will I sign? I certainly will," one woman said. "About time people were waking up."

ADVICE WE RECEIVED!

• When you get married, or when your first baby comes—or even when you move to a new community—you certainly get lots of advice from your friends. Sometimes it's best to let suggestions go in one ear and out the other—but of course other times this friendly help is indispensable.

• I think the best advice we received when we moved to Chicago was to order Wanzer's Milk. I remember calling Boulevard 7900 while the movers were still tramping from the van into the house.

• I was glad to have the important matter of our milk supply so quickly settled. We were very fussy, all of us, about milk and butter and eggs—and of course in a critical frame of mind.

• But Wanzer's more than stood the test. It made boosters out of us all before the first week was up.

• The growth of the Wanzer business since it was established in 1857 has been steady and sure. Every month more families have tried Wanzer's Milk—and discovered for themselves its rich flavor.

• It is so easy to try Wanzer's Milk in your family. Simply telephone Boulevard 7900—or hail a Wanzer man as he passes your door.

• Sidney Wanzer & Sons, Chicago's oldest milk company, is still owned and operated by the Wanzers. HUNGER BREEDS REVOLT, A. F. OF L. WARNS INDUSTRY

Green Demands Jobless Be Given Work.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Warning industry that "revolutions in the past grew out of distress and hunger and the aristocracy never learned," William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today called upon America's organized workmen to add another point to the bill of rights—the right to work.

Responding to welcoming addresses by Canadian officials and tradesmen, President Green pledged the federation to "maintain, at any cost, the friendship between the United States and Canada," and then launched into a rapid fire outline of the aims and purposes of labor as it began its 51st annual convention.

Warns of Social Unrest.

"A tremendous feeling of social unrest is developing everywhere," Green said. "Men who are temperate in the use of language are beginning to speak in no uncertain terms.

"Standards of life and living must be maintained on a high level if our institutions are to prevail. I must warn employers and leaders of industry against the life destroying, heartless policy of wage cuts.

"In my opinion, the time has arrived when the representatives of labor can take a most advanced position.

"Thomas Jefferson wrote into the life of our nation the bill of rights, which guarantees to all the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. I think labor can well add the right to work. Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness means nothing to the man who is out of work."

Calls for Division of Wealth.

Attacking the "inequitable distribution of the earnings of industry," which permits the building up of immense fortunes, Green called for a division of excess profits in the form of wages.

"The wage standard must be built up," he said. "The earnings of industry are mostly inequitably distributed. Instead of corporations declaring a 40 per cent dividend to stockholders, they should divide the profits with the workers who have earned it.

"If they refuse to listen, then we will go to the sovereign people through the ballots and bring about a distribution of these large fortunes back to the people through the power of taxation.

"The great army of the unemployed stands as a menace to the existing order. No urge is as powerful as the hunger instinct. It cannot be controlled by social laws.

Face Third Jobless Winter.

"In the United States we are facing the third workless winter. Savings were exhausted last winter.

"Shall we make paupers out of men, strong, willing, anxious, begging for work?

"Men are afraid of banks. Men are afraid of unemployment. Men are afraid of wage cutting. Their buying power is paralyzed—frozen. Men will not spend money.

"Eight million cannot buy. Forty million will not buy. Prosperity will never return until the buying power of the nation is restored.

"One of the chief functions of organized labor of the United States and Canada is to maintain at any cost the friendship between the two nations and show the world that it is possible for two nations to maintain a perpetual peace."

U. S. PRIEST KILLED IN CRASH.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The Rev. Leo Fox, an American priest attached to the Roman Catholic mission here, was killed in an automobile accident today. The Rev. Jeremiah O'Keefe and Charles Judah, a student at the mission, were injured.

RANCHER SELLS HIS LAMBS, THEN HE GOES AND GETS SHEARED

To Lieut. John McGinnis at the detective bureau the complaints of visitors who have fallen in with city slickers are no rarity, so when William G. Howard of Vernal, Utah, appeared before him yesterday in high boots and sombrero, he guessed what was to follow.

"I met a fellow who said he was Walter Wright from Malta, Mont., and he sure talked like he came from out my way," said Howard, who had just sold a shipment of lambs from his ranch. "We saw the sights together, and then I let him take $60 to adjust some insurance for a friend, because he was afraid they wouldn't take his check in a strange town."

"And you haven't seen Wright or your $60 since," interrupted Lieut. McGinnis.

"Say, do you know him?" demanded Howard.

"No, but I've heard of fellows like him before," replied the lieutenant, reaching for his wallet. "Have you got enough to eat on until you hear from your friends?"

"Sure, about a thousand dollars," said Howard.

20 WOMEN OF DIXIE CHURCH ACCUSE PASTOR

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Charges involving moral conduct have been filed against the Rev. M. Edward Borders, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene here and formerly pastor of the church of the same name at Chicago. He came here seven years ago.

John W. Oliver, superintendent of the church, disclosed today that Mr. Borders has been suspended as a pastor pending trial before a court of five elders, tentatively set for Oct. 27.

Borders recently was granted a 30 day leave of absence because of illness. He could not be reached for a statement today, members of his family saying he was too ill to discuss the charges.

Oliver said a committee named by the district advisory board of the church to make an investigation possessed written charges signed by 20 women and girls of the First church accusing their pastor of improper conduct.

BARBARA STANWYCK OF FILMS IS INJURED ACTING WITH MENJOU

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Barbara Stanwyck [Mrs. Frank Fay], motion picture star, was injured at Laguna Beach today in making location scenes for a film now in production. First the actress fell off her horse and sprained her ankle. Revived after a short time, she went on with the scene, which required a dash into the ocean with Adolphe Menjou, but she is reported to have fainted and been revived on the shore. She was taken to a cottage and a physician summoned and tonight was brought back to Hollywood.

SLAYER OF FARM COUPLE DOOMED TO DIE DEC. 11

Chester, Ill., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Henry Pannier, 57, Evansville, Ill., farm tenant, will pay with his life for the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schuline of Evansville on July 23. Pannier was sentenced to the electric chair by Circuit Judge Henry G. Miller here today. He will be executed Dec. 11 at the southern Illinois penitentiary here. Pannier is the first man in the history of Randolph county to receive the death penalty. He confessed to the shooting and pleaded guilty in court this morning. Pannier displayed little emotion as he stood to hear sentence pronounced and would make no statement afterward. Vernon Schuline, 12, son of the murder victims, told the court how Pannier had shot both his parents after a quarrel about a house owned by Schuline which Pannier was occupying.

Before you pass judgment on any refrigerator... SEE THE NORGE ROLLATOR

THE ROLLATOR

How well an electric refrigerator will work, how long it will last and how economically it will operate depends on just one thing... THE MECHANISM!

That's why we say "See the Norge Rollator."

You can take for granted a fine cabinet, convenient interior arrangement, spacious food compartment and all of the refinements that you can see... but the quality of refrigeration you get is determined by the mechanism. So, before you pass judgment on any refrigerator, look to the mechanism. See the Norge and learn the advantages of Rollator Refrigeration.

Norge and Norge alone has the Rollator, simplest electric refrigeration mechanism. It has but three moving parts, is actually just a roller, slowly rolling in a deep, permanent bath of protective oil.

So compact that it would hardly fill your two hands, the Rollator is extra powered. It will make more cold than you'll ever need. But you get the benefit of that extra cooling power in day-to-day dependability, in long life performance, in surprisingly low operating costs... in fact, the Norge actually buys itself and pays household dividends.

Unless you can afford to experiment, see the Norge and make your own decision about Rollator Refrigeration.

There is a Norge dealer in your neighborhood.

Norge Electric Refrigerator is manufactured by Norge Corporation, Detroit, a division of Borg-Warner Corporation, one of the world's largest makers of automotive parts including free wheeling.

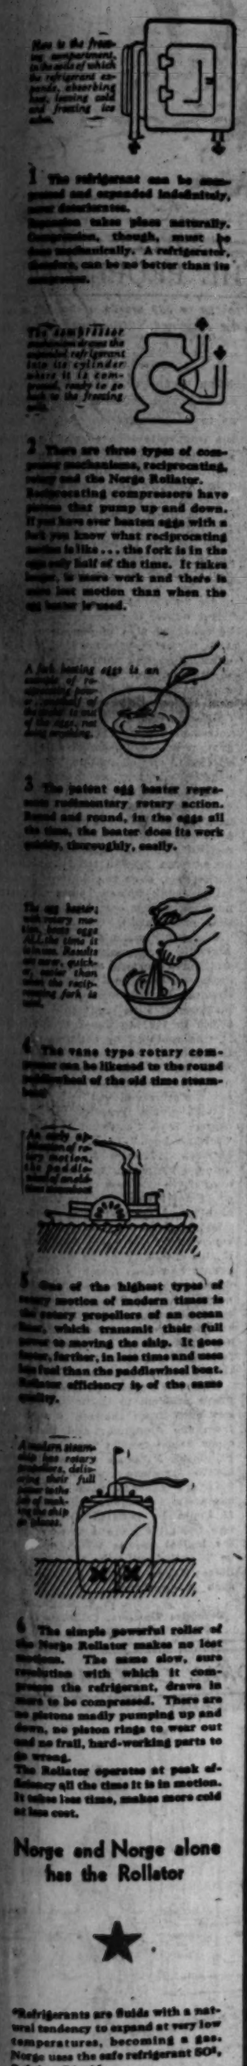
ROLLATOR REFRIGERATION EXPLAINED

Only two things happen in an electric refrigerator to make it refrigerate and freeze ice cubes... expansion and compression.

A compressed *refrigerant expands in the freezing compartment... this action causes heat to be absorbed and leaves cold ... refrigeration takes place and ice cubes freeze.



1 The refrigerant can be compressed and expanded indefinitely, never deteriorates.
Expansion takes place naturally. Compression, though, must be done mechanically. A refrigerator, therefore, can be no better than its compressor.

2 There are three types of compressor mechanisms, reciprocating, rotary and the Norge Rollator. Reciprocating compressors have pistons that pump up and down. If you have ever beaten eggs with a fork you know what reciprocating motion is like... the fork is in the egg only half of the time. It takes longer, is more work and there is more lost motion than when the egg beater is used.

A fork beating eggs is an example of reciprocating or compressor motion. Only the prongs of the fork are doing anything.

3 The patent egg beater represents rudimentary rotary action. Round and round, in the eggs all the time, the beater does its work quickly, thoroughly, easily.

The egg beater with rotary motion beats eggs all the time it is in use. Results are surer, quicker, easier than when the reciprocating fork is used.

4 The vane type rotary compressor can be likened to the round paddlewheel of the old time steamboat.

An early application of rotary motion, the paddle-wheel model was almost universal.

5 One of the highest types of rotary motion of modern times is the rotary propellers of an ocean liner, which transmit their full power to moving the ship. It goes faster, farther, in less time and uses less fuel than the paddlewheel boat. Rollator efficiency is of the same quality.

A modern steamship has rotary propellers, delivering their full power to the end of each revolution of the shaft.

6 The simple powerful roller of the Norge Rollator makes no lost motion. The same slow, sure revolution with which it compresses the refrigerant, draws in more to be compressed. There are no pistons madly pumping up and down, no piston rings to wear out and no frail, hard-working parts to go wrong.
The Rollator operates at peak efficiency all the time it is in motion. It takes less time, makes more cold at less cost.

Norge and Norge alone has the Rollator

*Refrigerants are fluids with a natural tendency to expand at very low temperatures, becoming a gas. Norge uses the safe refrigerant SO², Sulphur Dioxide.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE FEAR OF CONGRESS.

Senator La Follette of Wisconsin says that whether conservatives like it or not, the federal government must carry the needy people of the country through the winter and until they can stand on their own feet again. With this idea the senator probably will have a lot of company in congress. It is popular because it promises the quickest escape from individual and local responsibility and the actual political wickedness of the scheme is covered by the cloth of benevolence. A bad proposal is called one of justice.

It would be in reality one of the most dangerous things the United States government ever undertook. People in various parts of the country already are convinced that the federal government should contribute everything they lack and it displays a willingness to accept the responsibility. Enlargement of government is not displeasing to bureaucracy. It extends officialdom and makes jobs. The easiest thing in the world is to create a government job. The hardest thing in the world is to eliminate one. A job becomes a vested interest.

Already in a time of fading revenue the federal government has overreached itself. It is running into a great deficit. It is sacrificing its primary services, such as national defense, to meet the demands upon it as it takes over local and state responsibilities. The money, for instance, that it puts in wheat, cotton and such indefensible enterprises as Boulder dam it is taking out of the navy. There is before it as an admonition the spectacle of what unchecked government expenditure has done in Europe to drag people down to new low levels of helplessness and despair, but this visible evidence has very little effect upon American proposals.

The approaching session of congress, for this reason, is viewed with great apprehension by citizens fearful of the consequences. They do not know what imprudence will be undertaken when cure-alls come from all parts of the country, when political hysteria is concentrated in Washington and legislation is released upon the nation. Few considerate people have any hope that the result will be good and many fear that it will add greatly to the discouraging and disabling factors of the situation. This fear of congress and the probabilities of its session is now a drag upon the country. It adds to uncertainty. It undoubtedly holds the country back from recovery of its stride.

In many states Americans have been taught to rely upon the Washington government for their needs. The popularity of congressmen and their vote getting now more than ever depend upon the benefits they can send their constituents out of the federal treasury. It is a pauperizing doctrine of government and it affects the morale of whole sections of the country which are losing all pretense of self-reliance and local responsibility.

This determination to get federal money is coupled with a radical determination to make federal taxation punitive. In a growing theory of government taxes are not primarily for the support of prudent administration, but for the distribution of wealth, taking it from private control and giving it to public works; taking it from production and putting it in political projects. This theory of retributive and vengeful levies regards taxation as an economic good in itself and aims to create public works to absorb it regardless of the needs of government. This frightens every taxpayer and makes him anxious to protect his own welfare from government turned destructive. The flight of money from such taxation abroad has been seen, but it is not, evidently, admonitory.

Very little reassurance is had from the preliminary talk of the men who will assemble in congress in December. Occasionally a sane word comes from such a man as Senator Bingham or former Senator Reed scoring the custodial and paternalistic tendencies which will impoverish the spirit of the citizens and wrench the whole structure of government, but the bad ideas have a great lure. It requires a sturdy and capable citizenship to resist the attraction of easy money and resistance is weakened by the continual argument that it is virtuous to tax even to the destruction of private enterprise.

There is no guaranty that the American politicians cannot bring the American structure down. The British have about toppled their own over. Backward American states already regard the federal government as an almoner first and a government second. If the consequential states do not resist such ideas it will go hard with the country.

AMERICAN FAMILY CRESTS.

If the purveyors of crests for American families are not living on air, hope and promises in London and New York they must get a paying response to their offers to dress democratic Yankees up in the gentility of aristocratic distinction. Any American whose name is not obviously Slavic, Levantine or South Sea island can be furnished with a good old English crest to satisfy the family ambition. It may be a profitable business, but it is something like heraldic larceny.

The American colonists, who are supposed to have carried crested distinctions to these shores, were indentured servants, pressed men and women, adventurers escaping debts or poverty, religionists getting away from bishops or presbytery, farmers and tenants seeking land after sheep raising had driven them from home, and merchants seeking profits in cod, hides, lumber or tobacco. Few of them had the soft side at home, or they would have remained there.

Early or late the gentry were few in number. It was Sir Richard Salstonstall. He was the nephew of a lord mayor of London and a man of substance in the city. John Winthrop was a country gentleman in Suffolk, a magistrate with manorial rights which were not transferred to New England life. That about lets the New Englanders out for social distinction derived from the home land. They very early made it known that they did not intend to build up an aristocratic society.

Five years after the Winthrop migration several liberal lords, including Lord Brook and Lord Say and Sele, sounded the colony as to their reception in New England. If the Bay would create a house of lords they would migrate. The colonists delegated a secretary to reply that the gentry would be received with honor, but as to the house of lords in the general court "if God should not delight to furnish some of their posterity with gifts fit for magistracy" it would be in a way indelicate "if we should call them forth, when God hath not, to public authority."

The hereditary principle took that one on the chin and never got to its feet again. The liberal lords did not migrate. Virginia alone had one great family, that of Fairfax. The third Lord Fairfax was a parliamentary commander and at Naseby. The sixth lord had some five million acres in the northern neck of Virginia, a truly ducal grant between the Potomac and the Rappahannock. Disappointment and troubled drove him from England to make his home in the dominion, but the revolution drove his family out again and left the grant to vexatious litigation.

American families can get their crests just as authentically from the automobile makers here as from London.

WHAT HO! THE PROTOCOL.

Washington reports that the prospective visit of Premier Laval of France to call on President Hoover is warming up the new division of protocol in the department of state. The division of protocol is the ceremonial group charged with the responsibility of putting a bit of the court manner, a touch of Louis XIV., into the simplicity of republican hospitality when distinguished guests come to these shores. These are Washington's Greater Gaws. They would lift eyebrows at his white pants, white car and corn fed cordiality, but he might give most kings more fun.

Under the protocol division it is hoped in official circles that the more imminent democratic gaucheries will be detected in their imminence and avoided, tactfully backed into a dark corner or edged out in the back yard. The division of protocol will introduce a manner into the occasions which present personages and there is confidence that nothing will cause any sensitive democrat to reflect that the event would have been the better without certain incidents. Incidents can try the national soul. The division of protocol will avoid them. It may not be Plantaganet, but it will be good, when it gets going.

There is a cause to rejoice that the first grand display of the republic under new direction will involve M. Laval. He is the great commoner of France, a simple man in his tastes, utterly unducal. The division of protocol might have preferred a prince of the blood, but it is eminently fitting that the land of Jefferson should first go royal, when it does, for a visitor whose preëminence is his own worth. Later we can do the dukes, if Europe, after its various rescues, leaves us anything in the royal household fund.

TURNING ON THE HEAT IN RUSSIA.

The governing comrades in Moscow have decided that the subjects under the best of all régimes offering the only hope for the human race may have heat twice a week in their homes, the weather having turned unpleasantly chill. The comrades do not say how the other brothers are to get the fuel, but if they get it they may burn it twice a week. The other days will be devoted to general discomfort and the glory of Lenin. Thus the great progress goes on its way to lift the breed to heights it never before had been privileged to explore and the Russians offer themselves to the envy of the downtrodden elsewhere.

A few extra chilly heatless days will probably usher many of the very old and very young into another realm where the five year plan is called eternity, but a little weeding out of the feeble in spirit or body is considered a soviet blessing in the land of progressive humanity.

Editorial of the Day

MR. SWOPE PROPOSES A REVOLUTION.

[Columbus Dispatch.]

However prostrate American business may be, it found energy enough to sit up straight with eyes and ears open when Gerard Swope went on the air to propose a remedy for its ills. No other plan among the scores advanced during the depression has received so attentive a hearing. Here, business men and the public said to itself, is "something." It may be unsound and radical, but it is palpably important.

What Mr. Swope proposes is virtually industrial revolution. It is quite possible that, to put his plan into effect, certain provisions of the federal constitution would have to go by the board. Immunity from the Sherman anti-trust law is embodied in his scheme by innuendo. It is paternalistic to a degree that is shocking to many. It is even communistic, if one has a fairly active imagination.

Industry, which has shuddered at the thought of social legislation that would compel it to humanize itself, to abandon its isolation in the social scheme and its individualism, is offered a plan to save itself from the processes of evolution by starting a revolution within its own ranks. It will not set well with many. It will be enthusiastically received by others. It will cause all and sundry to do some serious thinking.

The political aspect of the matter is interesting but not particularly significant. Mr. Swope is president of the General Electric company, and Owen D. Young, a Democratic dark horse, is chairman of the company's board. Mr. Young is generally credited with having a large finger in the pie, and by many the plan reflects his personal views accurately. Be that as it may, a plan for the stabilization of industry and employment has at last crashed into the consciences of the public—no mean accomplishment at the moment.

THE CASE OF PRESIDENT M'KINLEY.

We are asked whether President McKinley should have succumbed to the bullet wound which he received Sept. 6, 1901, whether his surgeons made important mistakes in treating him, whether they deceived the public, and whether a man similarly wounded today would survive.

President McKinley died eight days after he was shot. The bullet which struck his breastbone did not penetrate and did no harm. The important wound was one which entered the body on the left side, midway between the left nipple and the navel, and which passed through the body from before backward in almost a horizontal line. It went through both the front and the back wall of the stomach, passed along just above the pancreas, cut the left adrenal gland, nicked the top of the left kidney, and stopped in the heavy muscles at the back. The surgeons recognized the need of sewing up the bullet holes in the stomach wall, and this was done within two hours after the wound was inflicted. No effort was made to follow the track of the bullet back of the stomach.

The autopsy showed that while the bullet did not cut the pancreas it bruised and injured it and other structures close by. Death resulted from injury to the pancreas. The surgeons did the right thing, as far as they went. The question is: Should they have made an opening through which the pancreatic secretion could have drained? If there had been a satisfactory drain for the wound could the pancreas and other tissues have been protected from the necrotic action of the pancreatic juice? That is a question that no one can settle. At the time X-rays were just coming into use and as yet there was no satisfactory method of locating wounds by means of illumination in different planes.

The area from which drainage was vital was that which lay behind the stomach and just over the pancreas. It is not even certain that that area could be safely and satisfactorily drained by present day methods, though maybe it could be. The probability is that President McKinley was doomed—his wound being irreparable—and nothing the surgeons could have done would have saved him. The day by day treatment, as distinguished from the operative treatment on the day of the assault, was about as it should have been. Possibly, but not certainly, surgeons today would operate more radically and, thereby, would save the life of the wounded man.

The correspondent suggests that the reports from the surgeons during the progress of the case were misleading. They were not. I am sure they were regarded as killjoys. I have read them all, and they consisted almost altogether of reports on pulse, respiration, temperature and comfort. On the sixth day there were two bulletins that expressed opinions that, at most, would be regarded as mildly optimistic, but that is the limit of what they did to ease the public mind.

If there were misleading statements the surgeons were not responsible, and the same statement applies to the surgeons' statements in President Garfield's case. Considering that his illness lasted more than two months, and there was great pressure for authoritative statements day by day, what the doctors said was within the facts. They doubtless did much wishful thinking, but they were successful in keeping it out of print.

DIABETES AND FEET.

Mrs. P. writes: How does diabetes affect the head and feet?

REPLY.

Diabetics are prone to gangrene, ulcers, and infections of the feet. They are very prone to develop diabetic coma. I presume that might be accounted a head condition.

LICE AND NITS.

M. G. writes: How does one get rid of body lice and nits?

REPLY.

Kerosene kills the insects. Warm vinegar washes the nits away. Greasing prevents nits from hatching. Body lice live in the clothing. They go on to the body to feed, but they do not remain there long. Any treatment that does not cover delousing the clothes will prove disappointing.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"DENMARK AND NORWAY Quarrel Over Ownership of East Greenland."—The Trib. As there is nothing in East Greenland but snow, ice, fifty degree below zero weather, six months night, a couple of moth eaten polar bears, four frostbitten Eskimos, and a couple of sick seals, we imagine from the headline that the League of Nations or somebody in authority must have awarded East Greenland to Denmark and that Denmark claims the country belongs to Norway. Or maybe Norway was declared the owner, is shrieking to high heaven that East Greenland belongs to Denmark, and that Denmark's got to keep the damthing.

SCRAPBOOK SOUVENIR.

Do you remember a poet's song
Of "Leudeman's on the River"?
It was many and many a year ago
That we drifted there in the golden glow
Of a day that lives forever.

She sang, "We'll pluck two leaves today,
The green, the russet; seems it strange
So soon, so soon the leaves can change?
Ah me, so runs all life away!"

We had laughed and loved together, "we ten,"
How could we know that the play was done?
The last words said? That never again
Should we meet while Eternity's sands were run?

But tonight, in the flickering firelight rays
Their shadowy faces come and go,
For a maple-leaf pressed on an album page
(Brittle as love, and dreams, and age),
Has recalled a glory of summer days,
And the glamour of starlit dusky ways
At Leudeman's on the River.

ETHELYN BRYANT CHAPMAN.

SOCIETY NOTE. Mr. Alphonse Capone, who has been spending early fall season in our midst, is tarrying here detained by legal business, but finds time now and then for golfing and football games. Alphonse is also interested in other games, but why bring that up now?

CLIFFORD HAS A PLAN for trimming down the auto fatalities (which are somewhere around 35,000 per year) to practically nothing at all. "All you have to do," sezze, "is to have a national law passed forbidding any motorist from going at a speed of over twenty-five miles an hour." "But," sezwe, "isn't there a national law forbidding one and all to make or sell intoxicating likker and didn't we hear of a man out in Iowa, or was it Idaho, who was arrested for selling a pint of demon rum to somebody or other?" But Clifford said so many earnest and vituperative things in reply we are convinced we made a mistake. It wasn't the man out in Iowa or Idaho who sold a pint of hootch; it must have been two other fellows.

MARCONI visions the day when science will have done so much for us that no one will have to work more than two hours a day and everybody will be happy. But will they? Just about two weeks after the two hour a day thing is inaugurated there will go up an awful shriek from all over the place for a one hour work day and four holidays a week.

OUR PET STOCK, Vanilla Flavored Shaving Soap, went along with most of the other things to a new low yesterday. It isn't that we care a hoot, but we get so sick of always going to a new low. If it would only go to an old low or a low low or a new new or an old old old anything, just so it would be something different.

FLYING THE PACIFIC is becoming as common as rowing a boat across the lagoon in Lincoln Park. But that's the biggest and the last of the oceans. What are the birdmen going to do now that the Pacific is worn out? For that's all there is. There isn't any more, there isn't any more.

ADD IMMORTAL WORDS. Flyer Pangborn on stepping out of the plane in which he had flown from Japan—"Gimme a cigaret." That remark, Flyer Pangborn, will not get you elected President of these United States if the W. C. T. U. and the rest of our stern reformers have anything to do with it.

PRAYER FOR JOY.

God give me joy in the common things:
In the dawn that lures, the eve that sings;

In the new grass sparkling after rain,
In the late wind's wild and weird refrain;

In the Springtime's spacious field of gold,
In the precious light by Winter doled.

God give me joy in the love of friends,
In their dear home talk as Summer ends;

In the songs of children, unrestrained;
In the sober wisdom age has gained.

God give me joy in the tasks that press,
In the memories that burn and bless;

In the thought that life has love to spend,
In the faith that God's at journey's end.

God give me hope for each day that springs,
God give me joy in the common things!

THOMAS CURTIS CLARK.

AS WE GET closer and closer to Thanksgiving day we get more and more worried about just how the national proclamation, calling on everybody to give thanks for what's been showered upon 'em this year, is going to be worded so it won't sound like somebody is kidding us.

MR. GANDHI wants to save India, but all the hundreds of warring sects and clans in India refuse to be saved if the others are. It's a tough world, Mr. Gandhi; you'd better trade in your loin panties for a winter overcoat and a silk hat.

A VICTIM OF HIS OWN IMAGINATION

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 6, 1915.

CHICAGO.—The retort of the liquor interests to the mayor's bomblike order to close all bars on Sundays was the production of a pledge which he signed during the mayoral campaign last spring. The pledge stated among other things that he "will oppose all laws known as 'blue laws' and that he especially declares that he is opposed to a closed Sunday, believing that the state law referring to Sunday closing is obsolete and should not be enforced by the city administration." Practically admitting their helplessness, the wet forces issued a statement denouncing the mayor for "breaking a plain, written, unsolicited pledge." Photostatic copies of the pledge were furnished the newspapers. Meantime at Belleville, Kas., on his way to San Francisco, the mayor said: "I don't know whether I signed the pledge or not."

LONDON. — The Greek premier, Eleutherios Venizelos, handed his resignation to King Constantine, an Athens dispatch says. The king had summoned Venizelos and informed him he could not support the policy which had permitted the landing of entente troops at Saloniki. Venizelos is known to be pro-ally and in favor of entering the war. King Constantine is a brother-in-law of the kaiser and is supposed to oppose war.

LONDON. — The fighting on the western front has returned to the form which preceded the allies' great offensive. Giant artillery duels are in progress with sharp local infantry engagements at various places. The Germans made slight gains in the Givenchy district, according to a Berlin report.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 6, 1901.

NEW YORK.—Gen. Russell A. Alger, secretary of war in the McKinley cabinet during the Spanish-American war, will issue his history of that conflict this week. From advance sheets it appears the feature of his book is his denunciation of Maj. Gen. Miles and Admiral Sampson and his strictures against the "round robin" signed by the commanding officers at Santiago. He declares that Gen. Miles was not honest in making his embalmed beef charges and Admiral Sampson is charged with breaking promises, misrepresentation and making unreasonable demands.

CHICAGO. — Rounding out the eighty-fourth year of his life and sixty-three years of medical practice in Chicago, Dr. N. S. Davis, the Nestor of western physicians, was given a testimonial feast at the Auditorium hotel. He was the guest of the Chicago Medical society and 300 physicians, many of them graduates of schools founded by Dr. Davis and taught by him, cheered to the echo mention of the aged physician's name. Dr. Frank Billings was toastmaster. Among those present were Drs. Donald MacLean, H. A. Hare, Norman Bridge, N. S. Davis Jr., J. B. Murphy, Eliza H. Root, J. Clarence Webster, J. H. Stowell, Sarah H. Stevenson, Archibald Church, and Robert T. Babcock.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 6, 1881.

NEW YORK.—The Yorktown festivities may be said to have begun—in the arrival in this country of the French guests who have been invited to participate in celebrating that event in our history in which their ancestors so nobly participated. The visitors represent the president of the French republic, the army, the navy, the foreign office, and fine arts and public institutions, together with several of the lineal descendants of the Lafayettes and the Rochambeaus.

TOMBSTONE.—A party just returned from the South pass of Dragon mountain gives particulars of yesterday's battle with the Chirricahua Indians. The Indians numbered about 100 when Col. Bernard and his troop came upon them. One Indian is known to have been killed. Three colored soldiers were wounded. One Indian girl, about 3 years old, was taken prisoner. She was richly dressed, and is supposed to be a chief's daughter.

THE UNITED STATES OF THE FUTURE.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Allow me to express my whole hearted and whole minded approval of the editorial mentioned above. My war experience showed me the mistake of thinking that the government could conduct a business more efficiently than an individual. It showed me also the demoralizing effect of government ownership on the individual himself. And certainly in these days of overproduction it should be apparent that of all the things that we have too much of, laws lead all the rest.

But all of this paternalism in government and the effort to make a cure-all of law is only the response to the eternal cry that has come up for years, "Why doesn't the government do something?" and "There ought to be a law against it."

Government has failed to ward off the coming of the depression and has proven itself incapable of banishing it since it has come. Laws have failed to bring about the millennium. Reinforced with these facts it seems the opportune time to drive home the truth of individual initiative and freedom.

O. F. JOHNSON.

THE ISSUE RESTATED.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Those who are publicly arrayed against prohibition must of necessity practice total abstinence to prevent Volstead sapionage from catching them in the net of these medieval laws. These people, of course, do not number very many, because forty-nine men out of fifty drink almost any concoction put before them, just so it has a kick. But has it ever occurred to the fanatical minority that those who never speak publicly, the home brewer, the vintner, the maker of cider and brandy, as well as the patron of the bootlegger, number many, many millions; more than prohibition ever had under its banners, led by paid reformers, in any day.

The people have their beer, their wine, their cider, brandy, anything they want. They do not say so for publication, but they have it in large volumes, good, bad, and indifferent.

In view of this fact, it is amazing that our federal officials do not get the full significance of the present situation. The thinking element is not asking the administration to give us beer, wines, and all other drinks—we have them now. They want the government to give us a better grade of beer, wines, and liquors, under U. S. supervision, and to collect the excise tax to which our government is justly entitled, which is estimated to be in excess of $200,000,000 annually.

Why not heed the voice of the great majority; eliminate the bootlegger, balance the budget, give greater employment, and enlist the people against illicit distilling and contraband drinks?

CIVIL ENGINEER.

WHY!

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 26.—I have from time to time read with pleasure your editorial characterizations of the Hoosiers. They were well done and were appreciated by those who are best able to appreciate them. May your readers have some time soon now an editorial characterization of the Suckers, especially those outside of Chicago? I think they're about as funny as the Hoosiers. OLIVER O. FULLER.

A QUOTA FOR JAPAN.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 11.—Concerning THE TRIBUNE editorial Sept. 1 as to an immigration quota for Japan, the temperate tone of which California will thoroughly appreciate: California still remembers with appreciation that THE TRIBUNE supported her campaign for exclusion of the unassimilable race of Asia when support was most needed. Evidently, however, THE TRIBUNE has been induced to believe that quota for Japan would amount to practical exclusion, because of the small number of Japanese who would enter annually under "national origins"—less than 200.

But quota, if granted to Japan, must be conceded also to the other states of Asia whose peoples are ineligible to our citizenship; and each would be entitled to a minimum of 100, all furnishing an aggregate of about 1,000. It is not this number, however, that influences California so much as the destruction involved of the basic principle of the immigration act—exclusion of all peoples ineligible to our citizenship. This principle, nondiscriminatory as to any particular race, is a logical barrier based on our naturalization law, which protects against possible inundation by unassimilable Asiatics under any possible change in the method of allocating quotas to assimilable peoples. Hawaii today is lost to the white race, over two-thirds of its population being Asiatic, while whites and pure Hawaiians combined constitute less than one-seventh.

The gentlemen's agreement, made in 1907 by President Roosevelt for the announced purpose of preventing an increase of Japanese population in continental United States, resulted in an increase of such population from about 50,000 in 1907 to about 150,000 in 1924. It was replaced by congress in 1924 by the general exclusion principle as the most logical and least offensive of all plans proposed, including quota, to remedy the situation.

With quota granted to Asiatics, a change from "national origins" to the "foreign born" basis, temporarily used between 1924 and 1929, and still demanded by many, would admit at once over 2,000 Chinese annually; and we could not logically refuse a not improbable future demand from Japan for admission of as many of her nationals as conceded to any other first class power if the eligibility of Japanese as immigrants had been formally conceded. Remember that Japan has repeatedly announced her determination to be satisfied eventually with nothing less than "racial equality," that is, the same treatment for her nationals as conceded to the most favored Europeans. "Selective immigration" would create a similar difficulty.

Again, Filipino immigration offers a grave problem to California, more serious even from the social aspect than from the economic; and there is frequent racial conflict between whites and Filipinos. Filipinos are racially ineligible to American citizenship, and intermarriage between them and whites is expressly forbidden by California law. If quota be granted to Asiatics now ineligible there is thereby destroyed the logical barrier which would enable us to exclude Filipino immigration after independence, and to restrict it before such independence.

Executive Secretary, California Japan Immigration Committee.

JAPANESE ORDER TROOPS TO CHINA AS CITIZENS FLEE

Tokio Acts as Anger of Shanghai Mobs Grows.

TOKIO, Oct. 6 [Tuesday].—(AP)—It was announced today that the cabinet has decided to send "several hundred" reinforcements to Shanghai. The date of departure was not given. Japanese military forces in Shanghai at present total about 700 men.

It was explained that the Japanese here in the Shanghai international settlement at present is less than the other powers, America having 1,265 soldiers there and Great Britain 2,300. The reinforcements are purely for protective purposes, it was announced, and consist of bluejackets.

It was also announced that in case of emergency four cruisers, 24 destroyers and one airplane carrier stand in readiness to depart for China on short notice.

Mobs Threaten Japan.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 6.—Growing tension in all portions of the native city of Shanghai, particularly in the Chapei district, resulted this afternoon in the closing of Chinese banks as a measure of precaution.

Late this afternoon, while growing mobs of Chinese clustered around huge new anti-Japanese posters and listened, murmuring angrily, to anti-Japanese propaganda, the commandant of 700 Japanese marines stationed here served formal notice on the Chinese chief of the bureau of public safety that if the Chinese authorities are unable to maintain order and prevent anti-Japanese rioting in the native city Japanese armed forces would take over the task.

Japan Closes Consulates.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The tightening grip of China's anti-Japanese boycott in retaliation for Japan's military activities in Manchuria gained added leverage today from assignment of four Japanese destroyers as reinforcement for Nippon's Yangtze river patrol.

The Japanese legation here made known its fears of anti-Japanese disorders in many Yangtze ports and announced the consulate at Chengchow, Honan province, had been closed and its staff and all other Japanese residents of the city withdrawn to Hankow.

The Japanese consul at Changtu, in Szechwan province, was also authorized to close his consulate and withdraw with Japanese residents there should he deem such action advisable.

Fearing trouble, the Japanese exodus from smaller Yangtze cities continues. Only a few Japanese men, including consular officials, remain at such points as Chungking, Shasi, Ichang, and Changsha. All the women and children have sought safety elsewhere.

ANOTHER CITY SEIZED

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 5.—Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, Manchurian war lord, received word at his Peiping headquarters today that Japanese troops have occupied Tungliao, Fengtien province, Manchuria, at the junction of two railways, and are preparing to invade Kailu, in Jehol province. Kailu is 60 miles west of Tungliao.

Other reports state that the Japanese have dumped heavy supplies of munitions at Taonan, near the Jehol border, for the purpose of arming the Mongols. This is near where Capt. Shinio Nakamura, a Japanese, and three others were killed, which was one of the incidents leading up to the present conflict.

A report that T. V. Soong, Chinese finance minister, is about to resign as a result of demands of the Canton insurgent faction caused heavy declines today in the Shanghai bond market, particularly in issues offered since the formation of the Nanking government.

W. W. Yen, newly appointed Chinese minister to the United States, left Nanking for Peiping tonight. He expects to sail for America in a fortnight, possibly aboard the President Lincoln.

It is reported that the Japanese are supplying munitions to the white Russians to create disturbances along the Chinese Eastern railway.

Hope that the league of nations will intervene is fading.

Tagged for Benefit of Children

$85,842 for Charity

Approximately $85,842 was collected yesterday by tag day sales for the Children's Benefit league, according to an announcement made last night by Miss Ernestine Sidway, chairman of publicity for the day. Fifty children's organizations participated in the sale.

Mr. Thomas D. English is president of the league.

An attempt to use the official tag day of the league as a cloak for racketeering was reported by the league. Two women suspected of being such racketeers fled with their money boxes from Randolph street and Michigan avenue when approached by a supervisor, Mrs. Lloyd D. Work. Mrs. Work asked them to produce their credentials as a matter of inspection routine. The women, she said, immediately started to run north on Michigan avenue. She said she pursued them two blocks, losing them in the crowds. They had been selling tags patterned after those of the league through the windows of automobiles.

DOCTOR TRIED FOR GIRL'S DEATH.

Sioux City, Ia., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Dr. Howard J. Simmons, long in the practice of medicine here, went on trial in district court Monday charged with an illegal operation which caused the death last March of Miss Dorothy Graham, 22, a typist.

KILLED IN AUTO CRASH.

Herrin, Ill., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Wayne Jacobs, 19, Johnston City, died of a broken back as a result of an automobile accident last night south of here. Kenneth Chapman and Howard Trout of Johnston City, who were with Jacobs, suffered slight injuries. Three cars figured in the wreck, when a car passing another on a hill collided with the car which Jacobs was driving.

BANDIT SUSPECT FREED BY JUDGE IS FREED AGAIN

Gives Up to Save Trouble; Released on Bond.

Joe Cainski, 5209 South Hermitage avenue, bodyguard of Edward [Spike] O'Donnell, south side gang leader, was freed by the New City police last night on a $10,000 bond after having been booked on two charges of robbery. It was his second release since his arrest on Friday and a climax to a series of events that brought criticism of Judge G. Fred Rush on the part of the police and criticism of the police on the part of Judge Rush.

When Cainski was arrested Friday and identified by victims of two robberies the police did not book him. A writ of habeas corpus was filed in Judge Rush's court. The judge said he notified the police three times to bring the prisoner into court and, when they failed to appear with Cainski, he ordered the latter released. Later Cainski was brought into court and freed by the judge's clerk. The judge said he ordered the release because of the failure of the police to obey his order. The police criticized the judge for letting Cainski go free.

Gives Up to Save Trouble.

Yesterday Attorney George Crane brought Cainski into Judge Rush's court, the accused man surrendering to keep from "causing any one any trouble." Judge Rush turned Cainski over to Lieut. William V. Blaul of the state's attorney's office, who in turn took him to the New City police station, where he was booked. A neighbor, William Kowalik, 5201 South Hermitage avenue, appeared and scheduled a $10,000 bond for Cainski's release. The latter will be arraigned in the Stockyards court today.

Cainski has been identified by Miss Kay Wilms, 4450 Tripp avenue, and Joseph Straneh, 3637 North Hamilton avenue, as one of the gunmen in the holdup of the Bon Vivant cafe, 4367 Lake Park avenue, on Aug. 16.

Call Conference on Case.

The Chicago crime commission yesterday addressed a letter to Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal court, Judge Rush, Charles P. Megan, president of the Chicago Bar association; State's Attorney Swanson, Corporation Counsel Sexton, Police Commissioner Allman, Capt. Mathew Homer of the police department, and Policeman Thomas Casey, calling attention to a conference at 4 p. m. Thursday in the offices of the commission to delve into the circumstances surrounding the release of Cainski on a court order. The commission, according to the letter, seeks to determine what coördination between the judiciary, state's attorney, and police should be arranged for the future handling of habeas corpus cases.

The commission has named a special committee of eight to meet with officials in an attempt to discover all the facts in the Cainski case. The conference will be left free to act as it deems expedient.

IOWA REVOLT OVER COW TESTS SPREADS; TROOPS ARE CALLED

Tipton, Ia., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Battle lines in the cattle testing war previously confined to the boundaries of Cedar county extended southward into Muscatine county today, after some 25 objectors prevented Veterinarians W. A. Moeller and H. E. Johnston from carrying out the test on the farm of Rudolph Reisen.

The arrest of R. P. Broders, farmer living two miles south of Stockton, followed a disturbance on the Reisen farm, during which Broders is said to have struck D. Moeller.

Both veterinarians were forced to leave the farm, but returned later with Sheriff Fred Nesper and Brig. Gen. Park Findlay and completed the tests. Two companies of troops were called to Stockton and held in readiness for further trouble.

SUITS DOCKETED SEEKING $600,000 OF MISS DIETRICH

New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The two lawsuits totaling $600,000 filed by Mrs. Rita Royce von Sternberg, former wife of Josef von Sternberg, motion picture director, against Marlene Dietrich were entered on the calendar of the New York Supreme court today as case 11,000. Court attachés predicted the suits, one for $100,000 charging libel, the other for $500,000 charging alienation of affections, would not come to trial for at least a year and one-half.

Hours of gargling wasted while bad breath lingers on

We've made a breath taking discovery for taking away bad breath (halitosis*)

Don't waste dollars on antiseptics that must be used full strength. This new discovery even when diluted with two parts of water, kills germs in 10 seconds

MILLIONS of garglers wasting their time on weak and ineffective antiseptics. Stop gargling long enough to consider this: If you mix your mouth wash with water—as 3 out of 4 do—you must use one that kills germs when diluted. Then, and only then, have you the right to expect freedom from bad breath—security against offending others.

A radical new antiseptic discovery

Modern research laboratories have thrown away the old ideas on killing germs.

Now there's a revolutionary antiseptic on the market—Pepsodent Antiseptic. Its formula is a radical advance. It climaxes the best antiseptic study of 50 years. A germ-killing agent is employed unlike those now in use. It makes Pepsodent Antiseptic from 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics, depending on which one you use.

Kills germs in 10 seconds diluted with 2 parts of water

That is the startling news in this new discovery. Think! You can mix Pepsodent Antiseptic with one or even two parts of water, to suit your taste, and it still kills germs in less than 10 seconds.

That's where most other leading mouth antiseptics fail. Yet in spite of all that power, Pepsodent Antiseptic is utterly safe when used full strength. What a weapon this new antiseptic is in the fight against bad breath.

COLDS, SORE THROATS

Pepsodent Antiseptic does double duty when fighting bad breath. For at the same time it combats colds and throat irritations. Remember P.A. is 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics . . . and it kills germs when diluted.

Checks bad breath 1 to 2 hours longer

Bad breath checked 1 to 2 hours longer! That's Pepsodent Antiseptic's record in fighting this widespread social offense due to unhygienic mouth conditions. Immediately after use, 95% of germs on mouth surfaces are destroyed. Two hours later the number of germs remains reduced by 75%. That is far longer acting than other leading mouth antiseptics. And please remember when you use Pepsodent Antiseptic for bad breath you are doing double duty by also fighting colds.

$3 Worth for $1

To kill germs most mouth antiseptics must be used full strength. So to mix them with water is a waste of time. Pepsodent Antiseptic can be mixed with twice its own volume of water. That means every $1 bottle does what 3 bottles of other mouth antiseptics do. Goes 3 times as far—you get $3 worth for $1 . . . a saving of $2.

Checking bad breath and combating colds are only two uses for this remarkable antiseptic. There are scores of other uses. Some are listed on this page. Learn to rely on Pepsodent Antiseptic whenever a safe, effective germ-killing agent is required. Keep it in the home. Take it with you traveling.

Again we say: Quit being good to germs. They've laughed at you long enough. Play safe. Buy an antiseptic that really kills germs when diluted. Remember: You can fool yourself but you can't fool bad breath.

Some of the 50 different uses for this modern Antiseptic

Cold in Head	After Extractions
Throat Irritations	After Shaving
Voice Hoarseness	Minor Cuts
Bad Breath	Blisters
Cold Sores	Loose Dandruff
Canker Sores	Checks Under-Arm Perspiration
Mouth Irritations	Tired, Aching Feet

WHEN YOU OVER-INDULGE

THERE are times when we all are tempted to take a holiday from the usual prudence.

Where is the person who wants to be discreet in diet every day in the year? It isn't human!

And it isn't necessary!

Your stomach won't be poisoned by every little indiscretion if you will just remember to give it the friendly aid of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It will sweeten the sour system and put things to rights.

Suppose you do overload your stomach with those things that bring on acidity? Phillips' Milk of Magnesia will neutralize many times its volume in acid. Just take two spoonfuls before and after such over-indulgence. It's a very simple way to prevent those miserable mornings which follow too much to eat and drink.

When you over-indulge—eating, drinking, smoking—don't suffer for hours! Nature will restore a proper alkaline balance in time, but Phillips' Milk of Magnesia acts immediately. A creamy, pleasant-tasting emulsion that sweetens the stomach, dispels that sour gas, and relieves the nausea and headache, and feeling of biliousness due to overdoing. (Phillips' mild laxative properties always help the bowels at such times.)

Make sure it's genuine. The signature of Chas. H. Phillips on the wrapper and bottle will tell you it's the real product endorsed by the medical profession. Less perfect preparations do not act the same.

For a Healthy Mouth

Use Phillips' Milk of Magnesia as a mouthwash every evening before retiring. Use Phillips' Dental Magnesia, a superior tooth-paste, to keep the teeth clean and white.

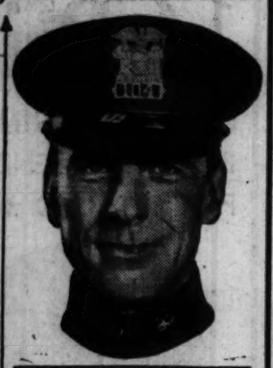
Traffic cop gets summons

Even he can't get away with it



Nature's law O.K.

"DON'T try to put anything over on Nature," is the way a cop would express it. "Sooner or later she'll get you. Give you a ticket and lay you up in a place where you'd rather not be.

"Even cops can't get away with it. Like everyone else, if they don't pay attention to the warnings they get a summons that lands them in the doctor's office.

"What the doctor advises is Nujol. Says Nujol will regulate you just like you regulate traffic. Keep things from getting in a jam. Help them move along easy and regular.

"The doctor is right. Just ask the healthiest men on the Force. If they need Nujol—with all the exercise they get—what about all the fellows that roll by in their cars?

"Just take a tip from me. You may have the best intentions in the world. But everybody gets tied up at times. Nature can't always take care of things without help.

"That's where Nujol comes to your rescue. Just as it does, regularly, for thousands of other people.

"Our Medical Chief tells me that Nujol isn't a medicine. It contains absolutely nothing in the way of medicine or drugs. It's simply a pure natural substance (perfected by the Nujol Laboratories, 2 Park Avenue, New York), that keeps things functioning at all times as Nature intends them to. Normally. Easily. Regularly. Without any extra effort and strain on your part.

"It not only keeps an excess of body poisons from forming (we all have them), but aids in their removal.

"It's these poisons that play havoc with you. Give you that dull feeling. Drag you down. Make you about half on your job."

Start Nujol today. Keep it up for the next three months. It won't cost you much—not more than the price of some smokes.

Worth a try, isn't it? Nujol can't possibly disagree with you or upset you. It is so pure and harmless that doctors recommend it for little babies, very old folks, invalids, and others who are easily upset by more drastic methods.

You'll find Nujol at all drug stores. Sold only in sealed packages. Get some on your way home today.

CAPONE, CHIEF OF GANGS, GOES ON TRIAL TODAY

U. S. Is Ready with Its Income Tax Case.

of the veniremen that fear of Capone prompted their desire to be excused. Their reluctance was rather that of the average citizen's unwillingness to sit upon a jury if he can get out of it, court attachés said.

Most of the eighty veniremen seated themselves in chairs reserved for newspaper reporters for the trial. The arranging of these seats had required two hours. Anthony Czarnecki, collector of customs and custodian of the federal building, and United States Marshal Henry C. W. Laubenheimer presided. The seats were allocated by chance to prevent bickering.

Reporters from Distant Cities.

Accommodations for between forty and fifty reporters are provided, with a row of tables extending from the bar to the back of the front enclosure, on the opposite side from the jury box and the witness stand. Twenty-five reporters were on hand yesterday, taking no chances on failure to get a seat. Many of them were from far away cities and there will be more of these tomorrow.

The courtroom is on the sixth floor. Upstairs, on the eighth floor, is the office of United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson and his assistants, where much activity also was in evidence. Dozens of prospective witnesses filed in and out of the district attorney's office with subpoenas in their hands. One of these was Johnny Torrio, who preceded Capone as the head of the gang.

"It looks like the whole state of Florida is here," Torrio remarked to Louis La Cava, another prospective witness, who worked for Capone in Cicero gambling houses.

Florida Witnesses Ready.

The Florida witnesses are here to tell about sums of money sent by telegraph to Capone at Miami and transactions in which Capone engaged while he sojourned there. Some of the witnesses are hotel and telegraph company employés.

Other government witnesses will be Cicero gamblers, loop bookmakers and Capone racketeers. There are seventy-five witnesses under subpoena, and most of twenty-five agents of the intelligence unit, which developed the case, will be called.

District Attorney Johnson assigned his executive assistant, Victor E. La Rue, to manage the prosecutor's office. Mr. Johnson will devote his entire time to the trial. The four prosecutors who will conduct the case under Mr. Johnson's personal direction scurried in and out of his office during the day, laden with photostatic copies of the documentary evidence. The originals are locked in a loop bank vault and will not be produced until today, lest some attempt be made to steal them.

Mr. Johnson's four assistants for the trial are William J. Froelich, special assistant United States attorney general, and Dwight H. Green, Jacob I. Grossman and Samuel G. Clawson, all assistant United States attorneys.

Mr. Froelich will act as efficiency expert for the prosecution. Mr. Green will introduce the documentary evidence and serve as the specialist on income tax law. He will also make the opening statement for the prosecution, when the jury has been selected. He has made all opening statements and assisted with the closing arguments in previous income tax trials of gangsters and politicians.

Mr. Grossman will represent the government in arguments on propositions of law and he will cross-examine most of the defense witnesses. Mr. Clawson will question most of the government witnesses on direct examination.

All the government's important witnesses are available, agents of the intelligence unit said. A few minor ones have not been found. Serious efforts have been made to find at least two of them and to no avail. The greatest precautions are being taken to safeguard Fred Ries, former Capone gambling house manager, against the gang's vengeance for his testimony against Jack Guzik.

Following the Guzik trial, according to intelligence unit agents, the gang made determined efforts to find Ries. A private detective who once had been in the government service called upon Clarence Converse of the intelligence unit.

"My wife and Ries' wife were friends for years," said the detective. "A few years back they lost track of each other, and my wife wondered whether you couldn't tell us where to find him."

"Get out," said Converse, and showed the man the door.

Capone to Plead Today.

Capone was not in court yesterday when the veniremen were questioned. He will appear today, and the first order of business will be his formal plea of not guilty. At present Capone has no plea of record, his plea of guilty having been withdrawn when Judge Wilkerson told him he could not bargain with a federal court.

Capone is charged with attempting to evade payment of $215,000 in income taxes on his booze, gambling, and vice profits from 1924 to 1929, inclusive. His alleged income, all that could be traced to him by the government, was $1,038,000 during that period. If convicted on all six felony and two misdemeanor counts, he is liable to a maximum sentence of thirty-two years and a fine of $80,000.

Attorney Michael Ahern, who with Attorney Albert Fink will represent Capone, said that he would not seek a change of venue. Mr. Ahern had indicated he would request this privilege when Judge Wilkerson permitted the withdrawal of the plea of guilty last July 31. The lawyer stated in court that although he personally did not share the opinion, Capone regarded Judge Wilkerson as prejudiced.

The Shouts of the Crowd Were Heard a Mile Away . . .

At any hour of the day or night we can connect your telephone with almost any other telephone in the world. The cost is always moderate.

And farther too. For when Tom's Dad telephoned him after the game, he could almost hear the cheers of the spectators as his son gave him an excited eye-witness' account of the game. Football wasn't all they talked about . . . health, studies and, of course, finances! It's a good habit for families to "keep in touch" with young folks away at school. Take a few minutes each week to telephone that boy or girl. You'll be interested in everything they do and a short conversation every week will encourage and cheer them between vacations.

RUM SEIZED AT SUMMER CLUB OF SECTY. ADAMS

Three Men Are Arrested; Two Escape.

Scituate, Mass., Oct. 5.—[Special.] Scituate police today seized 650 cases of whisky valued at $32,000, arrested three men in the garage of the exclusive Glades club, saw three others escape, and tonight still were hunting the trail of the cargo they believe they missed. Charles Francis Adams, secretary of the navy, who is a charter member of the club and maintains summer headquarters there, smilingly said the liquor was not his when told about the seizure while watching today's world series baseball game in Philadelphia.

Prisoners Are Arraigned.

The three Boston men, who were arrested at gunpoint a few minutes before the liquor cache was discovered, were brought to Boston and arraigned in federal court before U. S. Commissioner Edwin C. Jenney on a charge of "facilitating the transportation of liquor smuggled into this country, and knowing it was smuggled." They furnished bail of $2,500 each for a hearing on Oct. 16.

Police officers became suspicious as they watched the Glades club about 3 a.m. and organized a raid.

Three men came out of the garage and were arrested by the police at gunpoint. As the police entered the garage three men leaped from windows and escaped.

Liquor Not Club's, Adams Says.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Secretary Adams said tonight the estate near Scituate, Mass., upon which 650 cases of liquor were seized, was the property of the Glades club.

Asked if he knew anything of the presence of liquor on the property, the secretary of the navy said members of the club had discovered the point near the club sometimes had been used by rum runners. He said the liquor did not belong to the club.

"That is not my home," he said when informed of the seizure. "The ground belongs to the club and I don't run the club. I did run it for a time when I was in that part of the world."

Hungarian Royalist Chief, Hit by Hard Times, Ends Life

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Ivan Friesberger, general secretary of the Hungarian royalist organization, ended his life by hanging today, police said, because he was suffering from privations. His sister and three brothers all came to unnatural deaths. The girl was drowned, one brother was run over by an automobile, another jumped from a four story building, and a third shot himself.

HINSDALE LEGION PROTESTS CUT IN NAVY STRENGTH

Resolutions were adopted by Hinsdale post of the American Legion last night urging that President Hoover and congress make no move to curtail naval construction or to reduce the naval personnel of the United States. Instead the Legionnaires request that a construction program to bring the American navy to parity with Great Britain be carried out.

The preamble to the resolution stated the belief of the post members that the building of battleships would give employment to thousands of workers and that the peace of the world can best be maintained by keeping the United States in a position to enforce its demands for equitable adjustments of disputes between foreign nations.

Howard G. Wade presented the motion for adoption of the resolution. The second to the motion was made by Stanley G. Eaton.

ONE KILLED, THREE INJURED.

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. L. T. Martin of Prairie City, Ill., was killed and her husband and two women were seriously injured last night in an automobile collision near Roseville, Ill. Martin, with Mrs. Maley Moore and Miss Frances White, also of Prairie City, were taken to Macomb hospital.

SWANSON URGES NAVY HOLIDAY TO LET U.S. CATCH UP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—A suggestion that the Hoover administration arrange for a naval building holiday with the other major naval powers which would permit the United States gradually to draw up to parity with Great Britain and a 5-3 ratio with Japan, was put forward today by Senator Claude A. Swanson [Dem., Va.].

SENATOR CLAUDE A. SWANSON.

The Swanson proposal differs from other arms truce suggestions in that it would permit the United States to gradually continue increasing its fleet and modernizing its outranged battleships while the other naval powers waited for this country to catch up.

Other truce plans considered by President Hoover and the state department have provided that the United States slow up its naval building just as much as other powers regardless of parity.

Under the Swanson proposal none of the nations would build completely up to the maximum tonnage limits of the London pact. Those nations which are now close to these levels would simply slow up until the United States drew up on equal terms. Mr. Swanson thought that arrangements might be made for persuading the leading nations to agree to the comparative strength fixed in the London treaty. He suggested that all five Washington treaty powers join in the holiday.

Relative Strength at Present.

In built and building ships, in event of a five year building holiday, as proposed by Senator Swanson, the United States would be required to add about 100,000 additional tons of warships to her present building program in order to have anything like equality with Great Britain by 1936, even if Great Britain laid down no more new ships in that period. To attain the 5-3 ratio with Japan the Asiatic nation would have to reduce its building program, or this country would have to add even more than 100,000 tons to her construction plan.

In event the five Washington treaty powers agreed not to lay down any additional warships after Nov. 1, for a five year period, this is the way the major naval powers would line up on Dec. 31, 1936, only ships under the London treaty age limit at that date being counted and capital ships excepted:

Great Britain, 433,170 tons; Japan, 380,592 tons; the United States, 320,270 tons; France, 315,841 tons, and Italy, 196,275 tons.

Swanson's Proposal.

"It is incumbent upon the United States to submit a definite proposal for a naval holiday," Senator Swanson said. "It seems to me we can properly do this and submit a proposal in which we can obtain security and at the same time practice economy. The United States is at present, under the terms of the London conference, in agreement with Great Britain for equality in naval power and in an agreement with Japan for a substantial ratio of five for the United States, and three for Japan.

"Great Britain and Japan consented to less naval construction until the ratios were obtained by the United States. Under these circumstances, the United States could and should agree to a naval holiday with these nations provided that at the end of the holiday the ratios fixed in the London treaty should be reached and during the years of the holiday there should be annually an appreciable approach to these ratios, which will require some additional construction and continued modernization by the United States."

WRITS TO FREE 6 SOUGHT AN HOUR AFTER ARRESTS

Six pickpockets, each with a long record of arrests and convictions in Chicago and other cities, were arrested yesterday. In each case police agreed to book them after applications had been made for writs of habeas corpus on their behalf within an hour of their appearance at the detective bureau.

All of the writs were sought by Attorney Daniel A. Wolf, 185 West Randolph street. He admitted last night that a "spotter" had informed him of the appearance of his clients in police custody.

"They didn't wear masks, did they, when they were taken into the bureau?" Attorney Wolf said when asked how he had managed to get to court so quickly on the pickpockets' behalf. "Some one called me up and told me my clients were in jail."

The men arrested and the addresses given police were: James Fried, 3900 Roosevelt road, and Joseph Bair, 2610 Douglas boulevard, who were booked for disorderly conduct and released on bail within four hours of their arrest; George Watkins, 2614 Sheridan road; Harry Lewis, 3301 South Sangamon street; Harry Davis, 1213 Independence boulevard, and Charles Wolf, 1612 Roosevelt road. Police promised to book the latter four this morning.

Traffic Nerves!

FRANTIC at the driver ahead. Exasperated when the lights go against her.

"Traffic nerves"—she calls it! But the cause of her annoyance goes deeper than that.

She's got "bottled up" nerves!

We all get them! And we blame our little troubles and annoyances when we become "jumpy," irritable, "on edge." But the real reason is—the nervous tension of our modern way of living. The American Pace!

You'd be surprised . . . to find what little things can help sometimes!

Science, for example, has lately pointed out some interesting facts about chewing gum—and nerves.

Biochemical research has now proved that chewing gum is a definite help in smoothing out tense and tired nerves. Wrigley's actually aids in counteracting nervous tension, in promoting nervous relaxation.

You might try it out yourself. Thousands are convinced there's really something in it. When "nerves" are getting the best of you—try Wrigley's. See if it doesn't relieve the tension and help to make your little troubles fewer!

If you really want to know: There are in that portion of the face directly connected with gum chewing, the trunks of the 5th or trigeminal nerve and also the 7th nerve. Gum chewing, which necessitates the massage and relaxation of these nerves (scientists say) definitely reduces nervous tension, promotes nervous relaxation.

All statements in this advertisement are based on scientific research.

HOME FURNISHINGS STYLE SHOW

In tomorrow's Tribune

TOMORROW'S Chicago Tribune will open the four-day Home Furnishings Style Show to be held by Chicago retail stores. It will bring you an entire section devoted to furniture and things for the home. Chicago Tribune writers have assembled the facts. There will be reviews of the latest style trends. There will be a host of hints and suggestions about refurnishing and brightening the home.

This section will be a complete furniture directory. In it you will find the choicest buying opportunities the market affords. In it Chicago stores and manufacturers of furniture will have complete displays of the home furnishings which they are offering at the lowest prices in years.

If you're thinking of buying a single piece of furniture or the furnishings for an entire home, you won't want to miss the big Home Furnishings Style Show in the Chicago Tribune. You'll not only want to read it but you'll want to save it for future reference. Remember to look for it tomorrow!

Chicago Tribune

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

The Chicago Tribune is Chicago's foremost furniture market place. Here is the place to shop for home furnishings when you want to review the widest selections available in Chicago stores. During the first nine months of this year, furniture retailers and manufacturers placed more advertising in the Chicago Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper.

AGREE TO SHIFT ROAD TO PERMIT CANAL WIDENING

Highway Chiefs Aid Sag Waterway Project.

With a view to future widening of the Sag canal as part of the waterway development on the Illinois-Indiana boundary, the state highway officials yesterday agreed to shift part of the route of the new belt line highway No. 83, which is now under contract. The action was taken on the recommendation of the Chicago regional port commission, which was established by legislative enactment, and it looks toward the development of an industrial area along the Sag canal east of Palos Park.

Government engineers are preparing a report for the next congress on the proposal to widen the Sag canal from its present 60 feet, through the rock, to 200 feet. It is part of the industrial harbor program for the Calumet region.

Construction Work Halted.

The state recently let contracts for a belt line highway, following the canal, but construction work was halted at the suggestion of Col. W. C. Weeks, U. S. district engineer, that one section of the route was so close to the canal that it would interfere with the contemplated widening.

It was ironed out yesterday at a conference between Maj. Rufus W. Putnam, director of the port commission; E. M. Antrim, member of the commission; H. I. Olson, highway engineer of the Chicago regional planning association; Frank T. Sheets, chief engineer of the state division of highways; Col. Weeks, and his assistant, Lieut. D. A. D. Ogden.

Agree to Change Route.

Mr. Sheets agreed to get a new right of way for the section of the highway between Crawford avenue and a point half a mile west of Center avenue. It is to be 1,500 feet back of the center line of the canal, which will give room for a spoils bank and for an industrial area when the canal is widened. The state will proceed with the construction between Harlem avenue and the point half a mile west of Center avenue, which had been held up pending the adjustment.

The settlement marked the first specific activity of the new regional port commission, which was set up to do for harbor and waterway development that the Chicago plan commission does for Chicago.

TRIES TO PEDDLE RUM TO RODEO STARS; 60 DAYS

Men may drink bootleg booze and then drive automobiles along public highways at sixty miles an hour, but no sane man can become dazed with liquor and climb aboard a wall eyed pinto, according to H. C. Ingram, general manager of the rodeo at the Chicago Stadium.

As a result of the bar between liquor and the Indians, cowgirls and punchers of the rodeo, Ingram yesterday obtained the arrest and conviction of Ollie Hammock, 24 years old, 1711 West Roosevelt road, on a charge of possessing liquor. When Ingram charged Hammock with soliciting customers among the star performers of his troop, Judge Francis Borrelli furnished a lecture, a fine of $100 and costs, and a sentence of sixty days in the House of Correction for Hammock.

The rodeo manager indignantly denied that any of his performers were invited to their hair raising feats by rum.

Air Line Operators Meet to Solve Traffic Problem

The terminal airport committee, composed of representatives of all air lines operating at Chicago airport, held its first meeting at the Palmer house yesterday to work out a plan for the operation of the new air passenger terminal, nearing completion at the airport. The committee will meet monthly to settle operating difficulties.

Wampas Star Here

LILLIAN BOND.

The Baby Wampas star, Lillian Bond, passed through Chicago yesterday with red hair and a monocle very much in evidence. The young woman, who is on her way to Hollywood, was born in London 22 years ago. She was starred on Broadway lately in the stage success, "Free-for-All," and now has a contract with Warner Brothers. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Harriet Bond.

4 MORE LAWYERS HEARD BY JUDGE ON CANAL FEES

Four lawyers pleaded their innocence yesterday before Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor, who is hearing objections to the punishment recommended by him as a result of his inquiry into fees paid to attorneys of the sanitary district during the Crowe regime. While sitting as a commissioner of the Illinois Supreme court, Judge Taylor recommended the disbarment of nine attorneys and one and two years suspensions for 28. He cleared seven lawyers and referred the case of one for additional instructions.

Those appearing yesterday were John M. Beverly and Eugene L. McGarry, recommended suspended for one year; and Frank Brewbaker and James C. O'Brien, recommended disbarred. Beverly and Brewbaker were represented by Attorney Thomas Symmes, who asserted that there was no evidence of moral turpitude on the part of either of his clients.

Similar objections were made by both the other attorneys.

ROME, Oct. 5.—Fascist authorities, who have been conducting a careful investigation among air police semaphorists along the coast line and in military aviation camps to determine how a mysterious aviator was able to fly over Rome Saturday night and drop anti-Fascist pamphlets, today declared they had identified the aviator as an Italian war ace, named De Paolis, long known as an enemy of the Fascist régime.

Contrary to the first belief that he flew from Corsica, it is maintained tonight that the aviator flew from Dalmatia on the other side of the Adriatic.

Find Leaflets on Coast.

This theory is confirmed by the fact that pamphlets were found in fields around the city of Terni and along the Adriatic coast. De Paolis brought down five Austrian planes during the war.

If the aviator did come from the Adriatic coast it will probably relieve considerable diplomatic tension that might have resulted had he come from Corsica in a French plane, as was at first reported, for it is recalled that a considerable uproar was created two years ago when the anti-Fascist, Bassanesi, flew over the Alps in a French plane and dropped subversive pamphlets on Milan.

Included among the particulars of the propaganda air raid over Rome was the revelation today that one large packet of anti-Fascist propaganda fell in Premier Mussolini's back yard, which revealed the skill of the pilot and the accurate preparation which had been made for the expedition.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—The mysterious flyer who flew over Rome Saturday was Lauro de Bosis, son of the former Lillian Vernon of St. Louis and the late Adolfo de Bosis, Italian poet, according to messages received by the flyer's friends here tonight. Anti-Fascists in Paris insist De Bosis has not been heard from since, and planes have been sent to hunt for him. De Bosis has been active in anti-Fascist campaigns in the United States and France.

Voliva Ousts Four from Posts as Church Ushers

Overseer Wilbur Glenn Voliva of Zion discharged four officials of that town from their posts as ushers in the Christian Catholic Apostolic church because of their connection with the Anglo-Israel movement at the church services Sunday night, it became known yesterday. Those who lost their posts in the church were City Judge Theodore Forby, who also was a deacon in the church; Onias W. Farley, assessor of Zion township; T. H. Ferguson, Zion street commissioner, and Thomas McEwen, justice of the peace.

DRAMA OVER THE GRAPEFRUIT!

Mrs. B. (with grim determination). This year I'm going to BE CHIC!

Mr. B. (gallantly). Aren't you always?

Mrs. B. Thanks, but I'm not. I had eight cheap outfits last year and I thought I was smart, but every time I went to tea with Mrs. A.—I felt like a frump. Do you know why?

Mr. B. shakes head negatively.

Mrs. B. Well, I discovered that she goes to a fashion-conscious store, where they help her plan her wardrobe for the season with only two or three really superior-quality costumes. And they're as smart after months of wear as when they began! So in the end she really saves money!

Mr. B. (reacting beautifully to the element of suspense). What a place! Did you get the name?

Mrs. B. (triumphantly). Why Chas. A. Stevens & Bros., of course. Come on . . hurry with your coffee! I'll drive down with you and you can drop me off there this very morning.

EXIT!

9 INDICTMENTS FOLLOW ROUNDUP OF COLL'S GANG

"Baby Killer" and One Lieutenant Named.

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Nine indictments—seven for first degree murder and two for robbery—were returned against members of the Vincent Coll gang here today, following the Sunday roundup of all but two of the band. Additional true bills for a bombing and several kidnapings and more murder indictments, the police said, will probably be handed down later in the week.

Five of the indictments were returned by the New York county grand jury after it had spent less than an hour listening to the story on the "baby massacre" of East 107th street last July 28.

Young Coll—he is only 22 years old—was named in one indictment, and Frankie Giordano, 32, one of his "trigger men," in another. The names on the other true bills were withheld.

The four other indictments were handed up by the Bronx county grand jury. Giordano and Dominick [Tuffy] Orierno, 21, were indicted for the murder of Joe Mullens, route man for Arthur [Dutch Schultz] Flegenheimer, who was shot down last Friday in the Bronx. Mike Basile, 23, and Patsy del Greco, 29, were indicted for robbery.

Thirteen young men and women, all members of the band or associated with members of it, were taken in the roundup. Coll, Giordano, Del Greco and Odierno were behind bars—the leader in the Tombs, the others in the Bronx county jail—awaiting pleading today on the indictments. One other man and two of the women were prisoners, too, held as material witnesses.

South Africa Holds Parley on How to Fight Locusts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Oct. 5.—An interterritorial conference to consider the grave locust situation opened at Nairobi today. Because of the arrival of swarms of the pests the Uganda and Tanganyika governments have advised farmers to stop growing wheat and maize. Damage has run into thousands of dollars and crops have been ruined.

EMBEZZLER IS SENTENCED.

Belleville, Ill., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Monroe T. Weller, secretary-treasurer of the Jollin and Bell Finance companies, who is charged in 37 indictments with peculations aggregating $136,088, pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzlement before Circuit Judge Louis Bernreuter today and was sentenced to serve one to ten years in prison.

REVIEW BOARD HEARS PROTEST ON LOOP REALTY

Attorneys and real estate men representing $325,000,000 worth of loop land appeared before the board of review yesterday to argue on their complaints that 1930 assessments on the properties were excessive.

The assessments to which they objected were those made by the board of review, which increased the assessors' figures in the loop roughly by $100,000,000 in the 1928 quadrennial assessment, and on which the 1928 and 1929 tax levies were based.

The reviewers refused in those assessments to grant the reductions asked by the loop property owners. The appearance yesterday, it was said by Lester L. Falk, attorney for a large group of the complainants, was largely a formality, laying the ground for a later protest in the County court. Most of the 1928 and 1929 tax payments on the properties involved are now held up by court proceedings. The reviewers took the complaints as to the 1930 assessments under advisement.

Am. Woolen Co. Workers Quit When Wages Are Cut

Lawrence, Mass., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Practically all of the employés of the Wood mill and many from the Ayer mill, both operated by the American Woolen company, quit work this afternoon in protest against a proposed 10 per cent decrease in wages. The cut would be effective Oct. 13.

TORCH SLAYER'S SWEETIE TO BE TRIED THURSDAY

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Katherine Keller, sweetheart of Fred Smith, one of the trio of torch murderers in the recent Washtenaw county quadruple slaying, stood mute when arraigned in Circuit court before Judge George W. Sample this afternoon on a charge of being an accessory after the murder. She was arraigned on information presented in the lower court that she harbored Smith after the slaying took place, information obtained chiefly from the testimony of Smith's mother.

The girl's trial was set for Thursday morning. W. D. Grommon, defense counsel, said that because of prejudice against the girl existing in the county, he would have a motion ready asking for a change of venue.

AUTOIST HITS POLE; INJURED.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Charles Gerbig was seriously injured today when his automobile went out of control and crashed into a telephone pole.

Physician Surrenders on Illegal Operation Charge

Dr. Henry Millstone, 743 East Marquette road, surrendered to the South Chicago police last night on a warrant charging him with performing an illegal operation. He was released on bonds of $2,500. The complainant is the father of a 17 year old girl, who is said to be in a serious condition. Dr. Millstone, a plastic surgeon, is being sued for separate maintenance by Mrs. Anna Millstone. In hearings before Judge Desort the wife's attorney's insisted the physician's income was $3,000 a month. Dr. Millstone declared his income was only $4,000 in 1929 and $3,000 in 1930.

Judge Dismisses Writ; Awards Boy to Mother

Judge Marcus Kavanagh yesterday dismissed a writ of habeas corpus by which Knute Ericksen, 4810 North Kenneth avenue, sought the custody of his son, William, 5 years old, and awarded the custody of the boy to his mother, Mrs. Charlotte E. Ericksen. He ordered that Ericksen be permitted to see his son twice a week. Mrs. Ericksen obtained a Reno divorce from Ericksen several weeks ago.

THROW 'ACID IN CLOTHING SHOP; LOSS IS $3,000

Three armed men terrorized two employés of the Prosterman-Spiesberger company, wholesale clothing merchants of 839 South Wells street, and then ruined 100 suits and 30 overcoats by tossing acid on them yesterday afternoon.

The employés, Murta Prosterman, son of one of the owners, and David Becker, 4810 North Springfield avenue, a clerk, were forced into a rear room, where they were guarded by one of the trio of vandals while the others carried out their work of destruction. The damage was estimated at nearly $3,000.

Samuel Spiesberger, partner in the concern, said he knew of no motive for the acid tossing. The concern has a manufacturing plant at Jacksonville, Ill., and employs nonunion labor, but Spiesberger declared there had never been any trouble over this and no threats had been received. The Chicago establishment is only a sales outlet for the downstate factory, he said.

EDISON SERVICE

WHAT IT IS — WHAT IT DOES

GOOD FRIENDS OF THE PEOPLE

"Diversity", "Load Factor" help to reduce their rates

SINCE January 1, 1898, there have been fourteen reductions in the rates that Chicago citizens pay for light and other EDISON SERVICE used in their homes. There has never been an increase.

These rate reductions, which have benefitted all of Chicago's people, have been made possible, in part, by the ability of EDISON SERVICE to keep in the van of the electrical industry in the use of the most economical and efficient methods for the generation and distribution of electricity. But that is only a part of the story. The other, and a highly important part, relates to the improved Load Factor and wider Distribution in the use of electricity achieved by the management of EDISON SERVICE.

"Load" and "Load Factor" are technical terms of the electrical industry. The first means the quantity of electricity being used at any given time; "Load Factor" has been defined as "the average time during which the Capital Investment of the institution is working."

Thus, Load Factor is important to customers, because rates are based upon Capital Investment, which expects its wages—either as interest on bonds or dividends on stock—for every minute of every day, holidays and Sundays included. Therefore, the more work per day EDISON SERVICE can get from its Capital Investment the cheaper it can sell its product to its customers.

"Diversity" is another technical term of the industry. It is hard to define, but easy to illustrate. For instance: Chicago's factories and other industries which use EDISON SERVICE chiefly for power, make their largest demands upon that service between 8 o'clock in the morning and 6 in the evening; homes and theaters, which use EDISON SERVICE chiefly for light, make their heaviest demands between 6 o'clock in the evening and midnight. That is Diversity. The same Capital Investment which furnishes power during daylight hours furnishes light at night without additional wages. Hence, Diversity is Load Factor's best friend, while a mounting Load Factor is the best friend of the users of EDISON SERVICE—the people of Chicago.

COMMONWEALTH EDISON COMPANY

A Home-Owned, Home-Managed Institution

EDISON SERVICE is a tax-paying citizen of Chicago. In 1930, 10.8 cents out of every dollar of its gross revenues was paid for taxes and municipal compensation. These items, in round numbers, amounted to $9,100,000—$6,600,000 for taxes, and $2,500,000 for municipal compensation. If the Commonwealth Edison Company did not pay this money, the burden would fall upon the people at large.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

AAAA Survey

[American Association of Advertising Agencies ★]

Reveals some startling facts about the Purchasing Power of the ST. LOUIS MARKET

AT THE VERY TIME when manufacturers are seeking new markets . . .

And searching, too, for markets of proved responsiveness . . .

This recently completed Survey of the St. Louis Market stamps it as one of the most outstanding available markets today.

Within St. Louis and its suburban area {only a limited portion of the famous 49th State} there are 357,256 families with an annual income and purchasing power of one and one tenth billion dollars.

And this rich, responsive market can be reached and won by just one major campaign.

For the total income of $1,109,148,050 is divided in a most advantageous manner for the manufacturer seeking this market. The four upper income groups ($10,000 and over, $5,000 to $10,000, $3,000 to $5,000, and $2,000 to $3,000) control 80.72% of the total amount, $895,371,150, in annual spendable income.

★ The American Association of Advertising Agencies comprises agencies placing almost three-fourths of the national advertising of The United States.

This is the tenth of a series of surveys which this impartial organization has sponsored and which have been conducted by its Research Director Dr. Daniel Starch eminent research consultant and business analyst. The strength of this investigation lies in the fact that it was made by the AAAA, for the impartial guidance of its members in the selection of markets and advertising media.

Newspapers Can Sell Your Merchandise NOW !

It is in these four upper income groups that advertising is really effective. And The Globe-Democrat alone concentrates 72.47% of its city and suburban circulation in this productive portion of the population. Below $2,000, little more than bare necessities can be bought. The AAAA report definitely shows that, the higher the income group, the more completely it is covered by The Globe-Democrat.

If you would win the St. Louis market in record time, The Globe-Democrat is signally able to command this responsive market for you.

Every page of the AAAA Survey Report confirms The Globe-Democrat's dominance of this market with convincing clarity.

This is one of the most unbiased cross-sections ever compiled of any major American Market. It gives you definite sales facts of immediate value, if you would win new markets at once.

Ask the media department of your advertising agency to show you the copy of the St. Louis report of the AAAA Survey as conducted by Dr. Starch.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

The Newspaper of The 49th State

Add this new State to your map. Its population exceeds 5 millions. Its wealth is based upon a wider variety of resources than any other State can show. The Globe Democrat serves this entire market. No other newspaper even claims such coverage.

11 MEMBERS OF NAUTILUS CREW BACK IN GOTHAM

Ready to Try Again "in a Better Submarine."

New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Eleven undersea sailors, back from two months of suffering and some "grumbling," smiled bravely today and chorused that if some one would give them a better submarine they'd try again to reach the north pole.

They were half of the crew of the old Nautilus, once a navy submersible, now a battered wreck ready to be sunk in the North sea. Under the command of Sir Hubert Wilkins, who with other members of the crew will return to this country later, they conquered cold, sickness, and many breakdowns in mechanical equipment to drive their craft to within 350 miles of the pole.

"There was some grumbling, for we had a lot to contend with," said Chief Engineer Ralph D. Shaw, who has been in submarine work since 1910.

They went under the ice several times, but Shaw said he was unable to estimate the exact mileage covered in this way. Despite all the hardships, he said, he would be glad to go again with better equipment.

Frank Crilley, modest hero who as chief diver of the expedition went down among the colliding ice cakes to look at the damaged rudder, said:

"After the second inspection I was convinced it was hopelessly out of gear. So we decided to return. Even with the rudder gone we had to do some diving to dodge the surface ice."

Dixie Holland, assistant electrician, said the crashing of ice cakes against the submarine almost made him deaf.

MAHARAJAH ASKS BRITISH HELP TO FIGHT REBELLION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The maharajah of Kashmir, who is fighting the rapidly spreading revolt of Turcoman nomads on the border of India, has requested the viceroy of India to send a battalion of Gurkha infantry, five airplanes and 100 transport trucks to help quell the rebellion. Under the terms of the treaty with Queen Victoria the viceroy is bound to help put down all revolts in Kashmir, but the maharajah's request has not been granted by Viceroy Lord Willingdon for fear of arousing the Indian Moslems. The revolting nomads are Moslems.

The maharajah of Patiala has offered to send Sikh cavalry and infantry to Kashmir's assistance, which would be one solution, since the Sikhs are neither Moslems nor Hindus, but acceptance of Sikh help would be a drastic departure from the viceroy's precedents in putting down revolts.

Widespread fighting is reported also between the Turcomans and Russian troops. The Russians, who previously were friendly to the uprising and furnished the rebels with rifles to replace their British arms, have made a complete about face and are sending troops to force the insurgents toward India. The fighting is reported to have taken place in Samarkand and all along the valley of the Oxus river.

Foreign Chiefs of Turkey and Greece O. K. Treaty

ATHENS, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Ratifications of the Greco-Turkish agreement signed at Ankara last year were exchanged today by the foreign ministers of each country. Premier Ismet Pasha and his associates later were received in the chamber of deputies.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Plan

MRS. JOHNSTON, AUTHOR, DIES AT KENTUCKY HOME

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Annie Fellows Johnston, 68, author, died at her home in Pewee Valley, near here, today after an illness of several months.

ANNIE FELLOWS JOHNSTON.

Mrs. Johnston suffered a chronic ailment. Her condition became serious several months ago, but she rallied and until a few days ago was believed improving.

She wrote the "Little Colonel" series of books and in the "Land of the Little Colonel," published in 1929, she depicted many incidents of her own life.

The series of children's stories, sixteen in all, was begun in 1892, after Mrs. Johnston had been writing for the "Youth's Companion." She took her characters from people whom she met in her visits to Pewee Valley.

She was born in Evansville, Ind., May 15, 1863, and after attending the public schools there studied at the University of Iowa.

Lingle Slaying, Hunt for Killer, Capture Told

John Boettiger Depicts Gang Setup, Too.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Jake Lingle," by John Boettiger. (Dodd, Mead & Co.) Published today.

The murder of Jake Lingle on June 9, 1930, was, in its effects, the most spectacular gang murder of a long line of gaudy killings. It was the first gang slaughter in Chicago in which the murderer was brought to justice and convicted, and in breaking down that murderer havoc was wrought among gangdom in Chicago, rotten politics was aired at its whiffiest and incidentally through it fugitives from justice as well as public enemies were brought to the bar. Their fears formerly related to probable or actual conduct of their own behind of that of law and order. The tracking of the murderer of Jake Lingle and its concommitant exposures supply one of the most thrilling stories to be read.

John Boettiger, the reporter for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE who worked intimately with the state's attorney's office in the nation-wide search, who was with most of the "stories" which appeared in THE TRIBUNE during the time, and whose report of the night of violence which resulted in the capture of Leo Brothers is remembered as a classic of thrills and tenacity, has set down in "Jake Lingle" the whole story of the search for the killer.

This record is a thriller de luxe. It is a star reporter's recording of a "story" that has as many excitements and allures and wrong turnings as a maze, with a final incredible leap out of chance to guide the searchers to their goal.

Don't you always noticed in stories in actual life that there always is that unexplainable chance—the hint of God many call it—that no one could have been predicted. The perfect murders in fiction usually are too good, but in life there always is something that would make a mystery story sound incredible to a reader. If anybody had written a mystery tale in which the former secretary of the chief investigator lived in an apartment directly opposite the one in which the murderer was killing, readers would have said "Pish-posh, that's too long an arm for coincidence to have."

But the capture of the murderer of Jake Lingle was facilitated by that very incredible, but actual fact.

It isn't an important thing, for the capture would have been made somehow anyway, perhaps with the loss of somebody's life, but it is the tip-turning excitement of the chase. I mention it because Mr. Boettiger's story of that coincidence, and the fight of stalking their prey that the newspapers lived through, is the most vivid part of his always vivid record.

Mr. Boettiger reviews the whole situation of the hunt with great care and fairness. He is concerned with the search for the murderer of Jake Lingle, and his capture and conviction, but with the life of the murderer's victim.

The other newspapers in Chicago, he says, often gave the impression during the trial of Leo Brothers that it was Jake Lingle who was being tried or THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE rather than the murderer of Jake Lingle. Jake had been a reporter on THE TRIBUNE, Mr. Boettiger does not "defend" Jake Lingle or THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. His book is not a whitewashing of the slain reporter or a glossing of his life and work. It is the story of the capture of the slain reporter's murderer. Since that story involves the story of the powerful gangs of Chicago and their political connection, it is the story of corruption in our midst, a story of the underworld of the underworld, fearlessly and frankly set down. What it will be to many readers is one of the most exciting mystery records on record.

Clew after clew rises in the book, dashes of investigators from California to New York, from Montreal to Havana, fill the pages with zest, then clews collapse. The author tells the stories of all of them, makes his readers realize how patternless much sleuthing necessarily must be and yet, in the case of the search for the murderer of Jake Lingle, how much each clew was a piece of the whole pattern of underworld corruption.

"Jake Lingle" is made up of the material of the "stories" which appeared in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE under the signature of John Boettiger, but it has been rewritten to fit all of those separate pieces into the complete pattern. It contains, also, some material which was not printed at the time that the stories appeared in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, one bit, for instance, about the refusal of Leo Brothers to submit to the tests of the lie detector.

I just realized as I read over that last paragraph that there might be a misunderstanding on the part of the public in my use of the word "stories." In newspaper language a "story" is not fiction at all, but the statement of fact as set down by a writer. Nothing could be more factual that Mr. Boettiger's record. No fiction, however, is as strange and exciting as those actual facts.

MAUGHAM GETS WRIT IN LONDON AGAINST "GIN AND BITTERS"

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Oct. 5.—W. Somerset Maugham has issued a writ for libel against the author, printers, and publishers of "Full Circle," by Eleanor Mordaunt, also asking an injunction to restrain publication of further copies of the book. "Full Circle" has just appeared here but was published in the United States some time ago titled "Gin and Bitters" under the pseudonym of Riposte, as a reply to Maugham's own recent book, "Cakes and Ale," wherein the central figure was taken for the late Thomas Hardy, novelist.

Messers Martin and Secker, publishers of "Full Circle," said they had received the writ and placed the matter in the hands of their solicitors.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

If you like farce and children, no matter how uproarious and out of hand they may be, then "Sidewalks of New York" holds that for which you sigh.

The picture abounds in old gags and timeworn slapstick comedy situations—and at first it looked pretty punk to me. Along toward the middle, though, the story picks up in interest and becomes reasonably plotful and exciting—that is, reasonably so for the sort of naive number "Sidewalks of New York" is as a whole.

Mr. Keaton is Harmon, the hero. Harmon owns tenement buildings on the east side. Adventuring forth to collect his rents after his agent has returned empty handed and all battered up, he meets Romance in the person of Miss Anita Page, who socks his face and heart at the same time.

This vigorous darling's small brother is a tough little egg, leader of a teeming gang of other tough little eggs. Sister Margie naturally yearns to save Clipper from the bad end that will ultimately be his unless he turns aside from the errors of his ways and the influence of a certain sinister youth of baleful mien named Butch. Buster pants to do anything the heart of Margie desireth.

Tenements are turned into gymnasiums, villains are foiled, Youth sees the light, love triumphs—and there you are.

You will be impressed by the earnestness of all the players. From the smallest tad who throws an aged tomato, to the irate judge who objects strenuously to the pandemonium caused in his courtroom by Harmon and an army of small derelicts, everybody is dead in earnest. Which is as should be.

Mr. Keaton never smiles and takes a lot of punishment. Miss Page almost never smiles. But she doesn't need to, the pretty child!

The Oriental's worth a visit this week even if "Sidewalks of New York" doesn't listen like your meat. For Trixie Friganza's there AND "Clara, Lou, and Em"! How you'll go for them! [Poem.]

[I'm just not right on the subject of those girls! Always feel abused when I have to miss their radio chatter.]

And now come Helen Twelvetrees—suffering as usual—Ricardo Cortez, John Garrick, et al., in another gangster picture! O, well, it's quite an interesting one, that's helped a lot by smart direction and clever photography. Too, the players do smooth team work, with Ricardo Cortez deserving most of the back-patting.

Two rival gang kings, the sister of one of them—who loves and marries a young lawyer turned crooked—and the lawyer, Steve, are the story's principal characters. Gangster Goldie Gorio has plans for complete power and the annexing of Sister. Does he get what he wants?

ENGAGED

LORETTA L. KONOPA.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Konopa of 2552 Coyle avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Loretta Lucille, to Dr. C. Arthur Cywinski of Chicago. Dr. Cywinski is a graduate of the University of Illinois and is a member of the staff of Lake View hospital and of St. Francis hospital, Evanston. The wedding will take place this autumn.

Actress Calls Engagement Story Mere College Prank

A denial of a published report that she was engaged to be married to F. W. Naggi, graduate student of Georgetown university, came last night from Bernice Claire, actress, who is playing in vaudeville at the Palace theater here. The announcement of the alleged engagement came from the supposed fiance, who told reporters in Washington that they became engaged after she attended a college dance with him. He said plans for their marriage were indefinite as he had another year of school to complete. Miss Claire said that she thought the announcement was "some collegian's practical joke." She stated, moreover, that she was not engaged to any one.

Methodists to Mark 100 Years of "Rock River"

Conference Sessions Will Open Here Today.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Methodist Episcopal pastors and laymen of northern Illinois will begin to assemble today for the centennial meeting of the Rock River annual conference at the First Methodist church, Chicago temple. The Rev. Dr. John Thompson, host to the conference, stated yesterday that primary attention of that body will be given to unemployment and the general economic condition.

BISHOP E. H. HUGHES.

This afternoon candidates for the ministry of the church will take the conference examinations, and tonight, George W. Dixon, lay leader of the Chicago temple organization, will be host to an "open house" when fraternal greetings between members of the conference will be extended.

Thursday night the centennial banquet at the Morrison hotel will be addressed by Dr. H. B. Workman of London, England. Other speakers will include Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of Chicago, president of the conference; Dean Shailer Mathews, president of the Chicago Church federation, and Dr. Thompson.

There will be an innovation this year. It has been arranged by the Rev. Dr. A. M. Fennewell, chairman of the conference board of ministerial training, that Bishop Hughes speak each noon hour about four of the greater preachers of the Christian faith. Those, he states, are, Augustine of Hippo whose key word was "regeneration and doctrine"; Cotton Mather, "church and state"; Cardinal Newman, "ecclesiasticism and perplexity"; and Phillips Brooks, "simplicity and devotion."

Appointments of pastors for the next year will not be read until Monday afternoon. The official opening of the conference will be Wednesday morning.

Southern Illinois Conference Ends.

Alton, Ill., Oct. 5.—(AP)—With the announcement of pastoral appointments for 1932 by Bishop Hughes, Chicago, the southern Illinois conference of the Methodist Episcopal church was brought to a close here today.

Opera Ballet Starts Rehearsal for Work for Approaching Season

A corps of exceedingly agile young men and women filed into a rehearsal room in the Civic opera building yesterday, thereby setting into motion the fall activities of the famous ballet of the Chicago Civic opera.

The life of a ballet dancer, it was quickly seen from the first rehearsal isn't one round of fancy dancing after another. It requires hours of good hard practice as disciplinary as the workout of an athlete.

Under the direction of Laurent Novikoff, director of the ballet, regular rehearsal is held daily, but the dancers put in at least two hours in addition, mostly at the bar. With one hand on the bar they go through their exercises their eyes on their reflections in mirrors on the opposite side of the room.

The ballet is first practicing for the standard operas, beginning later on the ballet features. The women soloists are Ruth Pryor, première danseuse, Harriet Lundgren, classic dancer, Julia Barashkova, character soloist. Edward Cantor, Michael Arshansky, and Sven Larsen are the male soloists.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

THE Dramatic League of Chicago began its third subscription season at the Harris theater last night with "The Venetian," a play of Italian Renaissance atmosphere, first staged in London by Maurice Browne and now brought to these shores under his management. It was "directed" through the process of rehearsal, incidentally, by Ellen Van Volkenberg, and thus the two leaders of the extinct but not forgotten Chicago Little theater return to the town as figures of international importance in the dramatic arts.

"The Venetian" is a work gracefully cut out of the rich old plush of the romantic school of playwriting. It comes before American audiences in a period when there are only a few romanticists who have survived the great flood of cynicism. It is hardly strong enough, or novel enough, to renew the lost vogue of romance; and there was some dubious wagging of heads over it last night by the worldlings to whom the Italian Renaissance is merely an overcostumed chapter of history from which the opera librettos spring.

Nevertheless, as a congenital romanticist—and proud of it, too—I enjoyed "The Venetian"; temperately, however, and with no hot flushes of excitement when Piero Buonaventuri perished under the knives of the De Rizzo brothers for seducing their sister or when Francesco de' Medici, duke of Tuscany, quaffed the poisoned goblet that his wife had prepared for his brother, the cardinal.

Although a frank "costume play," seeking to evoke the atmosphere of that high colored period whose traditions and architectural relics lure countless tourists into Tuscany, "The Venetian" was written with a sound modern touch. It avoids the rhetorical flourishes with which the romantic dramatists of three decades ago burlesqued themselves into oblivion. It also avoids the Bernard Shaw technique of writing history in wisecracks. It is neither old fashioned nor "smart." It tells a good story of passion and intrigue without striking fantastic or frivolous attitudes.

I believe that you will find an interesting heroine in Bianca Cappello, the high born Venetian girl who eloped with a Florentine cad, and became the mistress, later the wife, of a moody prince of the Medici. She begins as an amorous Juliet and ends as a Renaissance scandal without losing her dignity or her charm. You will like her not only as candidly written by Clifford Bax but also as winsomely and appealingly played by Margaret Rawlings.

Here is an actress new to American playgoers and a decidedly charming discovery. Her voice is a duplicate of Jane Cowl's—without suggesting unshed tears. The vocal resemblance is so strong that you will begin to think that her face is that of Miss Cowl's little sister.

Wilfrid Walter, well known to us through his appearances in Shakespeare with the Stratford-upon-Avon company, contributes a vivid and picturesque characterization of Francesco, duke of Tuscany, to the performance. Every inch a prince of the Italian Renaissance, I should call him, and thoroughly alive in a wire edged, temperamental way, as statesman and as lover.

"The Venetian" is well cast in every rôle and is staged in a smooth and decorative manner. Its story has a basis in historical fact, and poets as well as playwrights have regarded it as excellent material. You may find it starred in your Baedeker's guide to Florence. . . . And if you fear that it may not be "modern" enough—well, it uses the word "body" often enough to qualify.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In a picture caption, Oct. 5, announcing the engagement of Miss Phyllis Comyn Radford to George James Bernard Furness of Roundwood House, Willesden, England, it should have been said that Miss Radford was a niece of Mr. and Mrs. C. Donald Dallas, of Winnetka, not Dallas.

Record Display of Furniture to Open Tomorrow

Home Style Show to Set New Marks.

Probably the most exciting display of good furniture will be shown in Chicago during the four days of the Chicago Home Furnishings Style show beginning tomorrow, that ever has been seen here. It will be on exhibit in the stores of Chicago, especially arranged for the event.

Further details of the show will be contained in a furniture section in THE TRIBUNE tomorrow.

Two of the oldest furniture houses in Chicago will feature remarkable sales of genuine antiques. One of them will arrange a special exhibit of Eighteenth century reproductions of antiques made in this country and will show rooms completely furnished and exemplifying the present low prices. A collection of original Biedermeier furniture imported from Vienna will be shown, in addition, in correct setting.

Another Chicago store is to feature newly designed and furnished rooms in reproductions of antiques made by the store itself. This innovation, making authentic copies available at lower prices, will add impetus to the furniture industry, dealers predict.

An entire series of rooms equipped with this newly made "antique" furniture will set forth the new tendency toward simplicity which is being felt, it was said. "Chaste" was the word used to describe this new tendency by one furniture expert. More specifically, such a reaction is setting in, it was said, as set in after the reign of the French Louises. People desire a sort of classic simplicity and are turning toward the Empire and Directoire furniture which originated at the time of Napoleon.

Combining harmoniously with this furniture is Biedermeier, which was made in Germany about the same time as a revolt against the French influence. In reality, it has much of the French in it, but is more severe than a good deal of French furniture originated in the court, event that of the regency. Pieces of Adam furniture, of Sheraton and other English furniture, often are combined with both Biedermeier and Empire periods in the rooms which will be shown during the style show. The demand for Biedermeier is growing, it was said.

At the same time, and not incongruously, furniture experts pointed out, there is a special need and feeling now for early American and other provincial furniture as well as early English furniture of oak.

"The graceful, elegant furniture of the eighteenth century made by the great designers of England and that made for the courts of France still are and always will be the most highly desired furniture for certain homes," one well informed young furniture authority said. "People who entertain a great deal, who live in an atmosphere of luxury, should have it.

"But for a majority of persons today the less pretentious furniture is in better taste, is more in keeping with their pocketbooks and their way of living and should be more desirable. It has a very definite appeal of its own.

"This year our provincial furniture, both French and American, is truer and cheaper than heretofore. It can be made more cheaply than highly finished furniture, for the same reason that it evolved in the first place—that is, that it had to be adapted to the native woods and to the skill of small cabinetmakers. The freshness and charm of design of our early American furniture springs from the fact that it was a furniture of utility, and has that sturdy, homespun quality.

"The whole moral fibre and social life of pioneer America speaks in this furniture. Made of cherry, maple, oak, walnut, chestnut, and beech on the most economical and therefore beautiful lines, it is a furniture easy to live with.

"In these present times it has a special function. It is cheap, durable and requires less expensive accompaniments in the way of curtains, rugs and so on."

As an example of this, one of the stores will have in one window a model bedroom in early American; the cost of which, from ash trays and lamps to the innerspring mattress, is only $210.50. That cost includes the price of 29 items. A plaid rag rug in black, red and white with a touch of yellow sells for $26.40, measuring 9 by 12 feet. It may be bought in any size at $1.50 a yard.

At the windows, gay chintz draperies of bright poppy red bound in yellow and made with pleated ruffles are only $3.95 a pair. A candlewick bedspread tufted in red is $3.75. A maple finish bed for $19.50, a four drawer chest of maple, which, with an overhanging mirror, sells for $30, and a ladder back chair with rush seat are high lights. The French provincial armchair is upholstered in simple red and white checked cotton, showing how rustic furniture may be set off by the most inexpensive of accessories.

A drapery style show will be presented in the drapery department of one of the loop stores, in which the newest satins, taffetas, brocades, and other materials will be displayed. One aisle will be devoted to set-ups showing new treatments of windows, chair covers, bedspreads and other draperies.

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

SYNOPSIS.

Irma Corbin and Don Philippe de Rodriquez, hoofers, with their pianist, Tom Libby, arrive in Thrace for a week's vaudeville engagement. A convention is being held in the town and the hotels are overflowing. Philippe grabs the first vacancy. Tom and Irma inquire at the town's leading hostelry, where Tom runs into an old friend, Bill Fitzroy. Tom finds a cot and Bill turns over his room to Irma. Bill invites Irma to a dinner party in the hotel, where she meets Wallace Graham, a widower. Wallace has a young daughter, Mildred, who has grown up under the supervision of her Aunt Tessie. Bill and Wallace shower invitations on the pretty dancer. Wallace asks Irma to be his wife. Bill's proposal to her is of a different nature. Irma quarrels with Philippe and quits the act. She marries Wallace and settles down to a dull existence with him. A baby son arrives to compensate her for any flaws in the marriage system. The baby becomes the center of her universe.

INSTALLMENT XIV.

THE BABY'S KINGDOM.

Aunt Tessie's nose and chin seemed to suddenly sharpen. Her eyes glittered wrathfully. "I thought that I might be more careful of the baby than Catherine. I thought he was safer with me. It was no particular pleasure which I coveted. I merely thought I was doing you a favor."

"A favor? Why he was cold and wet and miserable when I came in. You didn't even put the extra blanket on him."

"It wasn't cold enough."

"It was."

"In the future I'll permit Catherine to tend him. I hope you're finished talking, Irma; I have a lot of sewing to do."

Irma ran downstairs to the kitchen and discharged Catherine. She knew that she was discharging Catherine because she couldn't discharge Aunt Tessie. Somebody had to pay.

She closed herself up in her room then. All afternoon she wept bitterly and waited on the baby with feverish zeal. She could hear Catherine and Aunt Tessie saying good-by to each other. Their voices were low and unintelligible but she gathered that they condoled with each other after the fashion of women who have lived too long to remember class distinction. The voices died away. Catherine was gone. Later there was whispering and Irma knew that Mildred was home from school. She wondered what they were saying about her. She could imagine the general trend of Aunt Tessie's remarks but Mildred puzzled her. She could never tell about Mildred.

Irma cooked dinner that night herself. She broiled a steak. It was a trifle over done but very acceptable. It was a silent meal. Wallace looked at no one and the expression on his face suggested that he was battling with a mighty problem.

Irma served everybody and left the table a dozen times to fetch things which she had overlooked. After dinner Mildred and Aunt Tessie withdrew to the kitchen and Irma saw that they had elected themselves dishwashers.

"Well," said Wallace as he and Irma settled themselves in the living room, "I hope you get somebody as good as Catherine—and as cheap."

"I will. If I don't, I'll do the cooking myself."

Wallace quietly took a dose of medicine when his indigestion grew painful.

"Sounds fine," he remarked, "but let's stick to facts. Steaks and chops are just about your limit and we do need more than that. Fresh vegetables are work to prepare and we can't live on canned goods. Besides, there's other housework, cleaning and so forth. You have to get somebody." He opened his newspaper and began to read.

Irma sat on the lounge and stared at him coldly. He might have said that it was noble of her to offer to do all the cooking. It hadn't been necessary to squelch her so cruelly.

For a long while she sat staring at him as he read. But she was not conscious of seeing him. She was wondering what nice thing he had said, what nice thing he had done that had made her believe that married life with him would be more pleasant than trouping.

The following morning Irma walked down to Princess street to an employment agency. It was a long walk but she would not ask Aunt Tessie to mind the baby for even an hour now. So Irma walked, rolling the baby carriage ahead of her. The efficient sounding creature at the other end of the wire had groaned audibly when Irma had told her the wares she expected to pay. "I don't know what I can get you, but I'll try. Come in at eleven."

There were four applicants sitting on a hard wooden bench waiting for Irma. They looked at her hopefully as she entered and one of them said of the baby, "Isn't it cute!" though she could see nothing but the blanket in which he was wrapped. One woman looked unclean, another was too old, the third was a greenhorn. Irma engaged the fourth after questioning her. Her name was Rose. She had no references.

Irma said, "Can you cook?"

Rose thought a moment before replying then, "Yes, I can cook."

"Can you clean nicely?"

Rose sighed and answered wearily, "O, sure, everybody can if they try."

"Have you ever tended babies?"

Rose smiled a sudden, surprisingly engaging smile, "O, sure. I have tended all my sister's babies. They are fat and healthy. I like babies."

So Rose came to work for the Grahams. Her cooking was atrocious, the house was left to shift for itself but she did what she was told to do for the baby.

Wallace said after the first dinner which Rose produced, "She'll never do."

He said it again after each dinner all week but Rose stayed on.

Sunday afternoon as they drove to the Drakes for bridge he said, "Look here, Irma, do you do anything for the baby?"

"Do I do anything for the baby! Why, I do everything."

"That's what I thought. Now listen, if you do everything for the baby why do we have to have a girl like Rose? She can't do anything but tend babies and you don't let her do that. Why can't we have some one who can cook and clean?"

"We have Rose because when we came home from Harper's last night she was sitting in our room watching the baby. He was dry and warm, too."

"But she can't cook."

"Who can for twelve dollars a week?"

"Catherine."

"All right. Get Catherine back and I'll never go out again. I'll be damned if I'm going to leave my baby with any dimwit who thinks she knows babies."

"You're speaking of Aunt Tessie, I suppose."

"I am."

"She raised Mildred."

"Yes, but Mildred was five. Even at that I bet Mildred's mother turned in her grave."

"Irma."

"Yes, I mean it. You and Aunt Tessie are just alike. You both think babies are raised by luck. Neither of you can imagine how I worry about the baby."

"I wish you'd never had the baby. You're entirely too excitable to be a mother."

"If I hadn't had him there wouldn't be any bright spot to our marriage at all."

But it was just one of those quarrels which changes nothing, blows over and is soon forgotten. Rose stayed on. Irma bought her a cook book which helped some and Wallace quietly took a dose of medicine when his indigestion grew painful and said nothing. Mildred was too young and strong stomached to object to thick pie crust and beef that was raw in the center. Aunt Tessie bore it like an early Christian martyr and life went on somehow in the little world behind the stiff white curtains.

It wasn't all worry and quarrels. Ofttimes Irma looked at Wallace and felt proud to think that such a level headed man had chosen her for a wife. Ofttimes a feeling of great peace and cosiness would come over her. This feeling would come when the baby was sleeping safely in his crib and when she and Mildred had shared some joke or experience together. She learned in time that Mildred was no one's enduring enemy or ally. She was as impartial as rain and amazingly capable of examining the facts of each and every case and judging for herself whose side to take. It cheered Irma to know that Mildred did not see her as the thoroughly evil stepmother of fairy tales.

The assured presence of Rose made Irma feel more kindly toward Aunt Tessie, too. On the whole things went very well until Halloween night and very little went well after that.

The baby would choose Oct. 31 as the perfect day to be ill. He coughed twice before dawn and presented a feverish forehead to his frenzied mother's trembling hand. The thermometer proved that he really had a fever. A slight one to be sure but a fever. She telephoned Dr. Pease at once. He registered profound interest, promised to come as soon as possible and then he went back to bed. It sounded very much like a cold to him.

In fact, it was a cold. Dr. Pease gave Irma a bottle of oily liquid which drop by drop was to be maneuvered into the baby's nasal passages.

"It probably won't amount to anything," he said heartily. "Tell Wallace not to miss the club luncheon tomorrow. There's going to be a good speaker."

Bright Sayings of the Children

While on an outing at Starved Rock, a young father and mother were climbing around a dizzy rocky path with little Joey, aged 4, who began to cry. They tried to shame him by saying a big boy wouldn't be such a cry baby, but still the tears flowed.

When back again to safer location, Joey brightened up again. A little ashamed of being afraid, he turned to his father, and said, "You mustn't think I'm a cry baby; I only wanted to show you how a little boy my size looks when he is scared." W. A. B.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Checking Up on Hospitality.

One evening we went to visit another family to spend a few hours playing cards. Among our crowd it is customary to serve refreshments about 10 o'clock, but this particular night no attempt was made by our hostess. As we were bidding these folk good-by, imagine our embarrassment when our 3 year old boy said, "Thanks for the coffee and eats" as we descended the stairway. Since then we have always been served with a bounteous luncheon at every card party. C. S.

Role of Comforter Often Carries Its Romantic Reward

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"He was the sweetheart of my dearest pal. She died suddenly a year ago, leaving him in a melancholy state of mind. Before her death we three spent much time together. Down deep in my heart I feel he cares for me, but the years spent with his sweetheart seem to haunt him. Frankly speaking, he means the world to me. It hasn't been easy to cheer him up the times we have been out together. We're no longer children, either one of us. He seeks my company; I know he loved my pal. What do you think?

"GLORIA."

I should say the stage was all set for a romance with you in the leading feminine rôle. With some in your position, the loyalty to the departed might be chilling. You admit it's trying. Also, you admit love for the man, and his eagerness to be in your company. You say in your postscript that he will not speak of the girl and you hesitate.

What the atmosphere needs, in which you're both traveling at the moment, is talking about the girl. And why shouldn't the two closest to her talk. Grief can be talked out just as other troubles can. If not talked out, at least compromised with. Especially, where there is genuine sympathy to offer, and this, together with a girl who knew the deceased one well, should be sufficient to break the silence of the man.

Men are known to be peculiarly susceptible to another woman's influence after the sort of bereavement described. It isn't disloyalty, as some silly sentimentalists might hint. It's the need of some one to fill the void.

But the point is that the woman in the case mustn't get herself all involved in melancholy, too. That way you'll never get anywhere with the man. He has to be convinced that life must go on regardless of what bereavements we're called upon to suffer. And that it has to be carried on with high hopes and a heart. It's a delicate position if the man is one of those silent suffering, one woman men. But even these, then, are caught on the rebound more easily than at any other time.

Frocks from 1869 Albums Are in the Newest Style

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Paris is showing evening dresses that are visibly inspired by the finery worn by Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, Empress Eugénie, and Queen Victoria. They have the coquettish dropped shoulder lines, the fitted bodices, and the billowing skirts of that day, but with a difference. All of the crinoline, every stay, and each stiffening device that held the fainting beauty of the Victorian era erect and rigid, are subtracted. The result is something practical for our own flaming youth, and something that has an old fashioned femininity.

To get the crisp billows of the skirt that the belles of the sixties wore, Paris dressmakers use stiff silks that stay put, and this brings back to the mode taffetas, moires, and heavy satins. Changeable taffeta and moire are also part of this style.

The Lyolene frock shown in our sketch shows exactly how cleverly the styles of the sixties have been modernized. This dress is made of robin's egg blue moire which has a silver sheen, being changeable.

The bodice of this dress, held up by two slender moire shoulder straps, is fitted skin tight, but according to modern feminine proportions, with a nice twenty-five inch waistline. The fitting is done in the shaping of the narrow gores that extend to the hipline. Over this bodice is twined a wide, bias band of moire, which begins in the under arm seals, is brought forward and up, and crossed on the bust, whence it passes around the shoulders to give the dropped line, and crosses in back, as shown, tying in a knot at the waistline in the center front.

The skirt is flared into yards and yards below the hips by means of circular gores. It is floor length.

Two Children's Books Combine Science with Good Entertainment

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

It is rather amusing that a well known writer who did some children's books that gained a great deal of publicity a few years ago ended one of them with words to this effect: "And now there is very little left in the world to explore." He must feel a little sheepish when he thinks of the explorations that are going on today—explorations into the arctic regions, the deserts, the jungles, ancient civilisation, the sky and the sea—its surface and its depths.

On some of the sea exploring expeditions went a young man as official artist. Naturally, besides painting and drawing, he had an opportunity to study the "denizens of the deep." He has a fondness for children and is a most entertaining companion for them.

The combination of all these things has made it possible for him to produce two unusual books for children. These two books are "Finger Fins" and "Paddlewings," the text and illustrations by Willard F. Bronson. Both these books have a pleasing form with new broad pages and numerous and often humorous illustrations. But what I like most about them is that they are full of authentic material and give a picture of life in the sea or on the shore that shows the richness and purpose of nature. Of course, Mr. Bronson doesn't present his animals with that obvious aim.

"Paddlewings" in the story of that amusing, touching, funny little fellow—the Galapagos penguin. But it goes back to the life of this particular little Paddlewings and paints a most interesting background for him. Any one who has ever seen one of the sunning little chaps in captivity will be absorbed in the story of his life in his natural home, as told in this book.

"Finger Fins" is the story of a curious little fish found in that curious Sargasso sea—the city of weeds, as it is called in the book. Other sea creatures are told about and their pictures drawn, too, to make the life of the sea real to the young reader.

It is difficult to "age" these two books, published by Macmillan. Some boys and girls of 13 or 14 would find them new and interesting and from there down to 9 or 8 they would appeal, especially if a child had a good deal of nature lore himself.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Request for Head Phones.

"Does any one in your column have a spare set of head phones for a crystal set? I am building one as I cannot afford to buy a radio, and I shall need the head phones. M. H."

Can you supply this man with the phones needed to complete his radio set?

Lack Baby Carriage.

"I have nine little ones, three of them under three years of age. My husband has been earning so little that we can't buy the baby carriage or stroller we need, and I would appreciate so much if you could get one for us. M. M."

With a family of this size, it's not surprising that M. M.'s small income will not permit the buying of a baby carriage.

WEDDINGS

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Louise Fairchild, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Wade Fairchild, former Chicagoan now residing in Glen Ridge, N. J., to Harry Turner Martindale Jr., son of Mrs. Harry Turner Martindale of Glen Ridge, took place on Saturday evening at Christ church in Glen Ridge. Mr. Martindale is to reside in South Orange.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Hirth of Fond du Lac, Wis., announce the marriage of their daughter, Jeanette Mitchell, on Aug. 21, to John F. Ferguson of the Windsmere. The Fergusons have just returned from a camping trip in the Superior National forest and are residing in Jackson Towers, 5555 Everett avenue.

Movie Tableaux to Aid Olivet Institute Fund

BY THALIA

SOCIAL developments yesterday were numerous, varied, and interesting. They indicate quite clearly that it isn't to be such a quiet winter after all. One announcement of a unique and interesting benefit on the November calendar comes from Mrs. William E. Clow Jr., as follows:

Mrs. Howard Linn is arranging a benefit for Olivet institute, to take place on Tuesday, Nov. 17, at Orchestra hall. The program will include a group of tableaux based on Cecil Beaton's "Book of Beauty." Mr. Beaton, you know, is the English artist who photographs the famous beauties of court, stage, and screen. Two of the pictures that are to be reproduced are those of Lady Lavery, formerly Hazel Hertyn of Chicago, and Mrs. Beatrice McLaughlin. Others include Lady Diana Manners, Rosamund Pinchot, Marion Davies and Tallulah Bankhead. Plans for the affair are still in their initial stages, and are being arranged by an executive committee, on which Mrs. Walter Borden, Mrs. Clow, Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., Mrs. Shreve Badger, Mrs. Walter Paepcke, and Mrs. Edison Dick are to serve.

Mrs. William J. Chalmers Gets Plans for Mary Garden Concert.

Mrs. William J. Chalmers is busy with the preparations for the Mary Garden concert at Orchestra hall on Nov. 1, the proceeds of which are to go to the Country Home for Convalescent Crippled Children at Prince Crossing, Ill. There's to be a special board meeting tomorrow morning, and Mrs. Chalmers is to give a luncheon on Friday in the interest of the benefit.

Mr. Robert Hall McCormick is to give a dinner dance for his debutante daughter, Miss Helen Rutherford McCormick, on Saturday evening, Oct. 17, at 8 o'clock at the Casino.

Announcements arrived in Chicago yesterday of the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Langhorne Waller, daughter of Mrs. Edward C. Waller of Lakeside, River Forest, to Spencer Dickinson. The wedding took place very quietly on Saturday at Cuttyhunk, the bride's summer place at Gosnold on Cape Cod, Mass. Besides Mrs. Waller, who went east for the wedding, there were only a few very intimate friends present. Mr. and Mrs. Dickinson's wedding trip destination is unknown, but they are to be at home after Dec. 1 at 1448 Lake Shore drive.

Mr. Adams is an attorney, and has been residing at 1234 North State street. According to the Chicago "Who's Who," he was graduated from Beloit in 1923 and received a postgraduate degree from Yale in 1926. He is interested in travel, golf, and photography, has written a book entitled "Old Salem in Autumn Colors," and has a summer place, Fairview farm, at Shamokin Lake, N. Y., near his birthplace.

Miss E. Williams and Volney F. Righter Wed.

Miss Eleanor McCormick was one of the bridesmaids in the wedding of her friend, Miss Sarah Elizabeth Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson B. Williams of Bedford, N. Y., formerly of Chicago, and Volney Foster Righter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Righter of Greenwich, Conn., and author of the Volney Fosters of Lake Forest. The wedding took place at St. Matthew's church on Saturday afternoon, and was followed by a reception at David's Brook, the Williams' residence. The wedding attendants were blue ruffled net frocks and picture hats of brown velvet, and carried Talisman roses.

It's hard to believe, but it's all in a day's work for the girls on the committee for the Junior league's second food dollies sale on Oct. 15. In response to a telephoned offer of a contribution for the sale, the Street girls, Jessie and Katherine, drove out in the country; O, quite far out in the country, to collect the donation. With perfect gratitude on the ends of their tongues they rang the door bell and were presented with two empty hat boxes. Fortunately for the collectors, the kindness of unparalleled generosity is exceptional, and otherwise the stock of custards is rapidly mounting. The sale is to take place at 213 North Michigan avenue.

Soldiers Coming Here for Conference at Oquantsic.

It's expected that there'll be some out-of-towners from St. Louis and even from Kansas City here for the Thanksgiving steeplechase on Saturday, and it'll be a day or two before they will all have been heard from. The William H. Mitchells are to have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Johnson of St. Louis [Mr. Johnson is Mrs. Russell Forgan's brother] for the week-end. Inasmuch as the Onwentsia hunt members are entering their horses in the hunters' trials in the steeplechase, Sunday's hunt will be in the afternoon at quarter to four instead of in the morning as usual.

David Lancer, Miss Alice Coonley's chestnut gelding hunter, was voted the best horse entered in the model horse show at Great Barrington, Mass., and won the Brookside trophy. The horse won 3 first prizes and a second. Miss Coonley and her sister, Miss Eleanor Coonley, were in charge of arranging the show, which was one of the most important of the fall events in the Berkshires. Their mother, Mrs. Prentiss L. Coonley, gave a luncheon for the judges and show committee at Folly farm the day of the show.

Food Talk.

This morning brings a request from Mrs. L. M. B. for tomato catsup, and another letter from Mrs. A. G. for green tomato mincemeat.

There is no better time than the present to make several jars of mincemeat to have on hand for your Thanksgiving and Christmas pies, and there is no better pie. After all, pie is perhaps the favorite American dessert—at least to the masculine portion of the population, and what is a Thanksgiving dinner without a mince meat pie?

Common as we consider the tomato plant and its fruit, it has an uncommon nickname and was for many years termed a "love apple." This was derived from the Moorish "Pomi de' Mori," which was translated into the French "pommes d'amour"—literally, "apples of love." Hereafter, think of its meaning when you want to beguile your husband into writing a check for a new winter frock. Maybe the old charm will work!

GREEN TOMATO MINCEMEAT.
4 quarts of green tomatoes.
4 quarts of chopped apples.
1 cup of chopped suet.
4 pounds of sugar.
2 packages of raisins.
1 cup of vinegar.
2 tablespoons of salt.
2 tablespoons of cinnamon.
1 ounce of nutmeg.
½ tablespoon of cloves.

Chop the tomatoes very fine and drain. Cover with cold water and boil for thirty minutes. Drain. Parboil twice, draining again, for a short time. Drain after the last parboiling and add all the other ingredients to the tomatoes. Cook together and seal hot in sterile quart jars.

TOMATO CATSUP.

1 peck of ripe tomatoes.
1-3 cup of salt.
2 cups of vinegar.
1 teaspoon of ground cinnamon.
1 teaspoon of ground allspice.
1 teaspoon of mustard.
1 teaspoon of cloves.
½ teaspoon of cayenne.

Peel the tomatoes. Boil until soft and then put through a sieve. Add the salt and vinegar. Boil down until one-half the original amount. When nearly done, put in the spices. Boil once and seal hot in sterile bottles or jars.

CELERY CABBAGE.

Soak a firm head of celery cabbage in cold salted water. Drain. Cook only until tender in rapidly boiling salted water, uncovered. Drain and serve with a white or cream sauce.

CHOCOLATE BAVARIAN CREAM.

1 tablespoon of gelatine.
1 square of unsweetened chocolate.
¼ cup of milk.
¼ cup of sugar.
½ pint of whipping cream.
1 teaspoon of vanilla.

Cover the gelatine with cold water. Put the chocolate, sugar, and milk in a saucepan and bring to a boil. Add the dissolved gelatine. Remove from the fire and add the vanilla. When cool, but not stiff, pour this mixture into the stiffly beaten cream. Mix well. Pour into sherbet glasses and place in the refrigerator.

Yield: Five servings.

THE POWDER THAT IS SEEN AROUND THE WORLD IS PRIMROSE HOUSE BEIGE

We have it on good authority . . . from smart women themselves . . . that this clever shade of powder goes everywhere . . . it is a regular globe-trotter because women who have used it won't stir without it.

Primrose Beige is that tremendously smart shade that fashion prefers this season. And then, it is a CHIFFON powder which means that it is as soft as velvet and as delicate as chiffon . . . yet it clings for hours without caking or clogging the pores. If you haven't seen this smart shade come in and let us show it to you.

Movie Gossip Fresh from Hollywood

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—The joke that nobody stays married in the screen colony more than one year is developing into an organization, sponsored by James Gleason and Joseph Cawthorn. This is the Hollywood Silver Wedding club. Members include besides the Gleasons and Cawthorns, the Ralph Lewises [originally from Evanston, Ill.], the George Fawcetts, the Cecil DeMilles, the Louis Mayers, the Carl Laemmles, the Alec Francises, the Edmund Breeses, Jack Gardner and Louise Dresser, the George Arlisses and the J. Farrell Macdonalds.

The Ernest Torrences and Tom Meighans and Francis Ring are on the waiting list and the Will Rogerses, who were wed in 1908, are possibly the most enthusiastic of the Silver Wedding club neophytes.

All Public School Pupils Get Lessons in Fire Prevention

All public school children this week are having their attention directed to fire prevention. They are receiving prevention instruction in the form of class lectures, addresses in assemblies by teachers and senior students, and in schools, where possible, by firemen.

Marking the sixtieth anniversary of the Chicago fire, the week was officially named fire prevention week in a special proclamation by Gov. Emmerson.

Two hundred children will be guests of the Chicago board of underwriters tomorrow at the weekly luncheon of the Association of Commerce at the Hotel La Salle. A program of talks by officials and public leaders will commemorate the Chicago fire.

Florida Pledges Special Features for 1933 Fair

Florida intends not only to have the outstanding state exhibit at the Century of Progress, but to blaze the path for participation by every southern state. This was the promise of State Senator W. C. Hodges of Tallahassee, active chairman of the Florida World Fair commission, at a luncheon given for the ten Florida commissioners by the exposition officials at the administration building yesterday. He predicted that his state would have available $200,000 for the exhibit. Among the unusual exhibits under consideration, he said, is the carissa, a heart shaped red apple with a custard filling and a new citrus fruit that is four times as sour as a lemon.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S DRESS.

The surplice closing of this smart dress adds softly rippling rever that suits the breadth and makes the dress becoming to figures a little above normal weight. Then, too, the shaped yoke, brought up to the waistline at the left side front, narrows the hipline. The surplice vest does its bit towards slenderness. Black Canton crêpe combined with white or one of the printed silk crepes combined with plain or one of the new woolens would be practical and good looking.

The pattern, 2858, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust measure. Size 38 requires 4⅞ yards of 39 inch material, with ¾ yard of 27 inch contrasting.

How to Order Clotilde Patterns.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—The secretary of the treasury, Andrew W. Mellon, entertained at luncheon today in the hall of the Americas in the Pan-American Union building in honor of the delegates to the Pan-American commercial congress which opened today. In addition to the delegates the company included the secretary of state, H. L. Stimson, and the secretary of commerce, R. P. Lamont.

The assistant secretary of state and Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr returned to their home here this evening after spending Mr. Carr's vacation in Europe.

Miss Anne M. Washington, great great-grandniece of Gen. George Washington, has returned to her home here and joined her mother, Mrs. Lawrence Washington, and her sister, Miss Patricia washington, after spending the summer in Paris. Miss Washington was in charge of hostesses at Mount Vernon at the Paris exposition, being descended from Bushrod Washington, nephew of George Washington, who inherited Mount Vernon from Gen. Washington.

The secretary of agriculture, Arthur M. Hyde, returned this morning from Elkins, W. Va. There he spent the week-end. Mrs. Hyde will join him here the first of December from their home in Trenton, Mo.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson has gone to Hot Springs, Va., accompanied by Miss Frances Scott of Richmond. They made the trip by motor from the Swannonoa club in Virginia.

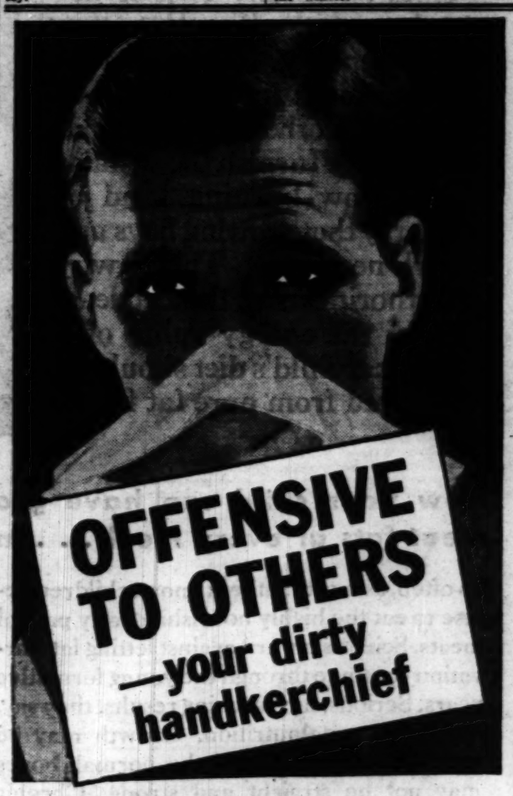
NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Lady Ravensdale is with Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Rosen at 35 West 54th street. The baroness is one of the three daughters of the late Marquis Curzon of Kedleston and succeeded to her title by special remainder in 1925. She is a sister of Lady Cynthia Mosley.

Mrs. Robert Franklin Adams, who was abroad for the summer, has returned to her apartment at 885 Park avenue.

Mrs. E. Hope Slater is due from Europe on the Olympic.

Mrs. Frank N. Doubleday has come from Oyster Bay to the Barclay for the winter.



A clean fresh tissue every time . . . when you use

KLEENEX

Disposable Tissues

YOU can't blame others for avoiding you when you use a dirty handkerchief. It is not only repulsive to look at. It's an actual source of danger, to those about you as well as to yourself. Scientific tests show a single use may pour 240,000 germs into a handkerchief! Think what it must contain after you've carried it all day long!

Use Kleenex

Now! Kleenex tissues end forever the menace of the handkerchief. So inexpensive that you use Kleenex only once, then destroy! No soiled handkerchief goes back to self-infect.

And think of the wonderful convenience! No laundering—and any woman who's washed dirty handkerchiefs knows what that means.

Made from finest rayon-cellulose, Kleenex is far softer, more absorbent than linen.

Other Uses

Try Kleenex for polishing spectacles, manicuring, applying medicines and bandaging minor wounds. Keep a package handy in the kitchen, bath and bedroom—in the car.

For removing face creams, Kleenex has no equal. Sold at all drug, dry goods and department stores.

Disease Germs Found in Handkerchiefs

used during colds have been shown by bacteriological tests to include the Pneumococcus, Streptococcus (pus germs), Staphylococcus, and Catarrhalis.

Vigorous Exercise Is Best Silhouette Remolder on Record

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Certain parts of the human anatomy are more susceptible than others to a burden of excess weight. Some individuals, when they fatten, grow fat all over—but most women are concerned with taking off weight in spots. One type of person carries her excess around the shoulders, back of the neck, and the upper arm. In another type, the waist and abdomen are the most heavily laden. Another class of individual knows the discomfort of extra poundage around the hips and the thighs.

Now, selected exercises are necessary in cases where the fat is so localized. Along with a specified menu, if the scales show an increase over normal weight. If the weight is nearly normal with one part fat burdened and another under-weighted, as often happens, exercise becomes the best silhouette remolder. Exercise directed at the particular fat burdened section.

Possibly the ugliest fat accumulation, the most devastating to a woman's youthful appearance is the fat around the shoulders and back of neck. That crowded neck and shoulder line just destroys every illusion of youthfulness. And, invariably, it is short necked girls and women who are most affected. The surplus weight adds more width and breadth and stubbiness to the section named. No dress neckline is going to help. Nor is the season's broad shouldered dressing going to act as a hideaway for the thick shouldered, short necked type. On the contrary, the gross dimensions are exaggerated.

Swimming is a grand corrective. If you can't swim regularly and at top speed, then you must do your home work. Do these three exercises: First, raise the left arm forward and upward, and the right arm down and back until arms form a straight line. Reverse the position by a forcible swing. Use the lower arm moving up, the upper arm moving down, and repeat often. Then, for second: Raise the arms sidewards and upwards, clap the hands overhead. Swing them down so you can clap them behind the body. To take fat off the back of the neck: clasp the hands behind the neck. While the head resists, pull it forward and downward.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. William Wilharts of the Shoreland hotel announce the engagement of their daughter, Edna Rose, to William Bernstein, also of Chicago.

Desire Defrere to Marry Hilda Burke, Opera Singer

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Hilda Hopkins Burke, former Baltimore choir singer and now a dramatic soprano of the Chicago Civic Opera company, who was divorced from William S. Burke, also of Baltimore, last month, will marry Desire Defrere, a baritone, in New York Wednesday. Mr. Defrere is a member of the Chicago and Ravinia Opera companies.

Reports of the wedding plans were confirmed here today by Mrs. Burke's friends who simultaneously made public the fact that she had successfully terminated her two year fight in Illinois for an absolute divorce from the man she married in July, 1921 when she was 17 years old. She was in Baltimore today, visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Hopkins.

How Do Dancers Manage?

The professional engagements of a dancer make no allowance for the trying time of a woman's monthly sickness. Yet her menstruating must not interfere with her easy, effortless performance. Such women do not "fight" periodic pain, but avoid it. They use Midol, and do not suffer even a twinge of menstrual pain. Why don't you meet these monthly emergencies with this remarkable modern discovery?

Midol takes pain off the calendar. Monthly martyrdom is foolish. For Midol is so harmless as the aspirin tablet you take for your headache! All drug stores; just ask for Midol.

STORM LOSS PUT AT $75,000,000 A YEAR; 350 DIE

Forecaster Donnel Speaks to Insurance Men.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Windstorms and hailstorms take an average yearly toll of more than $75,000,000 and between 350 and 400 lives in the United States, C. A. Donnel, federal meteorologist yesterday informed the officials of mutual insurance and mutual fire insurance companies at the opening of their three day session here.

This great loss, Forecaster Donnel added, was exclusive of the damages wrought by the occasional severe hurricanes that visit our southern coast areas.

Hundred Tornadoes a Year.

"Windstorms of sufficient severity to cause property losses occur somewhere in the United States on more than one half the days of every year," he reported. "Storms of tornadic character average more than 100 a year in number, with estimated property losses of about $15,000,000 and a death toll of about 200. Other windstorms are responsible for an additional ten million dollars damage and at least 50 deaths. Hailstorms cause $50,000,000 loss annually."

Tornadoes are the most intense and destructive of these storms, Donnel pointed out. They occur chiefly in the central and southeastern areas, forming as a "joint product of low and high pressure areas." Best evidence shows that velocities as high as 500 miles an hour are developed by the air currents in the tornado's vortex, sufficient to throw steel trains from their tracks, lift steel bridges from their piers, strip fowls of their feathers and drive straws into boards.

Cites Freaks of Storms.

"Marvelous examples are on record where frail objects were moved lightly by tornadoes," said Mr. Donnel. "A nest with an egg in it was carried away with the wreckage of a barn, but deposited so lightly that the egg was undisturbed. In another case a child was carried some distance by the wind and dropped uninjured, while nearby a horse was mangled and killed.

"Yet the chance that a tornado in any year may cross a particular one mile square area is one in 41,500."

Employment Office Here Fills 707 Jobs in Week

During the week ending Oct. 3, the Illinois free employment office in Chicago filled 707 jobs and received 3,331 applications, according to figures released yesterday by John Keane, general superintendent. The ratio for the previous week was 863 jobs to 2,296 applications, and for the corresponding week in 1930 the ratio was 781 to 2,506. Of jobs filled during the last week, 257 were men and 450 women.

SUPREME COURT OF U. S. BEGINS ITS 143D SETTING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Garmented with dignity and greeted with ritual, the nine justices of the Supreme court filed upon their bench today and began the 143d sitting of the country's highest judicial body. With all the dignity and ritual, a gala air of the first day of school crept in.

Impressively the crier called out, "The honorable, the chief justice and the honorable associate justices of the Supreme court of the United States," as Charles Evans Hughes' spreading whiskers appeared through the side door, and he led the file of black robed figures toward the bench.

Then the whiskers parted in a smile as the chief justice spied Clerk C. Elmore Cropley, bowing in his formal morning coat. The fine, aristocratic face of Justice Holmes relaxed, and he, too, smiled. Affection tinged the interest with which the spectators who crowded the benches regarded the bent figure of the 90 year old justice to see how the summer had dealt with him.

Once on the bench, all concessions to the amenities ceased.

RASKOB DINNER TO START HIS CAMPAIGN FOR DEMOCRATS' FUND

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—The campaign of John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, to raise $1,500,000 to pay the deficit which resulted from the unsuccessful campaign in 1928 to elect Alfred E. Smith President and put the party in fighting shape for the presidential campaign next year, will be started next Tuesday night at a private dinner in the Metropolitan club. Mr. Raskob has issued invitations to about fifty persons.

Preparations for the campaign, which will begin immediately after the dinner, have been under way for the last two weeks by the John Price Jones corporation, which prepared the plan approved by the Democratic national committee last March. This plan called for raising a fund of $6,000,000 in all, only $1,500,000 of which is to be sought before the 1932 campaign begins.

FOIL JAIL BREAK PLOT; SEIZE GIRL AND HER 2 AIDS

Miss Opal Kolin, 19 years old, 1645 Jackson boulevard, and two men were in police custody last night as the result of their alleged participation in a plot to assist the escape of prisoners from the county jail. The men in custody are Nathan Goldman, 23 years old, 2538 Iowa street, and Leo Harris, 24 years old, 1940 Lincoln avenue.

The apparent aim of the plot, which was thwarted early in the day, was to liberate Miss Kolin's sweetheart, Michael Romano, 20 years old, under sentence for robbery, and his 32 fellow prisoners in tier C-1 on the ground floor of the jail. The attempted escape began in the cell tier when John Kukula, a prisoner, slipped out of the cell door as it opened for the removal of the inmates' breakfast buckets and leaped upon a guard, Thomas Sutton. Sutton called for aid and other guards quelled the uprising.

Meanwhile a detective bureau squad, cruising near the jail, came upon Goldman holding a taxicab driver at the point of a pistol, apparently to provide a means of flight for Romano and his confederates. In Goldman's pockets the police found love letters from Miss Kolin to Romano. They seized her in her room with Harris.

UNITED MINE UNION CONVENTION TO OPEN AT SPRINGFIELD TODAY

The thirty-third annual convention of the Illinois district of the United Mine Workers of America will open this morning in the Knights of Columbus hall in Springfield. More than 500 delegates from all parts of the state are expected to attend. John H. Walker, president of the district, will preside.

The Illinois district seceded in 1929 from the national organization, but recently returned to the fold. The convention is expected to be a stormy one because a number of the mine locals have indicated they will fight representation for locals that are not in good standing in all mine workers' associations.

BRIGHT FUTURE SEEN BY CHILE AS MONTERO WINS

(Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.)

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 5.—The triumph of Juan Estaban Montero in the Chile presidential elections brings a sense of relief to a country already sorely tried with economic depression and recent revolution followed by a navy mutiny.

It is considered the winning candidate, with the backing of hitherto antagonistic parties, conservative and radical, will be able to organize a stable government and carry on labor reconstruction started by the civil provisional cabinet which replaced the Ibanez military group.

Montero first came to the foreground of the political arena shortly before Ibanez's downfall when he demanded a legal defense of those imprisoned or deported by the dictatorship. His unflinching attitude brought a deep estimation, particularly in professional groups desiring to see a fearless, cultured man without political tendencies take charge of the improverished government.

SENTENCED FOR STABBING.

George Aron, 36 years old, 2508 Clybourn avenue, was sent to the Bridewell for six months yesterday by Municipal Judge John J. Rooney for stabbing his roommate, John Finn, following a quarrel.

75%

on heat costs with an H & H stoker

We give FREE

10 tons of Stoker Coal

One way to make money on apartments, or any other business for that matter, is by cutting the cost of operation. That is what Leroy Kling, owner of the Oak-Rand Apartments in Oak Park did. Hot water for this 48-apartment building was costing him $67.50 a month to heat. He put in H & H stokers and cut it to $15.45. Do you know any better way to save $52 a month—as much as the payment on Holcomb & Hoke stokers!

To draw your attention to the ideal stoker for apartments—the quietest stoker in the world—we're offering 10 tons of stoker coal FREE. This offer also makes sure that our owners get started with one of the better grades of stoker coal in Chicago.

Here's the most advanced stoker in the industry. Here are 3 genuine improvements you can't buy anywhere else. And the price of an H&H stoker is no greater than any good stoker.

Phone Randolph 7424 or send coupon for more details of this offer.

Note to Chicago Coal Merchants

This sweeping offer will compel us to buy in open market thousands of tons of stoker coal. We expect H&H to outsell all other stokers as a result of this offer. Every ton of coal furnished on this free offer will be purchased by us from some responsible local dealer. We have a thorough plan of co-operation worked out. Our success is yours, too. Phone and let us show you all the facts of our co-operative plan.

Is Fat Starvation exacting these penalties from your child?

2 million school children, authorities say, are suffering from grave forms of malnutrition

- UNDER WEIGHT UNDER HEIGHT
- DROOPING POSTURE
- CHRONIC FATIGUE
- TIMIDITY
- IRRITABILITY
- LACK OF CONCENTRATION
- BACKWARDNESS IN STUDY
- LISTLESS AT PLAY
- ABNORMAL DESIRE TO EAT BETWEEN MEALS
- FREQUENT COLDS
- PALE OR MOTTLED SKIN

In serious cases of malnutrition you should consult your physician without delay.

Without plenty of wholesome fat foods in the diet, children simply cannot develop normally. Fats are sheer energy, 2¼ times more nourishing in this respect than any other form of food. And they furnish the sustaining, slow-burning kind of energy that growing boys and girls need most. That is why authorities say that at least ⅓ of the energy value of a normal child's diet should be derived from pure fat foods.

Now your child can have growth-promoting, health-building meat fats at every meal . . . in this convenient, economical form

So often, as most mothers know, children refuse to eat the highly nourishing fatty part of meats. Scientists warn against letting fat starvation continue through the young formative years. Serious, far-reaching results, they say, may follow malnutrition. Growth may be stunted, weight may not be normal, bones may not be straight and strong. Chronic fatigue and other defects may develop into lifelong handicaps.

Are you sure that your child is getting the sustaining, vitamin-rich fats he needs for proper growth and development? You need not let him run the risk of being fat-starved.

You can give him the wholesome meat fats he needs in a form he is sure to enjoy—GOOD LUCK meat fat margarine. Its economy enables you to let him spread it on thick. Note how he relishes its delicious flavor. And observe how he thrives under its sustaining energy and rich supplies of growth vitamin A and bone-building vitamin D. Use its richness at every opportunity, in all your baking and in seasoning cooked foods, too.

GOOD LUCK Margarine contains the finest of meat fats, abounding in energy. It's a 100% American product, and the U. S. government inspects its making for absolute purity. Good Housekeeping Magazine's Testing Bureau endorses it. University tests show that it is unexcelled among spreads-for-bread tested in growth vitamin A—and first by a wide margin in bone-building vitamin D. Thus it is an ideal food in the daily diet to supply these precious vitamins and sustaining energy to growing boys and girls. Buy a pound of GOOD LUCK when marketing today.

The Growth and Energy Spread

1 Shows growth rate of subjects fed GOOD LUCK meat fat margarine, proving high vitamin A content of GOOD LUCK.

2 Shows growth rate of subjects fed vegetable fats. Marked loss of weight indicates serious absence of growth vitamin A in this kind of fat.

(Further tests proved GOOD LUCK richer in vitamin D than any other spread-for-bread tested)

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Charley Grimm, der kaptink of the Cubs, is one of those good old fashioned Grimm boys to whom $7,421.62 is $7,421.62. This amount, the difference between the winning team's share and the loser's end in the city series, was falling out of Cub view yesterday in the ninth inning when, with the Cubs leading 2 to 1 and one out on first and one out, Danny Taylor executed a double play ball to Jimmy Kerr, designed to end the game.

Jimmy, however, made a poor toss to Cissell, and instead of the series being over, the Cubs had men on second and first with one out. It was at this point that Mr. Grimm made a lightning computation of what the Cub end can do this winter with $7,421.62. Having arrived at the plate, Charley stepped up to the plate and smacked himself a double, scoring two runs and winning the sixth game of the warfare, 3 to 2.

Malone vs. Thomas Today.

And so the rubber game must be played at Wrigley field this afternoon with Pat [One Round] Malone and the gentlemanly Tommy Thomas on the hooked up.

The Sox, forgetting the able pitching of Frasier, probably did not deserve to win. They had eleven men left on base to six for the Cubs, but could not develop the punch that would have put away the game.

It was the third Cub victory decided by a margin of one run, and in two of them Frasier has been the goat despite fine pitching. He lost the second game of the series, also in the ninth inning, by a score of 1 to 0.

Grimm was the hero of yesterday's melee, of course, but Danny Taylor and Vince Barton must be given a share of the spotlight. Taylor scored the first run of the game with a homer in the second and Barton's single in the ninth was what really put the decision on the White Sox. And if you're still looking for heroes, set in Charley Root, who did some swell relief pitching in the last two innings.

Grube Seeks a Battle.

The game offered something besides baseball when Frank Grube, White Sox catcher, had to be carried bodily

IT'S AGAINST LAW TO FUMBLE IN N.U. CAMP THIS WEEK

Coach Dick Hanley waived the customary Monday afternoon rest for his Northwestern regulars yesterday and got under way with a high pressure program designed to get the Wildcats ready for the struggle with Notre Dame at Soldiers' field Saturday.

The trend of the workout, which was conducted secretly for the first time this year, indicated that Coach Hanley is bent on correcting the two major weaknesses which cropped up in last Saturday's game—namely, forward pass offense and defense, and fumbling. Most of yesterday's drill revolved about these phases of the game.

It was these very factors that spelled disaster for the Purple hopes in the Notre Dame game last year. Two fumbles cost Northwestern a touchdown on one occasion while an intercepted pass paved the way for Notre Dame's second touchdown.

Two Declared Ineligible.

Word was received from the dean's office yesterday that Don Massie, end, and James Vail, guard, both letter men, have been declared ineligible. They were next in line for regular jobs and their loss further weakens positions already weak in reserve strength.

A few new plays were added to the Wildcat's repertoire yesterday although Hanley said he had no intentions of building up an elaborate list of plays to use against the Irish. Rather the Wildcats will be content to use a group of well drilled plays and depend upon them to bring results.

There was some apprehension felt in the Wildcat camp yesterday when Reb Russell was unable to participate in the workout. Russell was banged up considerably in the Nebraska encounter. He will be required to take a rest of several days before getting back into harness. Meanwhile Hanley plans to run Ken Meenan in the full back position during practice in the event that he is needed at that assignment Saturday.

Keep Lineup Intact.

Last week's lineup against Nebraska is expected to start intact Saturday. This combination scored three touchdowns against the Cornhuskers in the first 10 minutes of the game. The back field which opened against Nebraska consisted of Pug Rentner and Ken Meenan, half backs; George Potter, quarter back, and Reb Russell, full back.

Coach Hanley still plans to do considerable experimenting with his ends

PURPLE VS. NOTRE DAME.

NORTHWESTERN and Notre Dame, which meet Saturday at Soldiers' field in the most important early game of the 1931 season, came through Saturday against Nebraska and Indiana, respectively, as expected—in fact, just a little better than expected in each instance.

These opening games assured followers of the Purple and Irish that they will be represented by strong elevens this fall, elevens which may match their 1930 records. The results, however, did not solve to any marked extent the question of which team will carry away the victory next Saturday.

Northwestern, against Nebraska, used five of the 29 plays it has stored in its repertoire. Its attack was different from that used against Notre Dame a year ago when Russell's line plunging was the principal source of gain. Instead, Rentner and Meenan were employed in running plays. The speed of these two backs is likely to figure in the Purple offense. Not for several years has Northwestern had enough speed among its heavier backs to get away for long runs. Therefore its rivals could concentrate on a defense against passes and plunges. Rentner supplies a triple threat. So does Olson, a sophomore.

On the other hand, Northwestern was weak on defense against passes. It was such a weakness which cost a 6 to 0 defeat in the Notre Dame game of 1926, when two long passes near the end resulted in a touchdown. Fumbling, which cost the 1930 contest, again was in evidence.

Notre Dame, against Indiana, proved anew that noted stars, seemingly irreplaceable, may be graduated, yet newcomers always arise to take their places. Coach Anderson's first, second and third elevens scored against the Hoosiers, who are rated stronger than last year. Irish backs were given the same blocking and interference on long runs which marked Rockne's offense, while an unusually strong line, even for Notre Dame, thwarted Indiana's attack. Passing was not as successful as usual, but that will be remedied by Saturday.

Both elevens will show a more polished attack and the outcome, as it has several times in the past, may depend on the "breaks" of the game.

In the Wake of Summer.

The sumacs lift their crimson banners in farewell,
The crickets chirp the swan song of the flowers,
And morning mists lie purple in the dell.

The birds feel every chilly wind that blows,
The green of woods is turning now to gold,
And asters take the place of blushing rose.

From so much transient loveliness we part,
Yet there remains some wayside beauty still,
And summer's fragrance lingers in the heart. J. L.

Football Retrospect.

The Wake, in attempting to forecast 56 games Saturday, had 54 winners and two losers. That is an unusually high percentage even early in the year when many one-sided contests are scheduled. Season to date: Ninety-three winners, 6 losers, 2 ties.

The Dartmouth-Buffalo forecast, appearing 7 to 7, was a typographical error. The forecast, as turned in, was 27 to 7. Dartmouth won, 61 to 0.

CALMES KNOCKS OUT WISTORT IN SIXTH ROUND

Baxter Calmes spotted Pete Wistort of South Chicago 27 pounds and then knocked him out in the sixth round last night in the main bout of Miqua Malloy's first indoor show of the season at White City. Calmes had the South Chicagoan reeling at the start of the fifth round and a right cross early in the sixth round ended the bout. About 1,500 watched the fights.

Bud Saltis also was a victor via the knockout route when he sent Ted Ross down for the count in the eighth round with a left hook to the head in the semi-windup. Buck Everett, two time Golden Glove winner, pounded out an eight round decision over Al Friedman of Boston. Clyde Hull staged an uphill battle to earn a draw with Jerry Crano in another eight rounder. Young Stuhley knocked out Harrry Roberts in the third round of the opening bout.

ANDREW RESIGNS AS CARD COACH; REASONS DIFFER

Leroy B. Andrew yesterday announced his resignation as coach of the Chicago Cardinals professional football eleven. This was his first season with the team. He came to the Cardinals after establishing a fine record with the New York Giants.

Dr. David Jones, owner of the Chicago club, said Andrew retired because of urgent business matters at his home in Kansas City.

Andrew, talking from Kansas City, said he quit "because there was nothing else to do."

"No Hard Feeling."

"I have no hard feeling toward Dr. Jones or any members of the team," he said. "I was asked to withhold announcement of my resignation until after next Sunday's game between the Cardinals and Green Bay Packers. I tried to comply with this request, but when I was confronted by a Kansas City newspaper man today I had to tell the truth.

"I expect to be back in the National Professional league as coach of another team next season," he concluded.

It is reported that 17 members of the Cardinals went to Dr. Jones last week while Andrew was in Green Bay scouting the Packers and Bears and urged Jones to dismiss Andrew and turn over the direction of the club to Ernie Nevers. Nevers was coach last season.

May Have Been Style of Play.

There is said to have been objection on the part of last year's holdover players to Andrew's system of play. He favored the single wing back. Nevers, a pupil of Glenn Warner of Stanford, was grounded in the double wing back, which style the Cardinals used last season.

Asked about this last night, Andrew replied: "There probably was some dissatisfaction with the single wing back I installed. I don't believe, though, that Nevers started the trouble. I have regarded him as one of my best friends."

MAROON MAT STAR CRACKS NECK VERTEBRA

Peter Todhunter, University of Chicago wrestler, is in the Billings hospital with a cracked vertebra in his neck. Todhunter was injured three weeks ago diving in Lake Michigan off Jackson park. While university physicians believe that the bone will knit, they say that Todhunter's wrestling days are over.

Hoover's First Throw, a Wild Pitch, Is Rescued by Umpire

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 5.—With the President of the United States on hand to adorn the festivities, the Cardinals won the third game of the world series at Uncle John Shibe's Philadelphia baseball plant this afternoon, 5 to 2, thus assuming a lead of two games to one in this wandering compromise between a sport event, a lodge convention and a national festival.

President Hoover came in early, attended by the usual force of hard-faced secret service men and gold bedight officers of the army and navy, and he sat it out until Al Simmons busted one over the right field wall in the ninth inning.

Mickey Seems Tired for a Young Man.

This was the second and last hit of the day off Burleigh Grimes, a home run which scored Boob McNair ahead. Boob McNair did not figure otherwise in the ball game. He had been sent in to run for Mickey [All-Ears] Cochrane, who had walked. Or perhaps it would be better to say that Mickey had trudged, for he has seemed very tired in this series to date and old Connie Mack, whose long, jiggling shanks and fluttering score card alone were visible from this angle of vision, took him out of there to make room for some one more animated.

This was a strange and rather dire turn because Cochrane is just a young ball player who appears to be burning out under the strain of clean living, right thinking, fresh air and the athletic life.

President Makes a Wild Pitch.

The President threw out the ceremonial first ball, a wild pitch which Dolly Stark, the tallest and nimblest of the umpires, pawed down with a heroic leap, thus sparing the administration just that much embarrassment. Then he was allowed to settle back into obscurity as the players took the field to get on with the world series. It was high time, too, for he had been pumping hands with a persistent press of highly placed local hem-of-the-garment touchers for quite a spell and some press agent had even managed to get an audience for a slim young woman who bobbed up on the infield shortly before game time, wearing horse pants and horse boots, but no horse.

Uncle John's Still Using That Record.

The management supplied a large mess of flowers for the presidential box, but inasmuch as all the music which Uncle John Shibe supplies for his world series customers is synthetic, it seems reasonable to suspect that the flowers also were the artificial kind such as pickle dealers send to the proprietors of new delicatessens with "Good Luck" and "Success" picked out in rubber immortelles.

Aside from a modest yardage of bunting festooned in a sort of rosette across the front of the presidential reservation, there was no ostentatious display to distinguish the opening of the Philadelphia stand of the world series from those games between the Athletics and the White Sox a couple of weeks ago. So it cost Uncle John some outlay to have the President over, and on free tickets, at that.

The governor of Pennsylvania, Mr. Pinchot, was present, too, but the President, of course, topped him, and nobody would have known that he was there if he hadn't been seen belting along on the offside of the crowded streets on the way to the yard, under escort of some motorcycle mounties, with the royal entourage strung out behind in fat black limousines.

Mr. Grimes Hails from Clear Lake, Wis.

Governors and the mayor of New York and their personal friends seem never to start on time for things of this sort. As Mr. Pinchot, who is a dry and opposed to Sunday baseball, went past the stalled lines of the proletariat there were cries of "We want beer," indicating that Philadelphia is tired of whisky and gin. But once in the ball yard, with the President on hand, the people's choice of Pennsylvania was no more distinguished than Joseph Doakes and nobody at all by comparison with Burleigh Grimes.

Mr. Grimes is out of a place in Wisconsin called Clear Lake, and he is one of the few pitchers in the major leagues still licensed to put the ball up to his tongue before throwing and lay on a little dab of the juice of the slippery elm. He is big and solid, and Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 5.—Old Burleigh Grimes in his thirty-eighth year feels better now. The two defeats hung on him in the series of last fall have been wiped off the slate. Grimes came charging back today, held the powerful Athletics to two hits, and led his Cardinal mates to a 5 to 2 victory before 32,786, including President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover. It was the second straight triumph for the National leaguers in the three battles to date.

Martin Stars Again.

Grimes stood out there through two long, hot hours like a thoroughbred bubbling over with youth, but he was only part of the show. Always determined, as is his way, he played the part that has been played by only six other series pitchers. The other part was played by the Cardinal bats. They swung them menacingly in spots, and cocksure Bob Moose Grove, who thought himself invulnerable, was sent along the road which led to dismal defeat.

The tall, sweeping, machinelike Grove was beaten almost before he started, but he didn't know it. Neither did his mates. Bob Moose ran into a cluster of Cardinal hits in the second inning and two runs scored. In the thick of it, hitting like a fiend and running like wind blown fire along dry grass, was John [Pepper] Martin, who with the same hat and legs had given the American leaguers a baseball lesson in the second game.

A's Confidence Fades.

Grove and his mates were those same confident Athletics when the fourth started. Before it finished there wasn't much of it left. It faded out before another assault in which a second pair of runs scored across the plate and in it again was that same hitting, running Pepper Martin, aided in his mischief by old Grimes himself. It fell to Burleigh's lot to enjoy the honor of driving home the two men. That completed the wreckage of Grove, but for good measure the Cardinals scored a run off Leroy Mahaffey, who pitched in the ninth.

Now, about Mr. Grimes and the

PURDUE TO SHIFT LINE FOR ILLINOIS GAME SATURDAY

Zuppke's Sophomores a Big Worry to Kizer.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Purdue's football squad this afternoon was sent through an intensive drill for the Dads' day game with Illinois here Saturday.

"Zuppke is using sophomores in positions where he has letter men available from last year," Coach Kizer told the squad. "That means only one thing to me—those sophomores must be unusual. Don't forget 1927, when Zuppke fooled them all with a gang of sophomores."

Perfection of line play was emphasized during the drill, for the forward wall performance was somewhat ragged in the opening double header Saturday. Kizer intends to make some shifts before Saturday, and may move up some sophomores from the reserves.

Purdue's backs more than lived up to expectations Saturday, and Kizer let them off with a session on forward pass defense today. Boilermaker fans were particularly cheered by the return to form of Alex Yunevich, who gained 220 yards in 11 plays from scrimmage against Cos.

NEW ILLINI ATTACK

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Practice here today showed that Coach Zuppke plans to develop a compact offense for the Purdue game Saturday, rather than rely entirely on the open type of attack used in the St. Louis contest. Part of the drill this afternoon was spent perfecting a lateral pass formation.

Zuppke spent some time pointing out mistakes made in the first contest, during which more than two full teams combined to defeat the Missourians, 20 to 6.

Roy Davis Recovering from Minor Operation

Roy Davis, chairman of the registration committee of the Central A. A. U., yesterday underwent a minor operation at the Keystone hospital. Dr. Lewis K. Eastman reported his condition favorable.

WILDCATS' OLD ENEMY

Marchmont Schwartz, only veteran in the Notre Dame back field, will carry a big part of the Irish attack against Northwestern at Soldiers' field Saturday.

LEWIS-ZBYSZKO WRESTLING BOUT IS SANCTIONED

Sanction for a heavyweight championship wrestling match on Oct. 26 between Strangler Lewis and Wladek Zbyszko was given yesterday to Joe Coffey by the Illinois Athletic commission. Profits of the show will be donated to Gov. Emmerson's unemployment fund.

Although neither Lewis nor Zbyszko holds a claim to the wrestling title, the Illinois commission agreed to recognize the winner as champion, after Jim Londos demanded a guarantee of $250,000 to meet Lewis.

and centers with the idea of bolstering up these positions. Dick Fencl and Ralph Eylar, the starting ends last Saturday, both played good defensive ball, but their forward pass catching is not what Hanley would like.

ANDERSON PESSIMISTIC

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—At the conclusion of Notre Dame's spring practice last April, Coach Hunk Anderson said, "If we can get past Northwestern, we probably will have clear sailing the rest of the year."

Today, as he sent the Notre Dame squad of 115 men through practice for the Northwestern game Saturday, he stuck to the statement, but added another.

"We can play them even in the line," he said, "but our backs are too green to match Rentner, Russell, Meehan, and Moore. I know we'll give them a battle, but we can hardly hope to win."

Anderson has said on other occasions that Notre Dame probably will lose two or three of its games this fall, and Anderson has every reason to say that his team will lose a game here and there.

John Voedisch, end coach who scouted the Wildcats in their game with Nebraska Saturday and made the discovery that most of Northwestern's power is between the tackles, worked with the reserves, teaching them Wildcat formations for use in scrimmage.

The varsity reported for a light signal drill and was sent to the showers early. More intensive work will start tomorrow and there will be plenty both on offense and defense.

60 ILLINOIS PRO GOLFERS TO PLAY FOR RELIEF FUND

Sixty professional golfers of the Illinois Professional Golf association are to meet at the Glen Flora course near Waukegan on Oct. 19, in a special benefit event for the $8,500,000 joint emergency relief fund of Cook county. This announcement was made today by J. Russell Forgan, chairman of the benefits division of the fund.

Three Badgers Promoted to First Team for Auburn Game

Madison, Wis., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—As a result of their showing in the opening games Saturday, Moose Kruger, center; Don Cuthbert, sophomore tackle, and Buckets Goldenberg, blocking back of last year's squad, returned to the Wisconsin varsity today. Goldenberg, who has been used as a running back, was in his old position at quarter back.

Walter [Mickey] McGuire, Hawaiian, who had been out of practice two weeks as the result of an injury, drilled with the varsity at right half back. He may see service Saturday against Auburn, but is more likely to be kept out of scrimmage until the Purdue game, Oct. 17.

Today's drill was devoted to smoothing out the offense, which did not go so well against North Dakota State. The varsity had Thurner and Lovshin at ends, Cuthbert and Capt. Smith, tackles; Kabat and Kranhold, guards; Kruger, center; Goldenberg, quarter; Rebholz and McGuire, halves; Schneller, full back. In the second backfield were Nelson, quarter; Linfor and Elliker, halves; Strain, full back.

NEW AUBURN BACK

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Willis [Firpo] Phipps, sophomore, the best passer on the Auburn team, probably will start at left half back for the Tigers against Wisconsin at Madison Saturday. Phipps will replace Lindley Hatfield, who has been unable to do any rough work since the first game with Birmingham-Southern on account of an injured toe.

Other changes probably will be made in Auburn's starting lineup against Wisconsin. Co-Capt. James Bush and McCollum may be replaced at tackles by Bob Arthur and George Holdcroft or Hannis Prim.

MAROON BACKS BLOCK

Coach Stagg sent the Maroons through a drill on fundamentals yesterday while A. A. Stagg Jr. was teaching the freshmen Michigan plays to be used in scrimmage later this week.

Coach Pat Page insists that the Maroon line will be ineffectual unless the back field men coöperate on blocking. So for the first time in years Coach Stagg set up a blocking dummy yesterday and sent his back field men against it for an hour.

Pat Page Jr. will take a final examination in German today to determine his eligibility. Lou Kanne, the Maroons' long distance punter, reported that he took a final yesterday and will know the result Thursday. Kanne needs an "A" to be eligible.

Paul Stagg appeared in uniform yesterday for the first time since his injury last Monday, but will not risk scrimmage for several days.

NEW PLAYS AT MICHIGAN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Uncertain regarding the attack that Chicago will launch when it invades the Michigan stadium for the first Big Ten game Saturday, Coach Harry Kipke today gave his charges several new plays designed to add power to the Michigan offense. It appears that Michigan, having uncovered a trio of capable ball carriers in Jack Heston, Fay and Everhardus, will rely largely on a running attack.

Hozer, guard and substitute full back, and Renner, reserve half back, were missing from today's workout. Tessmer, who suffered a recurrence of an old back injury Saturday, underwent an X-ray examination today.

Coach Kipke worked in Lindsay, heretofore fourth string quarter back, and indicated that he might find use for the player some place other than on the B team.

IOWA COACH ON WARPATH

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Coach Burt Ingwersen of the University of Iowa today tried to iron out defensive defects in line play which developed in Saturday's 20 to 0 defeat by Pittsburgh. Ingwersen personally demonstrated tackle play and threatened to appear equipped for scrimmage if the line failed to correct Saturday's errors.

YALE COACHES BEGIN TO FRET ABOUT GEORGIA

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Yale football players were told today by Coaches Adam Walsh and Ray Pond, who saw the Southerners play Saturday, that the University of Georgia eleven, which invades the bowl next Saturday, is a stronger playing combination than the team which defeated Yale there last fall.

If Yale has improved over last season, its showing was not apparent last Saturday in the 19 to 0 victory over Maine, and Georgia ranks a slight favorite to win its fourth victory over Yale in five years. The certainty of one of the most brilliant and stubbornly fought games of the season will draw one of the largest crowds to the bowl.

Walsh's coaching of the Yale line today indicated intensive stressing of a defensive against an unusually versatile and powerful back field, which the Yale coaches believe that Georgia possesses in Capt. Austin Downs, Chandler, Roberts, and Dickens.

Yale's back field strategy for the attack against Georgia was directed this afternoon in more than an hour's forward passing offensive by Benny Friedman. Yale probably will take to the air in its effort to reverse its recent experiences with the southerners.

DE PAUL COUNTS ON STAR GUARDS IN FRIDAY GAME

When the De Paul university eleven faces Illinois Wesleyan in De Paul's first home game of the season Friday night at Mills stadium, fans will see two of the finest guards of the middle west. They are Emmett Cowhey and Capt. Everett McClane of De Paul. They weigh no more than 170 pounds but are fast.

HOWARD HAS TO BE CONTENT WITH 2-HORSE PARLAY

His First Entry Beaten by a Neck at Hawthorne.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Little Jack Howard, the giant killer when it comes to slaying the bookmakers made the folks at old Hawthorne sit up and take notice yesterday. Little Jack almost slammed over a three horse parlay with the steeds that he rides. He just missed by the length of a horse's long neck.

But when that neck decision went against him Little Jack went out and won two races for himself and got a good solid price in each instance. Double Heart was the horse that broke up the Howard triple killing. He was beaten by Lamp Black, although he came with such a rush right near the end that it looked like he was going to get the decision. But Lamp Black was running great guns and would not surrender, much to the misery of the little giant killer.

Pole Over Miss Tulsa, Islam.

Put in the Bull Dogger purse, which dragged a lot of good 2 year olds, Little Jack saddled Miss Tulsa. And after she whipped the early leader, Diamond Head, soon after the stretch was started, she won as she pleased by nearly five lengths from Joe Leiter's Prince Farthing, with Red Diamond third. The favorite, Marmion, was far back all the way. On Miss Tulsa Little Jack collected at $8.04 for each $2.00 ticket. And he probably held a lot of those $2.00 ducats, for Little Jack has come to be known as one of the big plungers of the turf.

The Calf Roper purse was next to be decided. Little Jack had Islam in this one. The price against him was 20 to 1 until a couple of minutes before post time. Then Little Jack or somebody bet back all those winnings collected when Miss Tulsa won on him. The odds dropped to 4 to 1. Islam ran just that way. He let the good hearted Flag Bearer make the pace until the turn into the stretch.

Wins by Four Lengths.

Jockey Corbett applied the leather to Islam's flanks and gave him his head. He came along in long, graceful strides and soon had raced to the front. Folks who were stringing along with the Howard horses began running for the cashiers' windows. They romped over there to avoid the crowd. For Islam went on and won by four lengths. He ran the six furlongs in 1:12 1-5, a fine performance. Sundot, the favorite, finished second, and Fiddler, bumped about considerably on the turn, was running well near the end and was in third place.

Nobody knows how much Little Jack won on this double. He would no doubt have won a lot more if Double Heart had not failed him. If Little Jack parlayed as much as $500, which is a small bet for him on his two winners, he took down some $10,000, which isn't a bad afternoon's work in these times.

GRIMES HOLDS A'S TO TWO HITS; CARDS WIN, 5 TO 2

Martin Leads Attack on Lefty Grove.

thirty-eight year old arm that sent the chills scooting up and down the spines of the prides of the American league. Support that helped to make the battle one in a hundred aided him, but that doesn't have to be mentioned. Grimes did enough to be entitled to all the glory. For three innings he kept his foes off base. He walked a man in the fourth. He walked a man in the fifth. The seventh was completed before the Mackmen even blasted Grimes' no hit hopes, which by this time were taking form.

Miller Hits First.

The break in his string of successes came in the eighth. He walked Foxx for a starter, and an instant later Bing Miller hit a single into center. The hit put Foxx on second, a spot not previously touched by one of Connie Mack's notables. It didn't unnerve old Burleigh. He eliminated the next three men, one of them a pinch hitter for whose liner the still agile Frankie Frisch leaped to smother after dashing back on the grass.

What the Athletics did to Grimes after the eighth was just a bit of harmless heroics. After two were out in the ninth he issued his fourth pass of the battle. The next man was the famous Al Simmons, who can be kept in check for so long, but no longer. Simmons had been up three times, once with a mate on base. Once he filed to center. In his next two appearances he drove spitters into the ground for easy infield plays, but he concluded with a lazy drive beyond the right field concrete, giving the Macks their only two runs and at the same time recording his second homer of the series.

A quiet first inning in which nobody survived to become a base runner preceded the unleashing of the Cardinal attack in the second. It began because the sad faced Grove, fearful of Bottomley's deadly long range aim at short right field walls, tried to pitch over the outside corner. He missed the edge and Bottomley walked.

Bottomley Scores for Cards.

There was a sigh of relief from the crowd, strictly Mack partisans, when Foxx moved toward the Cards' dugout to grab a foul by Hafey. Then the same crowd gave a rousing hand to that fleet footed youth from the Oklahoma fields, Mr. Pepper Martin, and he saw to it that the applause was appreciated. He crashed into Grove's first pitch and it sailed straight over second. Haas was playing such a deep center that Bottomley was able to take third without drawing a throw.

Wilson was next and he stood around until two strikes put him in the hole. The predicament apparently didn't disturb him. When he finally took hold of one he lined it low into right center, Bottomley going home with the first run and Martin to third with such speed that he was anchored there before Miller could start the return throw.

An instant later Gelbert boosted a none too deep fly to Miller. It never occurred to the confident Martin that a throw to the plate might get him easily. He just set sail with the catch and checked in at home with the second run before the return peg reached Grove, who intercepted it between first and the plate. Then Grimes took a hand in the action. He was warming up for the fourth. He whipped one toward third so speedily that it caromed off Dykes' glove, but in the next moment Grove had restored quiet by fanning Adams.

Up Comes Pepper.

Grove probably was congratulating himself on a perfect third inning when Hafey came tearing up at the start of the fourth and hammered a wicked grounder past Ump Klem. Then the peppery Martin responded again.

When the drive came down it nicked the top of the right center field wall close to the scoreboard. Another foot and a homer would have been recorded. The ball bounced back like a rifle shot and straight into the hands of Haas. That is all that confined Martin to a double instead of a triple and forced Hafey to halt at third instead of tearing on toward the plate.

The Athletics' infield closed in for a possible play at the plate and Wilson bounced to Dykes, who rifled the ball to first. When Grove pegged too wide to Gelbert it looked as if the super-southpaw was on the verge of folding up, but he shook off the spasm and blasted Gelbert's hopes with a called third strike.

Grimes Drives in Two Runs.

Gruff old Grimes then entered the picture with his second batting achievement. For fully a minute he stalled around the plate, tugging at his cap, pulling at his belt, and in other ways trying to annoy Grove. When Burleigh finally swung he hit a high powered grounder toward right. Bishop made a frantic dive for the ball, but it went hopping on its way, and long before Miller could throw it back to where it might do the American Leaguers any good Hafey and Martin were across the plate.

Grove was plainly groggy in the eighth, his last inning, but his fielders were kind to him. Dykes made the most notable contribution when he dove close to third to stab a terrific liner off Hafey's bat. It was destined for extra bases. Dykes also threw out Martin on an easy chance. Wilson bunted and Dykes figured it was going foul, so he let it roll, but it stayed on the grass. Gelbert singled over short and Grimes then put in another bid for hitting honors, but Simmons pulled down a hard liner.

Possibly it was because they wanted to keep Mahaffey from becoming overly important that the Cards nicked him for a run in the ninth. A pass to Flowers started it. Roettger tried to sacrifice, but the bunt rolled straight to Mahaffey and Flowers was forced at second. Roettger's ankle was bothering him, so Watkins went in to run in his place. Dykes staged another picture play to retire Frisch, putting Watkins on second. Then Bottomley rode him home on a two bagger to the scoreboard.

"Crick" in Neck Fails to Halt Plucky Mr. Grimes

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 5.—(AP)—It was the eighth inning of today's world series game. The Cardinals were at bat, and outside the crowd that filled Shibe park was yelling for the blood of big Burleigh Grimes. Up to that time he had allowed their beloved Athletics one lone hit, and he had been truculent in his attitude.

The crowd saw in Grimes an ill-tempered machine, a man who was mowing down the home boys with remarkable precision and doing his level best to keep a third straight world championship from coming to Philadelphia. Out there in the sunlight, in other words, Grimes was a villain hatching the darkest of plots.

And Bureligh Came Back.

Down in the dim light of the passageway that led to the Cardinals' dugout there was an entirely different Grimes. He stood there almost crying, as the husky trainer of the National league champions grasped him about the chest from behind and squeezed him until something cracked. Then he scrambled back out there, tears in his eyes and fighting mad, determined to pitch that last inning.

There was a close play on a Cardinal at first base. The umpire called him out and you could hear Grimes above all else as he told the arbiter in no uncertain terms, what he thought of him, personally, and his decision. He is a fighting ball player, this bewhiskered veteran who stopped the A's today. He was in pain from a "crick" in his neck, but he would not give either the Athletics or the crowd the satisfaction of realizing his plight.

Who Wouldn't Be Happy.

There was a happy scene in the Cardinals' dressing room after the game as they gathered about Grimes and pumped his hand. They were jubilant. They yelled, they laughed and they predicted they would finish the Athletics without the formality of coming back to St. Louis.

"I knew I could take those guys," chortled Grimes. "They beat me twice last year when I had them all wrapped up, but they couldn't do it today. Yeah, I'd liked to have pitched a no-hitter. But I made the mistake of trying to slip a fast one by Bing Miller in the eighth, and that was that. Simmons got hold of one high and outside in the ninth.'

Gabby Tells All.

Gabby Street's face spread in a wide grin as he herded his athletes into the clubhouse.

"What a game that Grimes pitched," said Gabby to the scribes. "One of the greatest I ever saw. He had everything, especially control. They couldn't get hold of him. And how my boys worked on Grove! We've got the edge now and I think we'll win. We've beaten Mack's two best pitchers—Earnshaw and Grove—in the last two games. That's all we had to do. All my pitchers are ready to go and the whole club is keyed up now. They'll have a hard time stopping us."

Grimes' great form today was a surprise to Connie Mack, venerable pilot of the Athletics.

"He surprised me both as a pitcher and a batter," Mack said. "He apparently was pitching better than he did during the regular season. My boys just couldn't hit him. Martin is the outstanding player in the series. You seldom hear of a rookie dominating the attack as he has.

"Cardinals Deserved Victory."

"But the whole Cardinal team was on its toes, hustling and playing splendid ball throughout, and they deserved to win. Groves' finger did not bother him. I figure he pitched good ball, but the Cardinals were in a hitting mood.

"For the first time in three years, now, we must come from behind if we are to win the championship. If our boys were hitting as during the season I would have more confidence."

Wild Pitch by Hoover Saved by Ump Stark

when he is annoyed he peels his lips back off a couple of big, square china front teeth which are visible even at the vast distance of the Philadelphia press coop.

Last year Mickey Cochrane, then more lively in body and soul than he is today, had him in a temper most of the time, though what the two boys were saying back and forth could not be heard from eight stories up, a height from which the catcher, the hitter, and the umpire look like three men down a well.

Very little of an irritating nature took place to reveal Mr. Grimes' nest-egg teeth today. He was making passes at his mouth with the ball all afternoon, sometimes to dab it with elm juice and sometimes just to make the hitters think so. The first nine hitters went out without resistance, only one ball being hit past the infield, and none of Connie Mack's nice boys saw first base until Bishop walked in the fourth.

After the seventh inning had been and gone without a hit several hundred parties sitting in various parts of the plant murmured, "Seven innings and not a hit," and several hundred other parties sitting beside them, respectively, retorted, "There it goes; that queers everything."

Miller's Hit Spoils Perfect Game.

So in the eighth Bing Miller hit a single, the first of the day off Grimes, and all up and down the press row there was a ripping and whirring as the boys yanked from their typewriters canned introductions beginning, "The perfect ball game, a no hit, no run performance in a world series crowned the great career of Burleigh Grimes when he shut out the Athletics in today's third game in Philadelphia, score blank to nothing. It was the first time in world series history——" and so forth.

The Martin boy from Oklahoma, who caused so much comment in St. Louis in the first two games, made himself very conspicuous again with a single and a double in his first two efforts and two runs for himself and one driven in. He comes to the world series with no proper respect for the opinions of the newspaper boys who have been describing Mose Grove as something quite super, and he has been making chumps of a lot of experts who always spoke well of him, which is no neighborly way to do. But Mose Grove was pretty terrible, and this seems a convenient time to repudiate him and change the subject to Albie Booth.

The unofficial bleachers rigged on the two story housetops across the right field wall from the ball yard were thickly settled with trade, and a cluster of swollen gas bags bearing signs on their bellies tugged and bobbed in the hot, still air on hitching ropes tied to the chimneys. The customers were beginning to leave these bargain seats and were stretching their legs and shaking the wrinkles out of their pants when Al Simmons' home run cleared the wall, hit the pavement, and bounced up on a porch.

A dollar baseball hit out of a major league yard possesses a peculiar fascination. Fifty men and kids went into a fighting tangle, kocking one another down the steps and over the porch railing to get this one, when certainly a dollar dropped into the same crowd would have had no such effect.

The magnates need not worry about their game when people who can't pay the price of a ticket will risk their clothing, even their lives, for a ball.

S. and L. Motors Lose 3 in Woodlawn Pin Upset

The S. & L. Motors last night lost three games to Bishop Hamlin Coals in a Woodlawn Major league upset.

The Cherry Hill Golfers shot high team series with 3,037. Bill Smith's 705 total was the best singles effort and was made possible by games of 243, 226, and 236, which helped to upset the S. & L. Motors.

WORLD SERIES NOTES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 5.—The scoreboard at the world series here carries the players' names in their order of batting. The gentleman who posts the information caused a flurry in the press box when he put Moore in Simmons' place today. The scribes quieted down when they learned that there was nothing wrong with the Milwaukee slugger. The keeper of the board was merely having his little joke.

The day was one of the hottest of world series history. The arena was a mass of shirt fronts.

Paul Derringer, rookie pitcher of the Cardinals, heard his comrades win today. But he didn't see the game. Sinus trouble and a nose infection had him in bed at his hotel and reports of the game came by radio. Derringer said he first noticed pains in his head the day before he pitched the world series opener at St. Louis. Yesterday an abscess in the nose was lanced and the star pitcher ordered to bed.

No brass band was hired to toot a welcome to President Hoover as he walked across a portion of the field to his front row box just before the game. But the management dusted off the old 50 cent phonograph record, "Hail to the Chief," and had it operating on the loud speaker as the executive made his entrance.

The few extra autos driven into town by series spectators proved enough to tie Main street traffic into a knot.

Like to Hunt? Well, Crows Are Plentiful

BY BOB BECKER.

In spite of warm weather and adverse hunting conditions, sportsmen in central Illinois managed to punish the crows a few days ago when squads of hunters swept through several counties with shotguns.

When we were in Monticello, Ill., on the occasion of a two day Izaak Walton league open air conference and sporting program we saw the first returns of the crow hunt in the form of more than 200 of the dead birds strung between two trees. Later in the afternoon squads of hunters checked in with more of these birds which, because of their increase in Illinois, are becoming a menace to nesting game and songbirds.

At the informal "crow conference" in a shady grove on the property of W. F. Lodge, the crow shooters reported that later on when cold weather prevails and the birds have chosen winter roosts, sportsmen can get a lot of sport and, at the same time do something for the game birds of the state by waging a campaign against the "black pirates" of the air.

The conservation department stands ready to cooperate with groups of sportsmen who wish to join in a well-planned campaign against crows.

The most successful shot during the downstate crow shoot was Game Warden Roy Dickson of Cumberland county who used his crow call and shotgun with deadly effect.

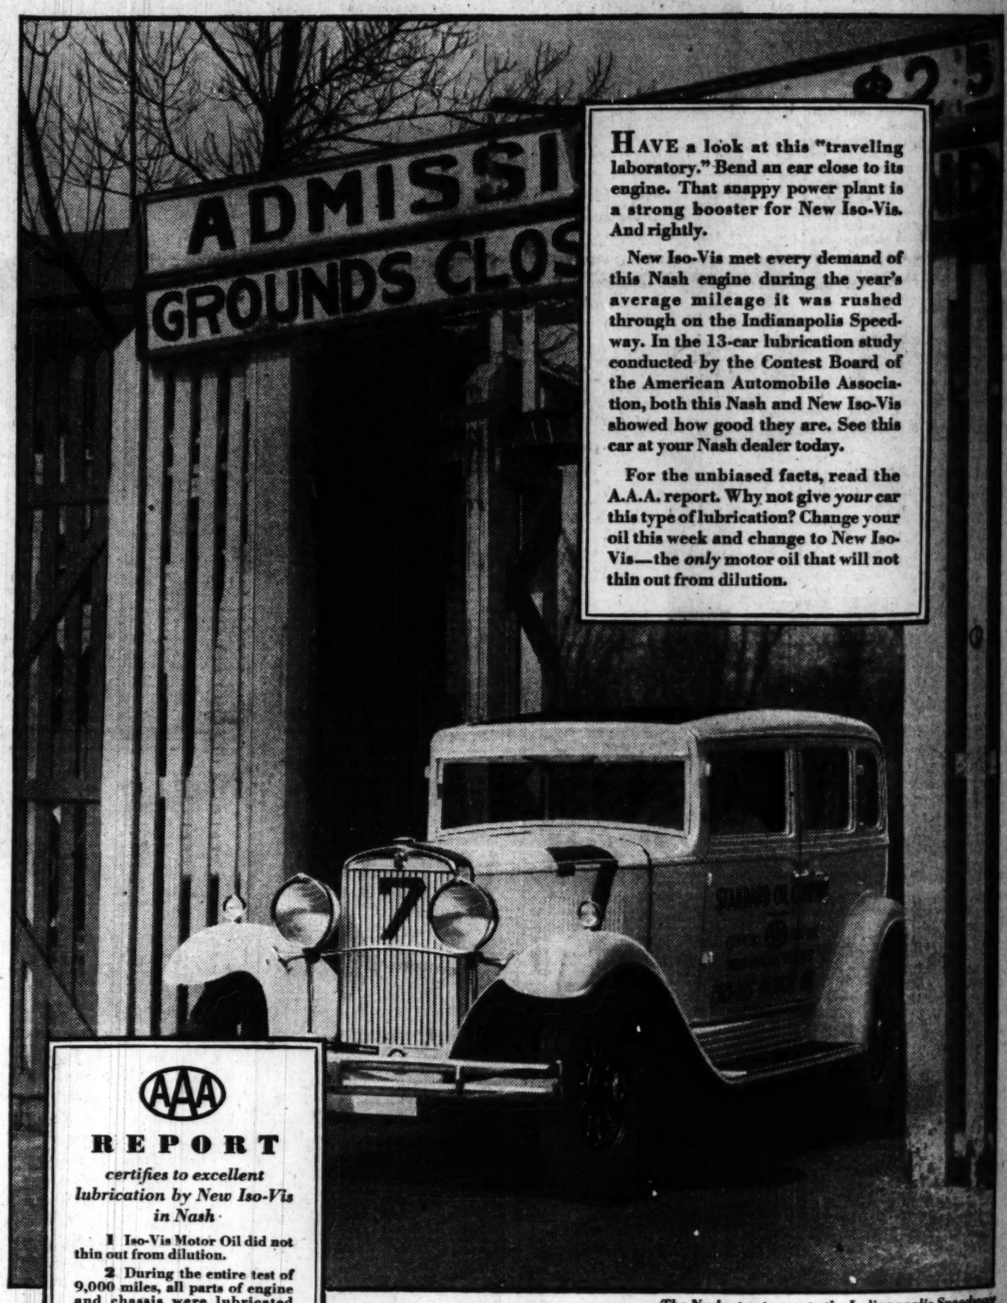
Nash stops here today on LONG ISO-VIS TEST TOUR



HAVE a look at this "traveling laboratory." Bend an ear close to its engine. That snappy power plant is a strong booster for New Iso-Vis. And rightly.

New Iso-Vis met every demand of this Nash engine during the year's average mileage it was rushed through on the Indianapolis Speedway. In the 13-car lubrication study conducted by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association, both this Nash and New Iso-Vis showed how good they are. See this car at your Nash dealer today.

For the unbiased facts, read the A.A.A. report. Why not give your car this type of lubrication? Change your oil this week and change to New Iso-Vis—the only motor oil that will not thin out from dilution.

GRIMM'S DOUBLE IN NINTH DEFEATS WHITE SOX, 3-2

Cubs Even City Series; Play Final Today.

from the field to prevent him from attacking Umpire George Hildebrand during the course of the Cubs' second inning.

For some time American league players have contended that Mr. Hildebrand is stone blind in his right eye, due to a cataract, and at the outset of the game both batteries claimed to have had evidence of Hildebrand's misdeeds. Grube was scarcely sympathetic about Hildebrand's alleged infirmity after Bush had been walked and in an exchange of repartee became too pointed in his remarks.

Upon being ordered from the game Grube became frenzied in his vexation and gave Hildebrand a couple of shoves. He then started swinging, and it became necessary for Coach Mike Kelly to throw Grube to the ground to save Hildebrand from assault.

The score became 1 to 0 in favor of the Cubs with one out in the second inning when Taylor hit the ball into the right field stands. After Gilson had furnished the second putout Hemsley doubled. Bush then walked and the Grube ruckus ensued. After play had been resumed with Tate catching, English fouled to Blue.

The Sox took the lead in the fifth. Watwood opened with a double and went to third on Cissell's sacrifice. Jolley was given an intentional pass. Tom Fonseca singled to left, Watwood scoring and Jolley stopping at second.

Bush Suffers Sprained Ankle.

Blue grounded to Grimm, who threw to English to force Fonseca. Bush ran as first to be ready for the possible completion of a double play and in so doing suffered a sprained ankle. After a delay, Bush resumed and pitched four balls to Sullivan, filling the bases. He then threw three more wide ones to Kerr, forcing in Jolley with the Sox's final run. May then came in and threw out Tate.

In the eighth, with Root pitching, Kerr landed on second when Taylor muffed his hard drive, and went to third on a wild pitch. Herman threw out Tate while Kerr held third. Then Frazier fanned and Norman, who relieved Watwood, was called out on strikes.

Bill grounded out to Kerr to start the ninth. Then Barton lined a single to center. Taylor grounded to Kerr, who was close enough to second to take the play himself. But Johnny elected to toss to Cissell. The toss was none too good, although Cissell, after the game, took the blame for dropping it. This put Barton on second and Taylor on first. Grimm then crashed a double to center, Barton and Taylor scoring easily, and the series was even, three games to three.

MOON MULLINS—A GOOD SEAT FOR THE SERIES

SAY MOON, GIMME A SPANKIN' WILL YA?
I'M AWFUL BUSY RIGHT NOW. I GOTTA REPORT TO MR. PUMPKIN AND START ON MY NEW JOB TODAY.
HECK! I WISH YOU'D TAKE A LITTLE TIME OFF AND GIMME ONE NOW.
SAY HAVE YOU GONE GOOFY, KAYO? I NEVER SEEN YOU BEGGIN' FOR A SPANKIN' BEFORE.
WELL YOU TOLD ME YOU WAS GONNA GIMME ONE THE NEXT TIME I STAYED OUT OF SCHOOL. AND I'M GONNA LISTEN TO THE WORLD'S SERIES ON THE RADIO AT THE CIGAR STORE THIS AFTERNOON AND I DON'T WANTA BE BOTHERED THINKIN' ABOUT IT.

Frasier Has Tough Luck in City Series

The 1931 city series has been unkind to Vic Frasier. He held the Cubs to five hits, but lost the second game, 1 to 0, when Cuyler doubled and scored on Barton's single in the ninth. He yielded only six hits yesterday, and again a single and a double in the ninth proved his undoing by a one run margin.

It is the second time in recent history that the city series has gone the limit. The Cubs won four games to three in 1928.

Guy Bush turned his ankle in rushing to first for a possible double play on Blue in the fifth. Guy, who is one of the gamest men in baseball, tried to resume work immediately, but had to go to the dugout for first aid treatment. When he resumed he pitched four straight balls to Sullivan to fill the bases, then four more to Kerr. Jakie May then came in.

Grube's demonstration in the second inning, though eminently disorderly was a flash of spirit the vehemence of which has not been approached by a White Sox player in the last dozen years.

Manager Donie Bush said last night he had received no communication from Commissioner Landis regarding the status of Grube. It was reported, however, that Benny Tate will catch this afternoon's game.

Had Grube struck Hildebrand he might have been banned from organized baseball. He may have to pay cash for the pushes he gave the umps before Umpire Owens and Sox players stepped in.

The Cubs' fourth was the first inning in which no one reached first base. Three fly balls retired D. Taylor Grimm, and Hemsley.

Yesterday was the first overcoat day of the series.

YOU too, can have A GOOD HEAD OF HAIR . . .

and it costs you nothing to find out HOW

WHEN you were a child your scalp contained the necessary structure to grow 121,630 hairs. This same organic structure remains alive in your scalp as long as you live. It is ready to function as Nature intended it should, when properly stimulated and when relieved of the burden of scalp disorders, such as dandruff, itching scalp or falling hair.

Thomas' treatment does exactly these two things: (1) Cleanses the scalp of all infection and leaves it antiseptically free of baldness-producing germs; (2) stimulates the dormant sources of hair growth. Thus, Thomas' treatment ends dandruff, stops abnormal hair fall and permits hair to grow again on the thin or bald spots. Call at a Thomas' office today for a free scalp examination and learn how this sound, dignified method of preventing baldness and re-growing hair can benefit you. If you prefer, write for the interesting free booklet on the care of the hair and scalp.

Do one of these two things TODAY:

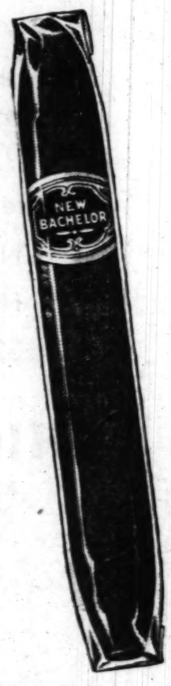
When it comes to five cent cigars

"WHY....UH-H"

is a habit aggravated by show cases and cigar boxes



YOU'RE not alone. Even the executive who snaps out decisions in machine-gun fashion loses his sureness at the cigar-stand before the array of five cent cigars. He starts with "WHY....UH-H" and ends up with 'most anything . . . There just hasn't been a five cent cigar that touches the spot. And so smokers who have wanted honest-to-goodness quality at five cents have been circulating about from brand to brand.

Well, the good news is here at last! Throw out the anchor, pick up the megaphone and call for New Bachelor. Here is a cigar that does itself proud in any company—at rest or under fire. New Bachelor has a character that makes fast friends. Its rich mildness is the result of blending choice tobaccos skillfully. There is no other way.

5 SMALL BANKS IN PENNSYLVANIA FORCED TO CLOSE

Suspensions Reported from Other States.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Ten banks and trust companies in West Virginia and Pennsylvania closed their doors today.

Five of the suspensions were in Washington county, Pennsylvania, and followed upon the reported suicide of W. H. Alexander, 66, a bank official. The institutions to close in Washington county were the Monongahela City Trust company, a state bank, and Alexander & Co., a private bank, both of Monongahela; the Union Trust company, and the Washington Trust company, both of Washington, and the Farmers and Miners National bank of Bentleyville. They reported total deposits of approximately $11,000,000.

At Berkeley Spring, W. Va., the Bank of Morgan County was taken over by the state banking department to conserve deposits of $240,000, and at Fairview, Marion county, West Virginia, the First National bank and the Farmers and Merchants bank did not open pending meetings tomorrow of their boards of directors. They did not reveal the amounts of their deposits. In eastern Pennsylvania, three trust companies were closed by the department of banking. They were the United Security Trust company and the United Security Life Insurance and Trust company of Philadelphia, and the Willow Grove Trust company of Willow Grove.

Fails to Open.

Williamsport, Md., Oct. 5.—(AP)—The Savings Bank of Williamsport, an institution with resources of $344,248 and deposits of $266,693, failed to open today.

South Carolina Bank Closes.

Spartanburg, S. C., Oct. 5.—(AP)—The Merchants and Farmers bank, organized in 1889, failed to open today. The bank showed deposits of $684,014 in its last public statement.

Turned Over to State.

Canton, O., Oct. 5.—(AP)—The Dime Savings Bank of Canton was turned over to the state banking department for liquidation by its directors today. Last June 30 the bank listed assets of $9,455,000 and deposits of $8,658,000.

Bank in Nebraska Closes.

Orchard, Neb., Oct. 5.—(AP)—The Citizens' State bank here failed to open its doors for business this morning and has been placed in the hands of the state department of trade and commerce. Its capitalization is $30,000 and surplus $15,000.

Closes Voluntarily.

Auburn, Neb., Oct. 5.—(AP)—The First National bank here closed voluntarily this morning and officials said they expected to reorganize the institution. Its capital stock was $50,000 and surplus $25,000 at the time of the last statement.

Closed for Liquidation.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 5.—(AP)—State banking department officials announced today the closing of the Venango State bank in Venango for liquidation. Capital stock was $25,000 and deposits about $50,000.

Four in Minnesota.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Four Minnesota banks with deposits totaling $905,000 closed today. Heavy withdrawals caused suspension of the Racine State bank while the State Bank of Watertown ceased operations because of the depleted reserves. The Exchange State Bank of Grand Meadow and the State Bank of Mayer closed to conserve assets. The Grand Meadow bank was the largest, with deposits of $400,000.

Another in Nebraska.

Hastings, Neb., Oct. 5.—(AP)—The First National Bank of Hastings today failed to open its doors for business and federal authorities took charge. At the time of its last statement it carried deposits totaling about $2,165,000. Attempts recently had been made to reorganize the bank.

BANKERS HEAR PLEA FOR RAIL RATE BOOST

Would Aid Credit, Dick Believes.

BY O. A. MATHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 5.—The problem of railroad earnings was brought before the annual convention of the American Bankers' association today.

In discussing the pending application of the carriers for a 15 per cent freight rate increase, Fairman R. Dick of Roosevelt & Son, New York investment bankers, warned that the government must permit the railroads to achieve stability of earnings. Otherwise, he asserted, private capital will refuse to invest in railroad securities and the nation's transportation system will either deteriorate or be forced into public ownership. Mr. Dick presented his views before the savings bank division of the association.

"It is believed by some that when business improves and earnings increase that in time credit will be restored," Mr. Dick said. "I do not believe this is necessarily true. There is great danger that the flow of capital such as existed in the last decade may not be resumed.

Safety Is Required.

"The large bulk of this capital arose from the sale of bonds at low rates of interest to conservative financial institutions, such as savings banks, insurance companies, discount banks, universities, charities, etc. The requirements of these institutions are, primarily, safety and stability. Their funds are not speculative funds. If railroad bonds are not safe and stable investments but speculative investments, they cannot and should not be bought by these institutions.

"All the reliable testimony in this rate case was in accord that the collapse of earnings was not an accident. It has resulted from the narrow margin between gross earnings and expenses. The railroad industry is such that as between times of prosperity and depression large fluctuations in earnings are unavoidable. For credit to be stabilized, therefore, earnings must be sufficient in normal times.

Most Practical Plan.

"It is my belief that the present flight of capital from the railroads is due to the fact that the necessity of adequate earnings during normal years was not recognized by the regulating authorities. To restore confidence and convince investors that the railroads will be permitted adequate earnings in the future some tangible step now must be taken by the interstate commerce commission. The only practical step yet suggested is the proposed rate increase. If confidence is restored I believe that the reservoirs of railroad credit again will be opened, even well in advance of any actual increase in earnings."

Diversion of freight traffic from the railroads to trucks and waterways is not a serious problem, and is unlikely to become so, Mr. Dick asserted. The cost of moving the country's freight by trucks and barges instead of by railroads would be prohibitive, he said. He also decried the vast increase in taxes imposed on the railroads in the last few years. He asserted that if commodities remain at the present price level and freight rates are advanced 15 per cent the relationship between them will be almost back to 1890.

Ask Greater Confidence.

Greater confidence in the country's banks was asked in resolutions adopted by the state bank division.

"It should be emphasized to all patrons of banks in their common interest and for the public good that a bank is dependent on general community support and that any action outside of, as well as within, a bank that weakens its community support is a blow at the community itself," the resolutions read.

"Even the highest efficiency in technical operation can be imperiled by unjustified exhibitions of timidity, unwarranted pessimism as to general conditions, and by unintentional or deliberately false allegations concerning a particular bank, banking systems, or banks in general. It is time for conservative well founded public expressions."

The general sessions of the convention will begin tomorrow and continue through Thursday. Elections of officers will be held on Wednesday.

2 Leading Montreal Stock Brokerage Houses Fail

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 5.—Two of Canada's leading stock brokerage firms went into bankruptcy today. They are McDougall & Cowans and Greenshields & Co. of Montreal, with branches throughout Canada. The two firms were the largest in Montreal as regards volume of business transacted.

Southern Roads Widen Service to Get Business

BY SCRUTATOR.

While the representatives of all the railroads are in Washington petitioning the interstate commerce commission for a horizontal increase of 15 per cent in freight rates a hundred roads in the southwest take a step which virtually amounts to a reduction in rates on an important part of their business.

The carriers have told the commission that so much of their former traffic has been diverted to motor trucks that they will have to get a higher rate on what is left in order to earn a fair return.

Down in the southwest the railroads apparently are following a different line of reasoning. They propose to build up business by offering the shipper more transportation service for the same amount of money and if he doesn't wish to take advantage of the additional service they will reduce his rate.

Start Free Pickup.

On Oct. 1 southwestern lines inaugurated free pickup and delivery service on less than carload lot shipments. Goods are now being transported from the shipper's door to that of the consignee for the same price that it previously cost for transportation from station to station.

An allowance of five cents per hundred pounds is made to shippers who deliver their own goods to the stations of the interested railroads.

The St. Louis Southwestern goes a step further. On Oct. 1 it put into operation schedules that afford overnight deliveries in a 590 mile zone from St. Louis.

Its new fast freight train running on passenger schedule and drawn by a passenger locomotive leaves St. Louis after the close of business at 5:30 and races 400 miles to Pine Bluff in ten hours. Before noon it is in Shreveport, 590 miles distant.

At each of the seven points where stops are made a fleet of trucks awaits the train. This coördination of train and trucks makes it possible for goods sold in St. Louis one day to be ready for sale in Memphis or cities in Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana the morning of the following day.

Service in the East.

A similar train, called the "Maine Bullet," is being operated from Boston to destinations in the state of Maine.

By coördinating rail and truck operations the carriers are merely completing the service they perform. Instead of only providing intermediate transportation from station to station they pick up goods at the shipper's door, haul them by truck to the railway, then by train to the destination point, and finally carry them in another truck to the consignee's door.

Without the trucks the railroad is able to afford complete service only when both the shipper and consignee have sidings.

There seems to be little danger that such arrangements will enable the railroads to gain control of the trucks and operate them for the benefit of the railroads alone. They could operate trucks in connection with the long haul freight service as the express companies have done for years without securing a monopoly of the short haul business.

Room for Both.

There is room in our transportation picture for both a railway owned truck system to be coördinated with long haul freight service and a short haul independent truck service.

If a man is going to ship from Chicago to Springfield he could use either the railroad or an independent truck line, but if he wants to ship to Dallas the truck isn't a practical proposition for most commodities and the coördinated service could be used.

PAN-AMERICAN MEET PONDERS TARIFF TRUCE

Cuban Delegation to Offer Plan Today.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—(AP)—A two year tariff truce will be proposed by the Cuban delegation to the Pan-American commercial conference which convened here today with twenty-one American republics in attendance.

The proposal will be presented at tomorrow's plenary session. The draft says one of the principal causes of the economic crisis affecting the American republics is high duties and a marked tendency to go on increasing them.

Word of the Cuban plan coincided with Mexico City dispatches saying the Mexican delegation would attempt to form an anti-American tariff bloc among the South and Central American groups.

Strawn's Viewpoint.

Silas H. Strawn, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, told the 500 delegates at the opening session of the conference in the colorful hall of Americas that adoption by the southern republics of the American flexible tariff policy would go a long way toward bringing order out of chaos in the world tariff situation.

Secretary Lamont, chairman of the American delegation, stressed the need of expanding the gross volume of international trade rather than attempts to balance commerce between any two countries.

During the two year truce proposed by the Cubans the nations signing the agreement would not increase their duties. Their proposal also sought the creation of a Pan-American economic organization to study the question and propose possible remedies as promptly as possible.

Advises Uncle Sam.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—The government should either get out of business entirely or else take agriculture under its protection, the committee on agriculture of the United States Chamber of Commerce asserted in a report published today.

On the strength of the report, which recently caused the chamber's board of directors to suggest a limitation on short selling on the New York Stock exchange, President Silas H. Strawn has appointed a special committee to study the possibility of liberalizing farm credit.

Pointing out the emergency existing in agriculture, the committee report blamed the short selling of stocks for depressing farm prices and credits and stated that the abandonment of the gold basis by England and other foreign markets will lower the protection of the tariff.

MUST RESTRICT SHORT SELLING, SABATH WARNS

Warning that failure of directors of the New York Stock exchange to restrict short selling of their own volition may result in a demand for suspension of trading until strict regulatory laws are enacted is contained in a letter dispatched to Richard Whitney, president of the exchange, by Congressman A. J. Sabath of Illinois last night.

"I feel it is imperative that short selling should cease immediately," the letter said. "There is no question that the matter of the prohibition of short selling will be taken up in the next session of congress.

"Before congress convenes, however, I am hoping that you will see the justice and righteousness of my position and restrict short selling of your own volition. Failure on your part to heed my warning may result in a demand to suspend all trading on the stock exchange until strict regulatory laws are enacted."

WALGREEN SALES 6.4% HIGHER FOR SEPTEMBER

The Walgreen company, drug chain, yesterday reported a 6.4 per cent gain in its sales during September over the same month last year. Sales in September, 1931, were $4,342,185, in comparison with $4,081,440 last year—an increase of $260,745. Sales for the first nine months of 1931 were $41,052,322, in comparison with $38,685,843 for the same period last year—a gain of $2,366,479, or 6.1 per cent. The number of stores at the end of September was 465.

Montgomery Ward & Co. Reports September Sales

Montgomery Ward & Co. yesterday announced that its sales for September amounted to $17,505,467. This compares with $21,332,573 for September last year, a decline of 17.94 per cent. For the first nine months of the year Ward's sales totaled $157,024,737, compared with $191,153,121 for the corresponding period of last year.

STOCK SELLING UNCHECKED IN LA SALLE STREET

Commonwealth Edison Off 13 Points.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

While La Salle street puzzled over the question of how much lower stocks can go, selling continued unchecked yesterday and shares of all classes broke badly. There was little doubt in the minds of most observers that the bulk of selling represented genuine liquidation and not short selling, which is usually blamed for depressing prices.

Insull Issues Hit.

Utility stocks and particularly the Insull securities were severely hit in yetserday liquidation. Commonwealth Edison crumbled 13 points on an aggregate volume of 5,400 shares. Reflecting the drastic reduction in the market value of the securities held by Insull Utility Investments the common stock of the concern was carried down to 7¾ on a heavy volume of sales. The final quotation of 8 represented a net loss of 2. The company's 6 per cent debentures maturing in 1940, which have sold as high as 94 this year, were quoted yesterday at 39, which was a net shrinkage for the day of 7¾ points.

The absence of support was shown when Insull second preferred slumped 12 points on transactions involving only a few hundred shares. At the close the issue, which is still on a $6 dividend basis, was quoted at 24, off 9 for the day.

Gets Better Support.

Better support was given Middle West Utilities, which held up fairly well under an extremely heavy burden of liquidation. Approximately 44,000 shares were traded in at prices ranging from 9½, it previous closing price, to 8¾, at which it finished yesterday. A statement issued by the concern yesterday said output of the operating units of the system showed a gain of 7.7 per cent in the week ended Oct. 3 as compared with the corresponding week of 1930.

Ten Chain Store Companies Report Gains in September

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 5.—Sales of ten chain store companies reporting for September show a gain in gross sales of 3.5 per cent compared with the month last year. Aggregate sales of the ten companies were $18,994,377 against $18,338,722 in the month last year.

In the first nine months the sales of these chains were 5.4 per cent above the period last year. The total was $173,140,033 against $164,246,394. Eight companies showed gains over last year for the month and eight in the nine months. The compilation excludes restaurant and mail order firms.

W. T. Grant company sales of $5,570,271 for September as compared with $5,286,338 for the corresponding months in 1930, an increase of 5.37 per cent. Sales for the nine months totaled $49,277,825, as compared with $45,493,432 for the like period in 1930, an increase of 8.31 per cent.

Lerner Stores Report.

Lerner stores report September sales of $2,006,393, compared with $1,924,364 in the month last year, an increase of 3.7 per cent. For the nine months sales were $18,234,312, compared with $17,160,776, a gain of 6.2 per cent.

Grand Union company reports sales of $2,709,772 in the four weeks to September 26, compared with $2,675,021 in the period last year, an increase of 1.3 per cent. This was the first gain in dollar volume for any month this year compared with 1930. Sales for the period from January 3 to September 26 were $25,601,855, against $26,403,355 in 1930, a decline of 3 per cent.

Sales of G. C. Murphy company in September were $1,489,656, against $1,343,930 in the month last year, a gain of 10.8 per cent. In the first nine months the sales were $12,945,678, against $11,126,751, an increase of 16.3 per cent.

Edison Bros. Gain.

Sales of Edison Bros. stores in September were $513,210, compared with $471,757 in the month last year, an increase of 8.8 per cent. For the first nine months the sales were $4,331,272, compared with $3,974,851 in the 1930 period, an increase of 40.8 per cent.

Rickford's, Inc., reports September sales of $628,108, compared with $481,047 in the month last year, an increase of 30.5 per cent. In the first nine months the sales were $5,851,693, compared with $4,347,443 in the period last year, an increase of 34.6 per cent.

Kline Bros. company reports September sales of $396,746, compared with $343,909 in the month last year, an increase of 13.7 per cent. For the first nine months the sales were $3,567,459, compared with $3,026,590 in the 1930 period, an increase of 17.9 per cent.

OPERATING NET OF A. T. & T. CO. IS UP IN AUGUST

American Telephone and Telegraph company for August reports gross income of $8,836,209, against $9,194,461 in the same month last year. Net operating income was $2,891,308 against $2,292,229.

For the eight months to Aug. 31 last gross income was $74,218,695, against $76,864,987 in the same period of 1930, while net operating income was $22,947,925, as compared with $22,183,196.

SILVER SCORES SHARP ADVANCE; GAINS ⅞ OF CENT

New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Bar silver today scored one of its sharpest advances in recent weeks.

The metal rose ⅞c in New York to 28⅜c an ounce, following an advance of ⅝d in London to 17¼d.

The price of silver has been on a general decline since late in 1919, when it was as high as $1.37 an ounce.

Kroger Grocery to Spend Million on Expansion

New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—An immediate expansion program involving $1,000,000 was announced today by Albert H. Morrill, president of the Kroger Grocery and Baking company. This expenditure is planned for the erection of a new bread and cake bakery and garage building in St. Louis, Mo., and a new factory, creamery and salvage depot in Cincinnati, O.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 5.—It was possible toward the close of trading on the New York Stock exchange today to buy a share of stock of the United States Steel corporation, the biggest industrial concern of the country, at the unheard of price of $62.25. At the same time the bargain hunter might have had a souvenir share of American Can for $71.62½, one of Consolidated Gas for $61, one of Westinghouse Manufacturing for $39.12½, and one of General Motors for $22.12½.

To such a pass has this worst of all bear share markets come. Two years of almost steady downward progress and still going strong! Today's performance was one of the worst of a long string of breaks that have marked and emphasized the sharp new decline which got under way around Labor day. The losses ranged as high as 17 points, with railroad, utility, chemical, tobacco, and oil shares slaughtered mercilessly and impartially.

United States Steel sustained a net loss of more than 6 points; Allied Chemical, 6⅝; American Telephone, 6⅜; Atchison Railway, 5¼; Auburn Auto, 10; North American, 6; Ingersoll-Rand, 10, and Coca Cola, 5½ points.

Selling Starts with Gong.

Selling went on at a relentless pace from the opening gong to the close of business, and the close found virtually every important stock on the list selling at a new low for the year and in some cases at the lowest in as much as ten years. Union Pacific railroad, indeed, sold under 100 for the first time since 1904.

Brokers were at a loss to account for the heavy selling, concentrated as it was so strongly in some of the country's premier stocks. Failure of two Montreal brokerage houses had an adverse affect upon the market. Foreign and domestic news was searched in vain for a clew to the puzzle. Foreign liquidation undoubtedly was a factor, as it has been ever since the abandonment of the gold standard by Great Britain and Scandinavia upset the foreign exchanges so sharply, but unbiased observers were convinced that the bulk of the selling was domestic in its origin. Some of it was

SEARS-ROEBUCK LEITER LEASE TERMS SHOWN

Will Pay 1½% of All Net Sales as Rent.

BY AL CHASE.

State street's largest and most significant lease in several years, just negotiated between Sears, Roebuck & Co., as lessee, and the estate of Levi E. Leiter, as lessor, for possession of the famous old eight story building at State and Van Buren, once occupied by Siegel, Cooper & Co., was filed for record yesterday, thus disclosing the rental terms. The twenty year lease, which starts on March 1, 1932, and terminates on midnight, Feb. 29, 1957, calls for the payment of 1½ per cent of net sales by Sears, Roebuck & Co. to the Leiter estate. There is no guarantee nor no minimum mentioned in the lease.

In the event that Sears, Roebuck & Co. decide to sublease any of their space the lease provides that the rental must be not less than 30 cents per square foot, and that one-third of the net income from this subleased space must go to the Leiter estate. Sears, Roebuck & Co. also agree not to open any more stores in the district between Grand avenue on the north, Roosevelt road on the south, and east of the north and south branches of the Chicago river.

Will Connect with Subway.

The lease also provides that when the State street subway is built the Leiter estate will pay for all the expenses in connecting the basement of the store with it. The store already has a bridge from the second floor to the State and Van Buren street "L" station platform.

Although Sears, Roebuck & Co. have leased the entire eight story and basement building, a clause in the lease provides that the Leiter estate trustees shall pay for all of the alterations made in the basement and first, second, third, and fourth floors, and that any changes made in the four upper stories shall be at the expense of the lessees.

Big Modernizing Program.

This would indicate, it is pointed out, that Sears, Roebuck & Co. do not at the outset contemplate using more than the basement and the first four floors. A large sum, however, is to be spent remodeling the five floors mentioned, modernizing the elevator service, and probably installing escalators, new show windows, and new and larger entrances.

Mundie and Jensen are architects for the Leiter estate in the remodeling contemplated. Nimmons, Carr & Wright, representing Sears, Roebuck & Co., will be associated with them, with Martin C. Schwab as engineer.

General Asphalt.

Kindly let me know something about General Asphalt stock. Is it speculative?—T. B.

General Asphalt company is an important producer of asphalt, asphalt products and road rolling equipment. About 75 per cent of its business is in this division and about 25 per cent in oil. Its asphalt products and oil come from British West Indies and Venezuela. It has two oil royalty interests in the latter country. A suit was filed in July, 1930, against a subsidiary of Royal Dutch-Shell to protect one of these concessions. The lower court upheld General Asphalt and awarded substantial damages. The decision was reversed by the British Court of Appeals. Suit was taken to the British house of lords, where a final decision is expected this fall.

Annual net income recently has not followed a definite trend. Net for 1930 was $1,006,796 or $2.44 per common share, against $1,757,095 or $2.91 per common share for 1929. For 1928 net income was $913,635 and for 1927, $1,529,172.

For the first half of 1931 net loss was $170,667, against net income of $206,680 or 50 cents per common share for the corresponding 1930 period. Present unfavorable earnings are ascribed to increased competition from asphaltic by-products obtained from crude oil, lessened activity in the fields in which asphalt is used, and the depressed condition in the oil industry. In August, 1931, daily Venezuela crude oil production of the company averaged 258 barrels, against 1,402 barrels daily in August, 1930.

Current position on June 30, 1931, was strong. Current assets were $5,938,298, about ten times current liabilities of $596,173. Cash alone was about $2,156,000.

With the dividend paid Sept. 15, 1931, the annual basis was reduced from $3 to $2. Capitalization consists solely of 412,333 no par common shares.

The common is medium grade and somewhat speculative.

Philadelphia Electric Power.

Would appreciate your opinion on Philadelphia Electric Power company first 5½s, due 1972, as a long term investment.—A. E. G.

Philadelphia Electric Power company, part of the United Gas Improvement system, owns a 378,000 horse power hydro-electric development plant near the mouth of the Susquehanna river. This is leased, part to Susquehanna Electric company, a wholly owned subsidiary, and part to Philadelphia Electric company, its parent company. Philadelphia Electric company, under this lease, agrees to pay all operating and maintenance expenses, taxes and depreciation charges of the property in addition to 7 per cent of the cost of the unit. Interest on the $35,624,000 first 5½s, due 1972, was earned 1.59 times in 1930, against 2.59 times in 1929 and 1.32 times in 1928. The bonds are guaranteed by Susquehanna Power company and are secured by a first mortgage on all property of the issuing company. They are sound.

U. S. STEEL HITS $62¼ AS STOCKS AGAIN DECLINE

ascribed to the liquidation of collateral on bank loans and another considerable share, no doubt, originated with investment trusts. Some of the last named concerns are said to be getting ready for a series of corporation mergers, which are said to be looming in the future. Negotiations for some of these consolidations are already under way from all accounts and the trusts are evidently weeding out the least desirable of the stocks affected.

Railroad Shares Are Hit.

The railroad group was again the target for a continuous barrage of selling orders, and some of the losses in this mutilated division were heavy breaking. New York Central surged to 49¾, against the 132¼ it was selling for only a few months ago. Norfolk and Western tumbled 3 points to a new low of 112. Atchison at the close of trading was showing a net loss of 5¼ points and Union Pacific was off 6⅝.

Utility issues were heavily liquidated, particularly American Telephone, which declined 6⅝ points to a new low record, sharply under its previous bottom. People Gas was again under pressure and yielded to 129. Its high registered during the spring upswing was 256.

Among the specialties G. W. Helme sold off 17¼ points on a couple of sales. The fresh attack on Coca Cola knocked it out of the century club again, leaving the group of stocks still selling above 100 still smaller. Not many more than a dozen stocks are still left in the treasured circle.

We are pleased to announce that

LARD IN FAIR DECLINE

Lard prices averaged lower yesterday, having a range of 5@12½c. A fair trade was on with a little rally at one time, but the break in grains, securities and cotton had a depressing influence. October bellies were bid up 52½c at one time but reacted and closed unchanged. Cash trade was fair for Monday. Hogs were lower with ample supplies. Liverpool lard was 3s 6d to 3s 6d higher. Export clearances of lard for the week were 7,174,000 lbs against 7,026,000 lbs last year. Of March there were 3,172,000 lbs against 2,456,000 lbs last year. Prices follow:

GRAINS WORK LOWER ON STOCK MARKET NEWS

Quotations at New Lows Due to Selling.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Continued demoralization in the stock market in New York was again reflected to some extent yesterday in grains with all deliveries of wheat, corn, and oats and also May rye selling at a new low for the season. Some stop loss orders were uncovered on the way down, but to many observers the grain markets acted as though they had been well liquidated, and the declines were extremely orderly.

December wheat was down to 44¾c at the inside figure, or 1¼c under Saturday's finish, but there was fairly good buying on the way down at times, especially in the May, which was taken at 49½c by houses with eastern connections on resting orders, and there was further buying at 49c. Locals were the best sellers, with routine news having little or no effect.

See No Trend in Wheat.

A canvass of twelve of the leading commission houses on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday showed that trade had no decided opinion as to the trend of the market, although there was a feeling that prices were not a true reflection of the supply and demand position, and that as soon as there was stability in security markets grains would do better.

While there was no material hedging pressure on the Winnipeg wheat market it closed ⅞@1c lower with December quoted at 52⅝c in Canadian currency, which was about 12½ per cent discount as compared with American. Deliveries at interior points in the three northwestern provinces aggregated 2,576,000 bu on Saturday. There was no export demand of consequence reported, and bulk of the trade at Winnipeg was in spreading between the various deliveries. Liverpool closed ¼@⅝d lower, equal to ⅞@1c per bu, with December about 51¼c based on sterling at $3.80.

An unexpected increase of 1,483,000 bu was shown in the domestic visible supply, reversing the trend of late, and the total is 238,109,000 bu, against 202,993,000 bu last year. According to reports to the department of agriculture there was 191,008,000 acres, or 89 per cent of the total grain area in Russia cut by Sept. 10, of which 26,193,000 acres were unthreshed and unricked. Up to Sept. 20 there has been 63,752,000 acres of winter grain seeded or 60 per cent of the "plan."

Country Sells Cash Corn.

Farmers continue to sell old corn at the lowest figures they have been forced to accept since 1901, purchases of 157,000 bu being reported by local handlers from the interior. At the same time the demand from the east was slow with sales of 35,000 bu. While there was some buying of futures credited to local professionals the finish was ¾@⅞c lower with all deliveries at a new low in 20 years, the December closing at 33⅛c to 33¼c after selling at 32¾@32¾c, while March was 35c and May 37c to 37¼c.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

No one is encouraging short sales of grain at these prices as wheat is lower than at any other year in the history of the board of trade, operating under present system. The market is carrying a big line of hedges, but there is said to be practically no short interest. Traders back up this statement by citing the action of the market yesterday and in the closing days of last week. There is a little short interest in the pit, which runs in frequently during the day, creating small rallies, but when this buying is satisfied, prices recede under moderate realizing pressure, or spreading operations.

"There are only two countries now which are making heavy shipments —North America and the Black sea," says the Uhlmann Grain company. Argentine and Australia shipments are not important. Grain on passage decreased 5,000,000 bu last week. Russia, of course, remains an unknown quantity. We have been told now for many weeks that their shipments will drop off, and should this materialize naturally the demands for North American wheat would increase." Mr. Fred Uhlmann expresses the belief that at the end of the year the largest holding of carryover wheat will be in the United States.

Cotton Prices Now Lowest Since 1898

Cotton declined yesterday to the lowest level since 1898 with spots and futures breaking close to the 5c level in southern markets and within 50c of that price in New York. Prices were on the downgrade practically all day, in sympathy with the decline in grains and securities and in the absence of good buying support. The close was around the lowest of the day, with futures in October 7¢@13 points lower, and other markets 5@14 points lower. Spots in New York lost 10 points and closed at 5.50c. New Orleans was off 15 points to 5.18c, Galveston 5.30c, and Houston 5.20c. Liverpool closed 13@18 points net lower.

The Bennett-Miller crop report suggested 14,287,000 bales, compared with 13,605,000 bales in September and the government report last month of 15,685,000 bales. Last year's crop was 13,932,000 bales. Ginnings were materially less than last year.

Heavy hedging sales with inadequate buying support was an important factor in the decline. Exports last week were 256,130 bales, against 305,187 bales last year. Prices follow:

HAROLD TEEN—AND SHE FELLED THE MIGHTY OAK!

WANTED—MALE HELP.
Miscellaneous.

UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY.
TO HONEST, CAPABLE AND DEPENDABLE MEN.

IF YOU are satisfied with your present standing socially, mentally, and financially, do not call and see me. If you feel that you are not making the amount of money you are entitled to, I can offer you a permanent, profitable position, provided you are sincere in your wish to be successful and are willing to pay for that success with hard work.

EXPERIENCE is not necessary in our business, although selling experience can be quite valuable. I must say that some of our most successful men are men that have never had selling experience, but come in here and under our personal training and direction, learn the profession of selling. We instruct you in the simplicity of this profession. Our product is noncompetitive and enjoys a greater sales than anything else in the world ever offered for a similar service. We have completely revolutionized an entire industry by establishing new standards of service.

OUR COMPANY, a $75,000,000 house—an international institution, with branches in 43 countries throughout the world, and the largest of its kind in this particular line, markets a product which is a necessity in today's present standard of living.

THE FOLLOWING FIGURES, taken hastily show earnings during week ending Oct. 3 of some of our men in the city of Chicago:

H. W. HALL, $195.28 last week; E. J. Anderson, a new man, $48.00 in one day; W. Wiche, $195.28 during the week; V. Cerney, $73.00 in 24 hours; L. Jacques, $141.00 last week, $258.00 in last two weeks; J. Bigalke, a new man, $24.00 in 24 hours; C. Peterson, $48.00 in one day; E. Bach, $100.00 in 5 days; Hoffman, $51.00 his first month; W. T. Wilson, $132.05 last week; T. Lind, $122.08 last week; E. Fried, $120.00 last week; E. Powers, $45.50 one day; J. Potey, $69.25 in three days; C. Head, $73.23 last week; J. Hawks, $77.25 last week; W. Michael, $24.00 his second day out; J. Padden, another new man, $24.00 his first day; H. Green, also a new man, $24.00 in one day. Besides the above over 35 men made $25.00 or better on each of the last three days of last week.

SOME OF THE MEN above quoted have been with us one or more years, others one to six months—still some others only a few days or weeks. Their earnings are tangible, concrete evidence of the unlimited money making possibility which our product offers to honest, sincere workers, regardless of their experience or inexperience in selling.

WE HAVE endeavored to present these facts as clearly as possible. If you are seeking a permanent position with successful men with a responsible company, and you can qualify as to character and good habits, see:

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

COMMONWEALTH'S rate on amounts above $100 is substantially lower than the lawful rate usually charged.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signatures of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest at the reduced rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.

Special Plan for Teachers.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The Nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $25 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Household's rate on all loans above $100 is almost one-third lower than the maximum permitted by the small-loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1928, and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the money is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

For example:

The average monthly cost of a $200 loan, repaid in $20 equal monthly payments, is $2.63. This is the lowest cost in Chicago.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Al Capone's celebrated bout the federal government over the ter of his neglected income tax opened before Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday in a speedy and orderly manner.

It took all day instead of half a day to get a jury, but that job was safely out of the way by evening, and after the opening statements of counsel this morning the presentation of the governme dence will begin. The charge Capone defrauded Uncle Sam o $66 in income taxes during the 1924 to 1929.

Green to Open for U. S.

Assistant United States A Dwight H. Green will make th ing statement for the governm morning. The defense is expe reserve its statement, and the lation of evidence will begin a

Both sides used all their pere challenges in the jury selecti under state court rules the e between Capone's lawyers a prosecution might have gone weeks. Judge Wilkerson, h shortened the procedure by d the questioning of veniremen although accepting every sug for a question made to him b neys for either side.
